OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

☞ This paper has a larger Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly circulation than any other in Minnesota, and therefore presents inducements to advertisers which they will not find elsewhere.

ST. PAUL, THURSDAY, JULY 3.

☞ SEE FOURTH PAGE.

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

The PRESS has—in accordance with the facts claimed for the last six months a larger circulation, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, than any other paper in the city or State, and has challenged the Pioneer to compare the circulation of that paper with the PRESS, and make the result public, which challenge has been constantly declined, thus, on the part of the Pioneer, practically admitting the larger circulation of the PRESS. The bills of newspaper for the several editions of the PRESS and Pioneer show conclusively that the circulation of the several editions of the PRESS is nearly two thousand sheets per week greater than the circulation of the Pioneer.

Republican District Convention.

A Republican District Convention, of the Second Congressional District of this State, will assemble at Saint Paul on the 30th inst., at twelve o'clock M., for the purpose of nominating a candidate for MEMBER OF CONGRESS from the Second District.

The different counties in the District will be entitled to be represented in the Convention by delegates who are bona fide residents of the counties from which they are accredited, as follows:

THE NEWS.

The news this morning is sufficiently unsatisfactory—and indeed gloomy—to meet the forebodings of the most despondent.

The censorship of the telegraph prevents full information of the late battle and movements of the army before Richmond. We learn that General Stoneman was cut off, and had retreated to Yorktown.

The latest information is by correspondence from Fortress Monroe, of the 30th—Monday. No official information has been allowed to transpire. Correspondents catch up such reports as seem probably true, or reasonably authenticated.

Our losses in the late battle are stated at ten thousand. The enemy's loss in the attack on our right alone is set down at five thousand.

It is reported that McClellan, with 40,000 men and 1,000 pieces of artillery, had cut his way through White Oak Swamp on his left, and had gained an advantageous position nearer Richmond than ever before.

Whatever strategic advantage has been gained, it now seems evident that the falling back of his right wing was not successfully accomplished.

From Port Royal we learn that the troops at James Island that were operating against Charleston, are being withdrawn and returned to Hilton Head. Thus the long prayed for capture of Charleston is postponed indefinitely, and we suffer the humiliation of having made an attack that has failed.

From the far West, too, we have bad news. Colonel Fitch, at St. Charles, Arkansas, is being pressed by General Hindman, and had spiked the guns and abandoned the fort that he lately captured.

The low water in the White river prevents supplies reaching General Curtis' army, and he will be compelled to retreat into Missouri.

We have reports from Memphis that the enemy is gathering strength to recapture that city, and assume the aggressive generally in the Southwest.

We trust the skies will look brighter, and that we shall greet our readers tomorrow with better news. We may console ourselves with the thought that the darkest hour is just before day.

MORE TROOPS WANTED.

It will be seen that Governor Morgan, of New York, makes a stirring appeal for volunteers to fill up the quota of that State under the late call of the President. To stimulate enlistments, twenty-five dollars is, by a general order of the War Department, authorized to be paid to new recruits, in advance of service.

THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Among the list of incorporators of the Pacific Railroad Company, whose names are in the bill as it passed Congress, we observe the names of Messrs. F. R. E. Cornell, David Blakely, A. D. Seward, Henry A. Swift, and Dwight Woodbury, of Minnesota.

—Wherever our forces, by land or water, penetrate into the Southern Confederacy, they find the people suffering from all the horrors of such a famine as we have sometimes read of as existing among the inhabitants of a long-be sieged city.

THE CALL FOR A REPUBLICAN CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

We publish to-day a call of the State Central Committee for a Republican Convention of the second Congressional District, to meet in St. Paul on the 30th of July, to nominate a candidate for Congress.

It is proper to state, in view of the fact that this call emanates from the State Central Committee, that there is no District Committee, and in the absence of a District Committee the State Committee seemed the only proper authority to act in the matter. It will be seen from the names attached to the call that six of the whole eight members of the Committee were present, and that five out of the six are residents of the second Congressional District.

During the session of the Legislature the Chairman of the State Committee gave notice requesting the members of the Legislature to appoint committees for the respective districts. The members from the First district took action, and appointed a committee. There were but three members from the Second district present at the meeting appointed, and they declined acting. It was, therefore, left for the State Committee to act, as they have done.

We have to express the same regret that we felt last year with the wording of the call. We think that it should have been made to Republicans, and all others ready heartily to co-operate with Republicans, in support of the Administration in prosecuting the war for the effectual suppression of this infamous rebellion.

We are informed that the Committee were prevented from so making the call, by the same technical difficulty that was in the way last year—they thought they had no authority to make other than a straight Republican call, and that it would remain for the Convention to make this action conform to what should be the sentiments of the people in this regard.

THE VALLANDIGHAM DEMOCRACY IN COUNCIL.

Elsewhere in this paper we give a report of the action of the Convention held in this city yesterday, in furtherance of the views and interest of the late National (?) Democratic address of the notorious Vallandigham and his traitor sympathising Coadjutors in Congress.

The response of the Moccasin Democracy of Minnesota in the shape of resolutions passed by the Convention is worthy of the debris that the corrupt and treasonable Administration of James Buchanan left within our borders, and well befits the Vallandigham appeal.

We have not time for this morning's paper to review this forked tongued instrument, that with a glance at first to charm the loyal, hisses its venom against the Government, in nine long counts of a general indictment.

It denounces every necessary act of the Government for self preservation as usurpation, and like James Buchanan in —hapily—his last message takes ground that the rebellion ought to be put down, but would deny any incidental power in the Government to put it down.

In these resolutions there is abundant sympathy for the traitorous newspapars that have been suppressed and the traitors themselves that have been arrested and imprisoned.

True to their old instincts of sympathy with slavery, the Democracy denounces the late treaty for the suppression of the African slave trade as a surrender to the right of search. The resolutions cry out against the burdens of taxation in consequence of the slaveholders' rebellion, just as though the most gigantic war in modern history could be prosecuted without enormous expenditure, and heavy burdens. Thus practically this platform of the Vallandigham party is really and truly in opposition to the war.

We are happy to know that no such platform of hostility to the Government will get half the votes of even the small minority in the State that still cling to the faith and name of the ancient Democracy.

It was cheering evidence of this fact, that such a loyal man as Judge Mahon declined any nomination at the hands of the Convention, upon the express grounds that he could not stand upon the platform.

It was fitting that such a Convention should be presided over by the chief of a State Administration that was hurled from power for its frauds, extravagance, and corruption, whereof the burdens entailed on the people of Minnesota are yet pressing with four-fold the weight of any war tax.

It was fitting that the first nominee of such a convention should be the most prominent Buchanan office holders in the State—reviving the memory of a National Administration that made a record of treason and crime that will forever blacken the pages of our country's history —having the traitor Buchanan for its head, and the thief Floyd, and the robber Cobb for its chief cabinet officers.

—A western paper gives the account of two intelligent gentlemen who have just returned from a visit to our army in the neighborhood of Corinth, and who had excellent opportunities for observation. They report that the health of our army shows a marked improvement within the past few weeks. The list of sick have fallen off, and men by hundreds have returned to their duties in the field. A great part of this improvement is owing to the acclimation of the men.

The News of the Day.

—Balmer Webber, music dealers in St. Louis, were arrested and imprisoned, and their store closed, for selling musical composition of a treasonable character.

"DOWN WITH THE SECESSIONISTS."—It is time this cry, learned by rote and parroted against the Democracy of Illinois, should lose its terrors. —Chicago Times.

To this the Cincinnati Commercial says: "And is it not about time, too, that the cry of "Abolitionist," so long, "learned by rote and parroted" against all who have not submissively bowed to southern politicians and supported the slave propagating and propagandist policy, should lose its terrors?"

—It is a fact that should not be overlooked that the very men who are now most clamorous about "the Constitution as it is," and who profess to regard it as a holy thing, are those who were most rampant, eighteen months ago, for patching the sacred instrument with multitudinous amendments.

—The London Times says: "The Northerners have displayed a spirit which warrants even their own exultation, for they have deliberately collected their strength and asserted their powers, not under the first ignorant impulse of passion, but after a gloomy and discouraging novitiate of disaster."

—A correspondent of the Louisville Express, writing from Atlanta, Georgia, on the 17th, says:

There are 2,500 sick soldiers in the hospitals in this city. There has been great sickness in Beauregard's army, but it is healthier at its present location.

—South Carolina is becoming an embryo Hayti. The Cincinnati Commercial says:

By the report which was made this month to the Secretary of the Treasury of the contraband colony in South Carolina it appears that one hundred and eighty-nine plantations have been put under cultivation, and that the entire number of blacks upon them—men, women and children—is 9,050, of whom 1,429 are field hands. The number of acres of cotton planted is 5,480; the crop is cultivated with the plow and the hoe, and in all respects promises well. Besides the cotton, 5,875 acres of corn, potatoes, and other vegetables have been planted for the support of the blacks and the benefit of the soldiers. That will do pretty well for the commencement of a Hayti. We do not see how the war is to end without the conversion of South Carolina into a negro republic under the protection of the United States. That would only be even handed justice any how.

—The intelligence which we had some days since, through the Charleston papers, of the repulse of our troops at James Island, is confirmed. Gen. Benham, who was the commanding officer of our land forces on the Island, is reported under arrest. He is charged with disobedience of orders, and it is certain that his attack was a succession of blunders, disgraceful to the General and murderous to the troops.

—A correspondent writes: "It is well known that Mr. George Peabody has pocketed a half million dollars the past year in buying up American stocks and bonds in London, and selling them in New York. A few months since, an American, who had some knowledge of his operations, said to him, 'Why do you not buy United States securities?' The reply was, 'Not one dollar of my money shall ever aid in carrying on that unholy war.' Now, no one will pretend to deny Mr. Peabody's right to dispose of his money in his own way; but let every American remember that in his country's great affliction, this man cast the same taunts in her teeth as her bitterest enemies."

A CORRECTION.

HASTINGS, July 1, 1862.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press:

Your issue of last Saturday contained an account of the late Annual Convention of the Church in the Diocese of Minnesota, purporting to be copied, but really abbreviated, from a communication prepared for the Hastings Conserver by myself. In paring down the original for your columns, you have caused a mistake so ludicrous to churchmen as to require explanation.

In describing the Missionary meeting, my article mentioned addresses made by "the Rev. Messrs. Knickerbacker, Evans, Olds and Hinman." Mr. Hinman is Missionary to the Dakotahs; this speech was further noticed and commended. By inadvertently changing the order in which my own name and that of Brother Hinman occur, your paper makes the account to read thus: "Addresses were made by * * * the Rev. Messrs. Knickerbacker, Evans, Hinman and Olds, of the Clergy. The modest and straightforward way in which the latter related his work among the Sioux Indians," &c. Now, my dear sir, as I wish neither to receive credit for self-denying work which I never wrought, nor to appear in the role of a modest man sounding the praises of his own modesty, nor yet to have the good people of my flock at Hastings set down as Sioux Indians, I would respectfully request you to insert this correction in your paper.

GEN. RUFUS KING DECLINES TO SUCCEED FREMONT.

GEN. SIGEL APPOINTED TO THE POST.

From the Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—At his own request, Gen. Rufus King has been permitted to decline the command of the army corps lately commanded by General Fremont, that he may continue to command in person his admirable force, which by incessant care he has brought to a remarkable state of efficiency. Gen. Sigel is said to have been called to the command of General Fremont's corps d'armee, in consequence of King's declination.

Major General Banks, it is said, has signified to the Government his entire acquiescence in the order assigning him to the department of Virginia. There are stories, however, of disaffection, on the part of some other generals.

THE SENATE DEBATE ON WESTERN ARSENALS.

THE HOUSE DISCUSSION ON THE ILLINOIS AND MICHIGAN SHIP CANAL.

THE NATIONAL PERILS BY DELAY.

From the Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, June 20.

Mr. Browning made a vigorous effort to-day to have the location of the Illinois arsenal, in the new arsenal bill, changed from Rock Island to some other point. He first moved to change to Quincy.

Mr. Trumbull opposed this location.

Mr. Browning argued that Alton was too near the St. Louis Arsenal.

Mr. Lane, of Indiana, urged that there should be no change from the bill as reported. The Senate voted down amendments substituting either Alton or Quincy. Mr. Browning then tried to get Rock Island changed to Springfield, but failed. Mr. Wade stated that since this war broke out, the mere transportation of arms from the West to the Springfield, Massachusetts, arsenal for repairs and back had cost more than the whole appropriation for the three arsenals. The bill finally passed. Only Bayard, Browning, Carlile, Davis, Kennedy, King, Powell, and Saulsbury voting against it. It establishes arsenals for deposits and repairs of arms at Columbus, Indianapolis and Rock Island, and appropriates $100,000 for the erection of each. They will be the same as the Springfield, Massachusetts, arsenal except that they will only repair and not manufacture.

The pensions cut off by the Senate today were stopped because the ladies drawing them are avowed secessionists. A pension was granted to the widow of the late Major-General Charles F. Smith, of Paducah, of $50 per month—more than is customary.

The committee of conference on the test oath bill reported that the House should agree to all the Senate amendments but one, and that there should be substituted a clause excepting the President from the requirements of the bill. The Senate adopted the bill as thus amended. The matter did not come up in the House, but the bill is certain to be adopted there. Mr. Fessenden's resolutions requiring the advertisement weekly of contracts granted was passed.

The House spent a whole day on Mr. Arnold's bill to improve the navigation in the Illinois and Desplaines rivers, and deepen the Illinois and Michigan Canal so as to insure navigation for gunboats between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi river, and giving $5,000,000 to the State of Illinois to aid in the performance of this work under the supervision of their legislatures. During the debate Vallandigham, in opposing the bill, declared that the public debt was $912,000,000, and that the average daily expenditures of the Government for fifteen months past was $2,227,911. The accuracy of his figures is utterly denied by others.

The Senate Finance Committee to-day resolved on cutting down the amount of small notes below the amount of five dollars, provided for in the House Treasury Note bill, from $50,000 to $25,000.

It is rumored that Secretary Seward's visit to New York is connected with some recent foreign complications. Nothing is definitely known, however. The conviction is becoming general here that nothing but speedy victories will prevent foreign interference.

Great Storm at Stillwater.

The Messenger says:

This city was visited with one of the severest rain storms last Thursday evening that we have ever witnessed, doing much damage to streets, gardens, &c. The rain continued about fifty minutes, during which time over three inches of rain fell. The storm was unaccompanied by wind, otherwise the damage would have been much greater.

By reason of the mouth of the large sewer on Third street, between Chesnut and Myrtle, being partially closed in order that lots owned by private parties might be filled up and improved, the torrent of water broke over Third street and swept over all the intervening property between that point and Main street, making a perfect wreck of stone walls, fences, gardens and everything within its course, damaging the streets and private property of individuals to the amount of hundreds of dollars.

ST. CROIX MAILS.—We understand that the mails between Hastings and St. Croix Falls will be carried by the steamers H. S. Allen and Enterprise after the first of July—the boats going up and down on alternate days. We congratulate the citizens of the valley upon securing a daily route. By this means the people at either end of the route and intermediate points can secure the morning St. Paul papers and mail matter, via this city, the same day of publication and mailing.—Stillwater Messenger.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—DEFAULT has been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred and eighty three dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice; upon that certain mortgage executed, acknowledged and delivered by John Wesley Bond and Johnnna A. H. Bond, his wife, of Ramsey county, Territory (now State) of Minnesota, to Lowman Hawes, of Bloomington, (late of Madison), State of Indiana, and which bears date August twentieth, (20th) A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and was given to secure the payment of six hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($624.25), in one year from the date thereof, and interest thereon, and was duly recorded at three and a half (3½) o'clock in the afternoon on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of August, in said year (1857), as a mortgage, in Book "L" of mortgages, pages three hundred and three (303) and three hundred and four (304), in the Registry of Deeds of said Ramsey county.

And the said Lowman Hawes, mortgagee, has duly paid the taxes upon the land therein described as lying in the said county of Ramsey, for the years 1858, 1859, 1860 and 1861, and all interest and charges thereon, and has the receipt of the treasurer of the said county of Ramsey therefor, and the same amount so paid and the interest thereon, at the date of this notice, is twenty-eight and fifty-two one-hundredth dollars, ($28.52) and claims no additional lien on the said land in the county of Ramsey, for the same; and no proceedings at law or in equity have been had to collect the said mortgage debt or any part of the same.

And whereas, said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, deceased and died intestate on the eleventh (11th) day of February, A. D. 1861, and upon due application Mary Hawes, of Madison, in the county of Jefferson, State of Indiana, was on the eleventh (11th) day of April, A. D. 1861, duly appointed administratrix of the estate, &c., of said Lowman Hawes, deceased by the Court of Common Pleas, being also a Court of Probate, of said county of Jefferson, and letters of administration have been duly issued to her out of said Court, as administratrix of said estate; an authenticated copy of the said letters of administration and appointment are now on file in the Probate Court in and for the county of Ramsey, in the State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to a power of sale, in said mortgage contained, authorizing and empowering the said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to make sale of the premises therein described upon default being made in the conditions of the said mortgage, and under and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31) in township thirty (30) north of range twenty-three (23) west, lying and being in the county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota: also the southeast quarter (¼) of section two (2), in township thirty-two (32) north, of range twenty-one (21) west, lying and being in the county of Washington and State of Minnesota, with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances belonging, or in anywise appertaining to the said tracts, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash, by the Sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Paul, in said county, at ten (10) of the clock in the forenoon, on Saturday, the sixteenth (16th) day of August, A. D. 1862, to pay said debt, taxes and interest and costs allowed by law.

Dated Saint Paul, Minn., July 1st, 1862.

Gen. Stoneman Cut Off and Retreats to Yorktown.

NEW YORK, July 1.

The Tribune's Fortress Monroe correspondent, of June 30, states that the gunboats in the James river had established communication with Gen. McClellan's left wing.

Dispatches to Flag-officer Goldsboro on Monday, are said to state that the rebel attack on our right was a desperate affair, in which the rebels lost five thousand men. Our loss was also heavy.

Gen. Stoneman was cut off from the right wing, and had retreated to Yorktown, and arrived at Fortress Monroe.

It is futher stated that on his left McClellan, with severe fighting, had passed through White Oak Swamp with 40,000 men and 1,000 pieces of artillery to secure an advantageous position, and had subsequently cut through a line of communication with James river.

It is reported that during the two days' fighting McClellan's loss was 10,000 men. Col. Alexander had come through to James river to select the new base, and Turkey Bend had been decided on. This is about thirty miles from Richmond and ten miles from City Point.

Telegraphic communication beyond Yorktown is cut off, and the officers permit nothing outside the official dispatches for the North to go upon the wires.

BY MAIL TO FORTRESS MONROE, June 30.

The York river is being completely cleared of everything moveable. Steamers and tugs are constantly arriving at Fortress Monroe, having in tow barges, schooners, &c. Many arrived here last evening and during the night. This morning the steamer Spaulding arrived, having eight barges and schooners in tow. She reports that 150 barges, schooners and tow boats were at Yorktown when she left, but all were making preparations to come down.

To-day reports are current that Gen. McClellan has taken Richmond, but there is no good authority for the rumor, the telegraph not being at work and there not being a boat from James river, although one is hourly expected. Schooners have been arriving here all day loaded with cattle, horses, mules, hay, commissary stores, &c. There was nothing left above West Point.

NOTHING NEW FROM BEFORE RICHMOND.

Interesting Correspondence.

NEW YORK, July 2.

The following will show the danger of attempting to perform editorial duties towards the public, and of furnishing news to the public:

BALTIMORE, July 1.—The arrest of C. C. Fulton, one of the proprietors and editors of the American, and his committal to Fort McHenry by order of the Secretary of War, having been made public, the following correspondence in reference thereto becomes necessary. Previous to leaving this city for the fort, Mr. Fulton addressed the following dispatch to President Lincoln:

To the President of the United States:

SIR:—I find myself under arrest and on my way to Fort McHenry. I appeal to you for a hearing and prompt release in behalf of my family, who will be in great distress at the execution of this impracticable order. The Secretary of War authorizedme to publish my statement.

Respectfully, C. C FULTON.

To this the following reply was received:

WASHINGTON, June 30.—C. C. Fuller, Fort McHenry:—I am authorized to say to you that your arrest was made for publishing the statement that you were preparing a detailed account, including facts obtained from Washington, having been sent by a special train to communicate with the President. This is regarded by the President and the War Department as a flagrant and outrageous violation of the confidence with which you were treated. The publication of facts obtained from Washington under such circumstances is a high military crime.

Respectfully,
(signed) E. S. SANFORD,
Military Superintendent.

The statement to which exception was taken is the one published in some of the New York papers of yesterday morning. To the dispatch from Col. Sanford, Mr. Fulton replied as follows:

COLONEL SANFORD—SIR.—The dispatch I sent to New York was a private one, addressed to Mr. Craig for his information as to whether he desired to receive the report I was preparing for the press. It was not intended for publication, and would not have been published if my report had been permitted to go through. I telegraphed, and never dreamed of its being published. To find myself in Fort McHenry, the depot for traitors, is a mortification I cannot express. Having risked both life and property in defending the Union cause when our city was in the possession of traitors, and rendered services as editor and proprietor of the Baltimore American, to the Government in sustaining the laws, which no one has excelled, I ask in common justice that I should at least be released on my parole. CHARLES C. FULTON.

Release of the Baltimore Editor.

WASHINGTON, July 2.

An order has been issued for the release from imprisonment at Fort McHenry of Charles C. Fulton Esq., editor of the Baltimore American, and the Baltimore agent of the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, July 2.

Mr. Fulton was unconditionally released from Fort McHenry at 10 o'clock last night, and reported at his home at one o'clock this morning, to the unqualified satisfaction and joy of the Union men of this city.

FROM ARKANSAS.

Critical Situation of our Forces.

FROM VICKSBURG.

CAIRO, July 1.

Advices from Arkansas are to effect that Gen. Hindman with some 5,000 men was in the immediate vicinity of St. Charles, and that Col. Fitch had abandoned the Fort after spiking the guns. The situation of Gen. Curtis is said to be critical. He being unable to bring up supplies, and his army having been on half rations for more than a week.

Reports are current here to-day that Commodore Farragut had given the authorities of Vicksburg until Monday last to surrender.

Reports via Columbus, Kentucky, by passengers, are that a fight had taken place at Holley Springs, and a bombardment of 12 hours duration had occurred at Vicksburg, but the time of neither engagement is given.

Bounty to be Paid in Advance to Recruits.

NEW YORK, July 1.

The following order has been received in this city from the War Department:

It is ordered that out of the appropriation for collecting, organizing and drilling volunteers, there shall be paid in advance to each recruit for three years or during the war the sum of twenty-five dollars, being one fourth the amount of bounty allowed by law. Such payment to be made on the mustering of the regiment to which such recruits belong in the service of the United States.

Secretary Seward stated that General McClellan was in communication with our fleet on James river. The Secretary also declared there was no truth in the report published this morning that two European Governments had given notice that the war should cease.

Collection of taxes in Insurrectionary Districts.

WASHINGTON, July 2.

The President in accordance with the provisions of the recent action for the collection of direct taxes in the insurrectionary districts within the United States, has issued a proclamation declaring in what States and parts of States insurrection exists namely: South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Virginia, excepting from the last certain named western counties.

News and Miscellany.

—It is whispered that evidences of Ben. Wood's disloyalty are rapidly accumulating upon the hands of the Committee.

—Reports from the interior of Maryland are very encouraging as regards the progress of the emancipation movement.

—General George B. Crittenden has resigned his command in the rebel army, and, it is said, has gone to Texas.

—A letter in the New Bedford Mercury says that the Federal fleet, in James river, was engaged in constructing a canal around Fort Darling, by means of which our gunboats, lead by the Monitor, can reach the rebel capital.

—The Treasurer of the State of Ohio deposited with E. T. Carson, United States Depositary in Cincinnati, on Thursday, $380,000, the amount of the national direct tax assessed on Ohio.

—The Burnet House, in Cincinnati, was sold on Wednesday last for $232,000. The Gazette learns than the house will remain open and continue under the charge of Messrs. Saunders & Co., as heretofore.

—Mary Vickers, Emeline Vickers, Rose Vickers and Kate Vickers, were arrested in Baltimore on the 17th inst., for "plying their vocation" of waving secession flags. The girls threw vitriol on the officers who arrested them.

—Mr. Raymond, in one of his editoria letters to the New York Times from before Richmond, says General Stoneman asked a squad of prisoners, who fell into his hands lately, what they were fighting for; and the reply was: "To support the gentlemen who got us into it."

—Why are railway companies like laundresses? Because they have ironed the whole country, and sometimes do a little mangling.

—The New York Post says that since the first of February there have been forty-four Union victories, or one for every sixty-six hours. Any where else than in this country this would be called rapid progress.

—The amount of sugar destroyed by the New Orleans mob is now estimated at twelve hundred hogsheads; and the quantity left in the city when the rebels fled, now to be shipped North, as equal to ninety thousand hogsheads. It is also stated that in the course of time more cotton than was supposed to exist there will be brought forward.

—The Philadelphians are endeavoring to secure a monopoly of the construction of iron-clad war vessels, by offering to Government a large island, below their present navy-yard, as a site for the necessary work. Congress was not inclined to purchase this location, but if it is donated, an appropriation will be made for the commencement of the work.

—Thus far all the able-bodied contrabands who have found their way to the Government headquarters in this city, have obtained employment. Yesterday an order was sent to Manassas for a hundred more, wanted for labor in the Quartermaster's and other departments. Those who think Washington is overrun with idle negroes, are greatly mistaken.—Washington Correspondence New York Times.

—We learn that a well-known citizen of this place, who had recently returned from the South, was arrested on Monday night and lodged in jail. On yesterday he was taken before Governor Johnson, and asked if he would take the oath of allegiance to the Government. He replied that his conscience would not let him. The Governor immediately handed him over to an officer with an order to carry him beyond our lines, with the warning that if he attempted to return he would be treated as a spy. We have a considerable number of citizens who need the same treatment.—Nashville Union, 25th.

—A military commission is now on a tour through Upper Canada. The Toronto Globe says: "The object of the commission, we understand, is a general examination of the frontier, with a view of preparing upon the most effective means of defending the Province. This includes an inspection of the harbors and of the positions which may hereafter be converted into harbors. The commissioners are on their way from the West, where they have made a general inspection, visiting Lakes Erie and Huron."

—Gen. Pillow, the military maniac and parvenue charlatan commander, has fallen into general disgrace with the secessionists. He is now living near Oxford, Mississippi, terribly awakened from his dreams of martial glory; knowing he is a butt and jest even with the people he declared himself determined to save from Northern invasion. He recently paid a visit to Beauregard at Okolono, and the former was so disgusted with Pillow that he refused to see him. Gideon foamed and raved, and talked of challenging Beauregard, but did not; and returned to his place of residence full of oaths and mortifications.—Nashville Union.

—The Boston Journal says the following incident transpired in a New England city, furnishing a valuable hint to a certain class of individuals:

A friend informs us that at a concert which took place in a town that shall be nameless, last Friday evening, a gentleman in the audience rose up just as the third piece on the programme had been performed, and said: "Mr. Conductor, will you oblige me, sir, by requesting your vocalists either to sing louder or to sing in whispers, as there is a conversation going on close by where I sit that is conducted in such a loud tone as to entirely hinder my enjoyment of the music. I prefer, certainly, to hear the concert; but if I cannot be so privileged, I desire so hear the conversation." There was an extremely quiet and attentive audience in the hall during the rest of the evening.

—The Conservative-Vallandigham-Breckinridge members of Congress held a caucus at Washington on Saturday.—It was a melancholy and beggarly affair, composed of thirty-five individuals who in times past were cheek-by-jowl with all the men who are now the leaders of the present unholy insurrectionary movement in the Southern States. One report of the little affair says:

A series of resolutions was submitted and adopted declaring that they met in no party spirit; that the war should not be prosecuted any further than the suppression of the rebellion, and the States, when the rebellion is suppressed, should repossess and exercise the rights secured them by the constitution. The meeting reaffirmed the Crittenden resolutions.

Another account says:

During the debate before their adoption Mr. Allen, of Ohio, said he looked on emancipation and confiscation with abhorrence. He was sick and tired of debating about confiscation. Mr. Richardson said if the authority of the Government was restored it must be by saying to the masses of the South, "Lay down your arms and you shall not be touched." He wanted this said decisively. Mr. Steele wanted the action postponed till they could get another meeting, but the members refused.

—During the confiscation discussion on Thursday last in the Senate, Mr. Wilkinson moved as an amendment that the slaves of the rebels who were made free by the confiscation law, should be colonized. Whereupon, Mr. Powell moved an additional amendment, providing for the colonization of the rebel masters with their slaves—lonely and lovely in their love, in their exile they should not be divided!

GENERAL BUTLER'S PROCLAMAION IN PARLIAMENT.

The mails of the Arabia bring full reports of the discussion in the House of Lords on Butler's proclamation regarding disorderly women. The pious old fellows in the aristocratic body, the same individuals who had nothing to say when the East India rebels were blown to atoms from the mouths of British guns, and who were calm and quiet when the unoffending Chinese were butchered, and the city given up to a three days' sack to an ignorant and brutal British soldiery, are holding up their hands in holy horror at the enormity of Butler's offence. The Earl of Carnarvon said:

I will not insult the house by commenting upon such a proclamation as this, but it must be perfectly obvious to your lordships that one of two things must be meant. Either it is intended as a reality or a menace. If it was a menace, it was one of the grossest, most brutal, and most unmanly insults to every woman in New Orleans, since it was notorious that there was not a woman in the city who was not devoted to the Confederate cause. On the other hand, if the proclamation be intended to have practical effect, I beg your lordship to observe that, by the terms in which it is couched, it gives more unlimited powers to the Federal soldiers than have ever been given to any soldiers upon the earth.

For my own part, I trust that the American Government will lose no time in disavowing it, if it has not already refused to sanction it. It is of great importance to the character of the American Government that it should do so at once; and, in fact, it is of importance to the whole world, that the usages of war should not be aggravated by proclamations of this character. War of itself is quite horrible enough, and surely it is unnecessary to add to its horrors by such proclamations; and this is a grave offense, not only against this particular population subject to hostilities, but to mankind in general, whose interest it is that the usages of war shall be less rigorous and cruel. I cannot answer for that interpretation, [viz: that it merely enforces a municipal regulation of the city,] being the correct one, and I quite agree with the noble earl, that even if the proclamation is not intended to be put in force, it is likely to give to the soldiery a license which may lead to great brutalities, and therefore I must say that I can discover no real defense for the issue of such a proclamation as this (cheers). I therefore most sincerely hope that the United States Government will at once disavow it, and not only that, but express their marked disapproval of it (hear, hear).

Sir J. Walsh and Mr. Gregory also made speeches, composed mainly of ignorance, impudence and buncombe declamation.

To this offensive intermeddling in our affairs, the Philadelphia Bulletin says: "When the British Government was putting down the rebellion in India, the terrible atrocities practised by its Generals were not made the occasion of criticism and threats by American statesmen and newspapers. Though we shuddered at the accounts of men blown from guns, and other frightful horrors, it was no concern of ours, and we forbore to condemn it. Aut whenever an American General issues an order, even of the mildest kind, John Bull considers it a personal affront. He would like to be consulted on all matters connected with our civil war, and would have it carried on in a way to suit himself, and his dear pets, the slave-owners, slave-breeders, and slave-dealers of the South.

"It is time this insolence of England should be stopped. It has gone too far, already. It now proposes to go still farther, and formal intermeddling, politely styled "mediation," is proposed by some writers and talkers in Parliament. Let England be distinctly informed that such intermeddling will be a cause of war with the United States. Let the same information be given to France, though her conduct and that of her press and public men has not been nearly so offensive. But let Europe know that all interference with the American civil war, except to urge the rebels to immediate submission, will be regarded as a national offense, and that we are ready to repel such interference by arms. Then let us see how England and France would behave. After the experience they have just had with armed intervention in Mexico, they will be in no hurry to try it again in a great nation like the United States, with an army of half a million of men in the field, and the largest iron-clad fleet in the world."

A TORY DIATRIBE AGAINST THE NORTH.
From the London Herald, June 14.

If we do not act with her, France is very likely at last to act alone; and it is not for the interests of England that she should do so. Happen what may, we have in the United States a greedy, unscrupulous foe. They will not hate us less because we do not interfere; they do not hate us less because we have treated them with undue and most undeserved leniency and forbearance. They will not hate us more because we have forced upon them a peace to which they would not willingly consent. We must reckon upon them as enemies, who will do us all the harm they can; we must remember that whatever may be our conduct during the war, we shall have at its close to defend Canada against them by force of arms; and we ought not wantonly to throw away the chance of securing on their southern frontier a powerful, high-spirited and grateful ally. If next to their own courage and endurance, the Confederate States owe their independence to the joint action of England and France, we may be sure that we shall find them the staunchest of our friends, as they are among the nearest of our kindred. If they owe relief from a cruel, a wicked, a desolating invasion to France alone, they will accuse England, naturally and not very unjustly, of having turned away from her duty in order to avoid giving them assistance; they will repeat justly that complaint of partiality which the North makes with truth and without sincerity; and in our need we may be well assured that we shall not have their sympathy or their aid. If we allow France to act alone in this matter; if we turn aside from the path indicated by sound policy, by common sense, by our own interests, and by the interests of justice and humanity—if we desert in favor of France, in complaisance to the North, in dislike or indifference to the South, our station and our functions as one of the first powers—as the first maratime and commercial power—in the world, we shall incur the contempt of our ally, we shall not appease the hatred of our enemy, we shall not forfeit a valuable friend, and we shall probably attone for our laches by frightful sacrifices of blood and treasure.

The interference of one or both of the great European powers would destroy at once the arm which has enabled the inferior soldiery of the North to advance so far into the enemy's country. If that interference were, through the obstinacy of the Washington Cabinet, to become forcible instead of mediatory, not only would the Northern navy be swept from the seas and the blockade of Charleston and Mobile transferred to New York and Boston, but the Northern gunboats would disappear from the rivers, the Northern divisions at New Orleans, Port Royal, and perhaps at Norfolk, would become prisoners of war; and the southern armies, well supplied with arms and ammunition, would drive before them an enemy who, despite his enormous superiority in materiel, is not able now to meet them in the field on equal terms. In a month or two the confederate States would be cleared of Federal soldiers; and acquiescence in the terms of peace offered by the interveners would be the condition of the immunity of the northern seaports and of the release of some thirty or forty thousand northern prisoners. What cotton exists would come forward, and a full crop would be planted for next year. Those who imagine that the cabinet of Washington would be mad or selfish enough to resist the determined interference of England and France, or France alone, may possibly estimate justly the statesmanship of Mr. Lincoln and the honesty of Mr. Seward; those who dream that such a resistance could be successful, are utterly beyond the pale of argument.

ENGLISH BASIS OF SEPARATION BETWEEN THE NORTH AND SOUTH.

The London Economist has an article in favor of immediate intervention in our affairs. It has settled on a basis of separation, which it will kindly allow the people of the United States to adopt. It says they will permit the North to retain Maryland, Delaware, Western Virginia, Kentucky, Missouri and Texas, and a portion of Tennessee. The balance of the Southern States must form the Southern Republic, Kingdom or Empire. It says the Mississippi river need not necessarily interfere with this arrangement, as the Danube and the Rhine, are European rivers common to several States, and are never attempted to be closed by any; and if the chivalric South should attempt to obstruct the navigation of that stream, all the North need do is to lay the case before the gentle and sweet-scented British Paul Prys, and they would make it all right! The Economist winds up its article thus:

"The boundary we have thus roughly indicated would in fact offer almost a natural division. The number of slaves residing in the district it would assign to the North would not exceed 500,000, and these might either be purchased and set free, or allowed to proceed southward with their masters. Slavery would then be confined within definite limits, which, being surrounded on all sides by Free States, it could never pass. The Northern Federation would be liberated at once from its dangers and from its shame; and the Southern Confederacy would find itself alone with the tremendous problem, which it must solve or die. The free North and West would be enormously preponderant in extent, in population, and in power, and might separate or remain united as they pleased. The South would, though greatly reduced from their original pretensions, be still in possession of a vast and fertile territory, nearly 500,000 square miles in extent, or nearly equal to France, England and Austria combined.

THE THUNDERER URGING ON FRANCE.
From the London Times, June 14.

An offer of mediation at the present time cannot amount only to an expression of opinion on the probable issue of the war. As we have before said, it is not the smallest chance that it would be accepted by the Federals, who, flushed with their successes in Tennessee and Louisiana, and proud of their vast levies and buoyant currency, still look upon the conquest of the South as merely the work of a month or two. The endurance, the courage, and the bitter animosity of their enemy are facts which only a few among them are beginning to appreciate. We may, then, look on an angry refusal from the Washington government and an outburst of denunciation from the Northern people generally as certain to follow any advice of ours. But, considering the jealousy of our very action which prevails through the States, it is perhaps, the better that England should not take the initiative, even in tendering good offices. If the Emperor of the French thinks the moment opportune for telling the Northern people that, in his opinion, the subjugation of several millions of their own race is an enterprise beyond their strength, and that the attempt is causing intolerable suffering in Europe, he is at perfect liberty to do so, and Englishmen will be glad to see good advice offered by a personage who is far more likely to be listened to than any of our statesmen.

THE MEDIATION PROJECT.
From the Daily News, June 13.

There is a peculiar power in a great war to fascinate surrounding observers, and draw them gradually into its vortex. We experienced this strong attraction in the spring of 1859, when all the self-command of the nation was only just sufficient to retain it in a neutrality which its reason approved. The American war does not appeal so plainly to the sympathies of the great body of Englishmen as did the Italian war between Austria and France; and yet we see every now and then an outbreak of impatience among classes very powerful to control the policy of the country. Those who are disposed to think lightly of these manifestations, and who trust impliciily in the continuance of peace because neutrality in the present contest is the unmistakeable wish of the nation, should beware lest they undervalue organized opinion which, able to act by surprise, may one day take advantage of some accidental event to lead the country into some irreparable mistake. The attempt is once more made to familiarize us with the idea of intervention by discussing it as a project of the Emperor of the French. It is said that this potentate is about to offer that amicable comsel which must never be refused when offered in earnest, and restore to the slave power that position which it has lost by the swords of freemen, How this may be we know not. We gladly leave to others the interpretation of counsels worthy of the murderer of his country's liberties.

Englishmen have many reasons for wishing that the French Emperor should not carry out the policy which he has permitted his writers to discuss. From the moment that a European soldier shall set foot in the United States, the government of this Republic will enter upon a new era of its existence. From that time forward a return to the old policy of limited armament and political isolation will be at an end. A mighty democracy full of energy, and sensitive almost to disease, will have been stung to the quick, and the republic, while losing none of the attractions which, drawing over to it millions of Europe, guarantee its rapid growth, will be compelled by the necessities of its position to become and remain a great military and naval power. This is not for the interest of England; nor is it for the peace of the world.

PRIVATE OPINIONS OF THE EDITORS OF THE "TIMES"

A private letter received by a gentleman of Philadelphia, from a foreigner of distinction, (not an Englishman,) resident in London, contains the following passage:

One of the editors of the Times, with whom I talked the other day about America, admitted that from the accounts they had, and, I suppose, relying chiefly on what their former correspondent, Mr. Russell, has told them, the North possessed, at present, an army, such as no power ever before had—an army, which, in point of the character of the men and their complete equipment, has without a parallel, and the most tremendous engine of war any State had ever created..

I was delighted to hear such a testimony to the energy and power of the North, from a quarter so strongly prejudiced against the Union.

Upon this the Bulletin remarks that the writer is not an American, but he has a deep interest in this country and takes a deep interest in the success of the Union cause. It is not proper to indicate who he is; but his position, his intelligence and character alike entitle him to respect and confidence.

THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG.

General McClellan's secret plans for the political future have been divined by the sagacious correspondent of the London Herald, who announces from America that the General "is in league with the Princes of Orleans. They are his friends, and if he should become popular, and gain a great victory and become President, it is in his power to bring on a war between France and this country, in order to place Count de Paris on the throne of France."

Fidelity of the Negroes to the Union.

The World's correspondent in the Shenandoah Valley says:

The fidelity of the negroes to the Union is really amusing. They consider the present aspect of affairs as very encouraging. At a religious meeting not long since, a chaplain addressed a promiscuous audience of whites and blacks. He expressed his joy that all were met together as one. "Bress de Lord fur dat," shouted out one of the brethren. Many remarks were made of similar bearing, which drew forth similar ejaculations from the negroes. One of the latter remarked; "Things is gitting better and better every day, but they is not quite right yet."

A preacher of the colored persuasion lately prayed in public at Winchester: "De Lord bress de President ob de United States, and let dis rebellion be squashed," and the sentence was closed with a vehemence which indicated that he felt the importance of what he asked. These indications are interesting, as showing the attitude in which the negro stands, who is an important character on the stage in the present play.

I think these suggest the frame of mind in which those I have met are generally found.

—"The best way for a husband and wife to get along, in money matters," said the landlady," is for him to give her So Much Money every month." "Ah!" said the Broker's wife, "I think so too; but my husband gives me So Little."

—Jones has discovered the respective natures of a distinction and a difference. He says that "a little difference" frequently makes many enemies, while a "little distinction" attracts hosts of friends to the one on whom it is conferred.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JUNE—HEALTH AND PURE BLOOD ARE INSEPARABLE.—Recollect that all sickness arises from impurity of the blood, and that Judson's Mountain Herb Pills will securely find out and cleanse these impurities from the system, that disease cannot exist. So simple and innocent are the herbs and plants that compose them, that it is not necessary to have them sugar coated in order that the stomach can bear them. In most cases pills are sugar coated because the materials of which they are made are so griping and malignant, that otherwise a delicate stomach could not bear them.

These pills deal with disease as it is, and will not only cure by removing the cause, but will build up and restore the broken constitution. There are many who have so trifled with their constitutions that they think that medicine cannot help them. Let not even these despair; incredulity and scepticism is overthrown by a mass of testimony which is truly irresistible. At first the virtues ascribed to the Mountain Herb Pills were deemed fabulous. The public has been so often deceived that they could not believe the simple truths advanced by their discoverer. Yet facts undeniable, attested by witnesses of the highest character and respectability, have proved, and are yet proving each day, the virtues of this "mighty healer." They mark by their miraculous efficacy and power a new era in medicine.

EYE & EAR.

DR. UNDERWOOD]
Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.
Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.
CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.
Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.
Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7:-3m

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME

INSURANCE COMPANY,

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums above the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded three hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $829,993.33. The premium income of thirty of the smaller companies was $851,578.65 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,900,000.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the mass of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent corporation. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John McGee, Secretary, those well accredited officers very justly say: "The well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, commend it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the crack company of our State, in high credit all over the Union, worked up upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last summed up to $1,521,288.08, against an actual liability of only $55,080.43; and, moreover, it is worth noting that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $124,434.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bonds and mortgages $910,219.53, secured on real estate worth $1,715,900, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $220,635. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $106,715,148, taking $829,993 premium, and paid losses $555,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after reserving an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "nett surplus" of $160,044 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.

The need of a first class Mill of this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired.

WABASHAW.—A. T. Sharp.

On motion, the name of P. F. Brown, who hails from Ramsey county, but who, like many other patriotic gentlemen from St. Paul, were anxious to obtain seats in the Convention, managed to get his name inserted upon the roll, was stricken from the list of delegates from Rice county.

The report was then adopted.

President.—H. H. Sibley.
Secretaries.—W. R. Bowes, Chas. Brewster.

The report was adopted.

A committee was appointed by the temporary Chairman to wait upon the President elect, inform him of his election and conduct him to the chair.

Upon ascending the platform he addressed the Convention as follows:

career as a life-long and hard-working Democrat, than as a personal honor. He then proceeded to reiterate the stale platitudes about the Democratic party being the party of "bone and sinew;" about the extraordinary good that it has done in building up the Republic; [he didn't say how much it did towards bringing about this wicked rebellion, which has for a year and a half threatened our existence as a nation]; about its being the party of the Union and the Constitution,—with the usual flings at "abolition" and "abolitionists."

The next business in order was the report of the committee on resolutions and platform.

Mr. Hamlin moved that the Convention resolve itself into committee of the whole, and that the platform be read and discussed with closed doors.

The resolution was monified so that all who were not Democrats were requested to leave the hall, and it was passed, whereupon a large part of the audience, together with the reporter of the PRESS, left the hall.

THE RESOLUTIONS AND PLATFORM.

Resolved, That while we believe the war in which the United States is now engaged would have been averted by the adoption of those measures of conciliation and compromise submitted to Congress by Democrats and rejected by Republicans,—we also believe it is a war forced upon the country by the ambition of traitors, and we pledge the Democracy of Minnesota to support the Government on all lawful measures to restore the Union as it was and preserve the Constitution as it is.

Resolved, That we denounce the principles of Southern Secession and Northern Abolitionism as twin heresies, producing only hatred, strife and bloodshed; threatening the very existence of our National Government; at enmity with every principle of State Sovereignty and irresponsible for all the miseries of our distracted country.

Resolved, That the so-called Republican party, by surrendering itself into the hands of the radical abolitionists, whose declared purpose it is to destroy the institution of slavery at whatever hazard to the existence of the Union, has forfeited all claim to be considered a national party, and its continuance as a dominant political power would be as fatal to the integrity of the Republic, as in repeated instances, it has proved itself to be regardless of the restraints of the Constitution. We charge that party

1. With a violation of the liberty of the citizen by consigning to prison without warrant of law, many innocent and loyal men, and affording them no opportunity for defence.

2. With unjust and arbitrary restrictions upon the freedom of the press, by the suppression of loyal journals, politically opposed to that party.

3. With instituting a rigid censorship of the press and of the telegraph lines, under the pretence of a military necessity, but really with the intention to prevent the people at large from obtaining such information of the actual condition of affairs, as would enable them to hold the political leaders of the dominant party responsible for the gross mal-administration of the government.

4. With unheard of corruptions in the management of the public finances, whereby according to the showing of members of their own party, nearly one hundred millions of dollars have been stolen by men high in office, or recklessly squandered through their means upon their political friends.

5. With initiating in Congress measures of confiscation and emancipation of extreme severity, which must necessarily have the effect to drive Southern Union men into the ranks of the rebels, to concentrate and embitter the armed opposition to the Government, and thereby prolong the war.

6. With abandoning the traditional policy of the nation in conceding the right of search, at a time and under circumstances which justify the assumption that it was a disgraceful truckling to the wishes, if not the dictation, of the British Government.

7. With an outrageous trifling with the lives of our noble volunteers, and with the public safety, by the appointment to high military position, in many cases, of political favorites utterly incompetent to perform their duties, or to lead their commands on the battle-field.

8. With extravagance in every department of the Government, whereby the burden of National and State taxation is enormously and unnecessarily increased.

9. With a want of knowledge and ability to manage the affairs of the nation in its present condition of extreme peril, and a complete falsification of its pledges to the country that the war should be prosecuted to reduce the rebellion, and preserve the Union as it was.

Resolved, That the high character and brave and gallant bearing of the different regiments of volunteers from this State, have conferred great honor upon Minnesota, and justly merit the thanks of every citizen thereof.

Hon. H. H. Sibley offered the following resolution, which was adopted.

Resolved, That the Democracy of Minnesota will resist to the last extremity, any attempt at intervention by foreign powers in our domestic affairs.

After the Convention re-assembled, the resolutions were adopted.

It was then resolved that a State central committee of nine members be appointed from each Judicial District. to be designated by the delegates from said districts—three members of said committee to be appointed by the President of the Convention.

SECOND CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

After the adjournment of the Convention, the delegates of the Northern or Second Congressional District met to nominate a candidate for Congress.

On motion of John B. Brisbin, William P. Murray was chosen chairman and C. W. Nash was chosen secretary.

On motion the delegates from the counties composing the Second District in the State Convention were admitted as the delegates to the District Convention.

C. M. Wilson moved that the Convention proceed to select a nominee for Congress, and that the Convention vote viva voce.

It was further moved that where there was no division the delegates from the different counties should vote as a unit.

W. J. Cullen was then nominated.

Wm. Sprigg Hall. Chris. A. Graham, Col. Stevens, Eugene M. Wilson, and E. O. Hamlin were also nominated, but all except Mr. Cullen respectfully declined to stand a race.

He made a speech upon the occasion, which in some respect was loudly cheered, but when he stated that our National troubles were mainly brought on by the South; when he said that while he was in Washington two years ago, and heard the threats of the South about dissolving the Union; when he knew that the South had passed all the laws on the statute book, had monopolized all the offices, deprived the North of all share in the Chairmanship of the Senate and House Committees—when, seeing all this, he warned the South that they would meet with the very troubles that they now encounter, if they attempted to carry out their insane projects, his remarks were not so loudly applauded. He however recovered himself by relating a few coarse and o[ld] anecdotes whi[ch] during the c[am]paign. He

FIRST CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT CONVENTION.

The members of the Democratic Convention representing the First Congressional District assembled in the evening to nominate a candidate for Congress for that District.

Mr. A. J. Edgerton, of Dodge county, was chosen Chairman, and Mr. U. R. Edwards, of Fillmore county, Secretary.

Mr. Donahue then moved that the Convention proceed to nominate candidates.

Hon. A. G. Chatfield, Col. James George, and Judge J. N. McMahon, were nominated.

A tremendous uproar commenced here among the friends of the different candidates, during which there was a lively time, some members moving to adjourn, and many others talking in a very loud voice, which continued off and on till the Convention adjourned.

Chatfield,.....47
McMahon,.....40
George,.....15

Judge McMahon, in a felicitous and able speech, while thanking his friends for the large vote he received for an office entirely unsolicited and undesired on his part, declined to have his name again presented to the Convention—intimating in measured terms that there were some things in the resolutions that he could not conscientiously endorse. Judge McMahon then withdrew his name.

The Judge then made a regular Democratic set speech. He first pitched into those who had brought personal enmity into the Convention, and then reiterated the orthodox Democratic creed. He said unless the Democratic party is restored to power, the Government can't be saved. He said the Constitution must be defended against the terrific onslaughts which the Republicans are making upon that sacred instrument, but he didn't have much to say against any assaults which the rebels are making against the same document; of course he classified abolitionists and rebels in the same category; told his intelligent Democratic friends to watch the Republicans and check them; the General Government, he remarked, was becoming too severe—they must put Democrats in power; in fact he said, if they didn't do so, no man among them (the Convention) would be safe—any man of them might at any time be arrested—and so on to the end of the speech.

An Executive Committee of five was then elected, composed of Mr. Wise, of Nicollet; Alex. Johnson, of Rice; Mr. J. J. Greene, of Nicollet; Geo. C. H. Berry, of Winona, and Mr. Dane Gates, of Houston.

STATE CONVENTION—NIGHT SESSION.

After the adjournment of the First District Congressional Convention, the State Convention re-assembled for the purpose of selecting a State Central Committee.

The following gentlemen were on motion elected:

1. C. W. Nash, Dakota.
2. J. B. Brisbin, Ramsey.
3. J. H. McKinney, Fillmore.
4. Eugene M. Wilson, Hennepin.
5. A. D. Ladue, Dodge.
6. M. Smith, Le Sueur.

At large—E. St. Julien Cox, of Nicollet; John S. McDonald, of Scott; W. P. Murray, of Saint Paul.

After the usual thanks to the officers the Convention adjourned.

CELEBRATION OF THE FOURTH BY THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The scholars of the Public Schools will meet at their respective school-houses at half-past eight in the morning, and from thence march in procession to the Capitol grounds. At half-past nine precisely, a procession of all the schools will form at the Capitol, and, under the direction of Col. D. A. Robertson, with a band of music, will march to the shady grounds of the Episcopal Mission, which, by the courtesy of the Trustees and Mrs. Van Ingen, have been granted for the occasion.

The Declaration of Independence will be read by Hon. George A. Nourse; after which two brief addresses by distinguished gentlemen—the whole accompanied with singing and patriotic songs by the scholars.

Parents and citizens are invited to participate in the festive scene.

The members of the Board of Education, and Aldermen of the city are expected to be present.

WAR HAS ITS TRIUMPHS, AND SO HAS PEACE.—While the armies of the Union were winning brilliant victories, the Chemical Saleratus was enjoying a series of uninterrupted triumphs over the popular aversion to all Saleratus, because the common kinds in use were found to be destructive. Science has demonstrated that the Chemical Saleratus was not only pure in its nature, but wonderful in its effect, producing better bread and biscuit than were before known. Such being the fact, we advise our readers to use it, and our grocers keep it always on hand. It is made and sold at wholesale by D. B. DeLand & Co., Fairport, Monroe county, New York. For sale by all wholesale grocers in Chicago and Milwaukee. d&w1t.

CORRECTION.—The "St. Paul City" flour referred to in our local column on the 1st inst., as meeting with such favor in the Boston market, was manufactured by H. H. Baker Esq., at his mill, (upper levee,) and shipped by Messrs. Temple & Beaupre. G. E. Schmabel has the same brand on sale at his store, corner of Fourth and Jackson streets.

METEOROLOGICAL NOTES FOR JUNE, 1862.—The large amount of clear, dry weather, and the absence of great extremes of temperature, made the month a very pleasant one. Indeed the first ten days were so steadily and perfectly clear that alarm began to be entertained for the fruits and the crops. A copious rain on the 15th relieved this fear; and, at present, the prospect of an abundant harvest throughout the State is very flattering. Judging from the small deposit of water since January 1st, as compared with former years, we have reason to expect a wet summer and fall. Such an event may affect the promise which is now presented by the crops. The amount of moisture reaching the earth in the first half year of 1861 was 19.22 inches, while for the present year it is 9.58 inches. This is a very serious discrepancy, and can hardly fail to receive some degree of compensation.

Maximum of the month	(11th and 12th)	87°
Minimum "	(18th)	40°
Highest daily mean	(10th)	72.5°
Lowest "	(18th)	54.5°
Greatest daily range	(16th)	23°
Least "	(14th)	5°
Range of the month		34°
Mean temperature of the month		65.7°

Rain fell on eight days and it sprinkled on one other. The total deposit of water was 2.66 inches.

Fair weather prevailed to an amount equaling eighteen days. The winds without being high, were very variable.

BRITISH COLUMBIA OVERLAND TRANSPORTATION COMPANY.—In our news summary on Tuesday morning, the following item appeared:

A party of thirty Englishmen recently arrived at Quebec under the auspices of a swindling company in London, which advertised to carry them across the continent in comfortable carriages for the moderate sum of forty guineas per head.

It appears that the party of English gentlemen who have for some days been in St. Paul, and whose destination was the gold fields of British Columbia, are the party alluded to in the above item. Messrs. H. S. Hine and James Hayward were the agents of the British Columbia Overland Transportation Company—the former from Toronto, Canada, and the latter from London, where the company was organized under the auspices of gentlemen of wealth and character. There is a misunderstauding, or mismanagement, somewhere. Mr. Hine left Toronto with instructions to procure at St. Paul or the Red River settlement the necessary outfit for the overland transportation of the company, which duty we believe he partly or wholly succeeded in performing, supposing, of course, that the means for meeting his obligations in the transaction would be forthcoming on the arrival of the London agent, Mr. Hayward On the other hand, Mr. Hayward reached St. Paul with his party, under the impression that everything would be prepared for their speedy transportation across the continent. Thus all concerned were sadly disappointed. The party have been encamped since their arrival here near the city, and although Mr. Hayward has received a dispatch from the agent in Quebec to draw on him for the amount required to put the party through, the difficulty and delay in perfecting the arrangements at this late day, precludes the idea of going on with the enterprise this season. Mr. Hime leaves this morning for Toronto, and Mr. Hayward for London, to investigate the causes of the miscarriage of the plans of the Company. In the meantime, the main party of gold-seekers will dispose of themselves as best they can. A portion will return to England, some will proceed to the Red River settlement, and either go on to their destination, or, if that is impracticable, await there till next spring, while still another portion will probably remain in Minnesota.

The following note from J. C. Burbank & Co. is a sufficient exoneration of Messrs. Hime and Hayward from all blame in regard to the unfortunate termination of this affair:

ST. PAUL, MINN., July 1, 1862.

GENTLEMEN:—In reference to the overland transportation of the passengers under your charge, on route to British Columbia, at your request, we would make the following statement:

About the 15th, of June last your Mr. Hime came to our office as agent for the British Columbia Overland Transportation Company, to make arrangements with us for the transportation of fifty passengers and their freight from St. Paul by stages to Georgetown, thence by steamer on Red river to Fort Garry, Red River Settlement, which arrangement was made as follows, viz: For each passenger with 70 pounds baggage, through to Fort Garry, twenty-two dollars, all freight over the average of 70 pounds to each passenger to be paid for at the rate of five dollars per one hundred pounds (85 per,100 pounds). Freight and passage money to be prepaid at this office.

Mr. Hime represented to us that the passengers would be here about the 25th of June, accompanied by an agent with funds to pay the transportation, the passengers having paid through passage in London. On the 28th of June Mr. Hayward arrived, accompanied by thirty passengers, expecting, (as he represents) to find funds in the hands of Mr. Hime to forward the passengers to British Columbia.

Our arrangements for the transportation of passengers and freight from this point to Fort Garry are such that we can forward from seventy to one hundred passengers per week with ordinary baggage, connecting with the steamer "International" at Georgetown, making weekly trips from Georgetown to Fort Garry, making the average through time from St. Paul to Fort Garry eight days.

In conclusion, we would say that both Mr. Hime and Mr. Heyward seem to have done all in their power to carry out the arrangements made by the B. C. O. T. Co. in London with said passengers, and have failed to do so only for the want of money. Truly your friends,

J. C. BURBANK & CO.

To Messrs. H. L. Hime and James Heyward, Agents of the British Columbia Overland Transportation Company.

We take pleasure in calling attention to Prof. Holcombe's circular, which we send our city subscribers in this morning's issue. We regard this as a rare opportunity for the lads and lasses of our city to improve themselves in this much neglected branch of learning. Prof. Holcombe undoubtedly stands at the head of his profession, and is one of the most suc[cessful] [te]achers of writing in the United [St]ates we are assured by those [who] have studied with him that he can teach [pen]manship as few can. He [is] more than ten years, and knows how to impart to others his knowledge of this practical and beautiful style of writing. His own writing, which speaks for itself, can be seen at any time at the music store over Concert Hall. He invites the public to look at it, and to visit his class.

RIVER MATTERS.—The river continues to fall about two inches a day.

The arrivals yesterday were, the Milwaukee, from Dunleith; Keokuk, from La Crosse; the Antelope, from Carver; and the Albany, from Mankato.

The Northern Belle departed for La Crosse, the Itasca for Dunleith, and the Antelope for Carver.

The Northerner is due from St. Louis to-day, and will start on the return trip at four P. M.

The Keokuk, Captain Hatcher, clerk Cooper, is the La Crosse packet this morning at eight o'clock.

The Milwaukee, Captain Holcombe, clerks Coffin and Watson, will leave at eight A. M. for Prairie du Chien and Dunleith.

The McLellan and Key City are the boats due from below to-day.

The Clara Hine and the Pomeroy will arrive to-day from Mankato.

A GOOD PLACE TO SPEND THE FOURTH.—Mr. G. W. Few, the gentlemanly proprietor of the "Union Park House," at Little Canada, has his hotel refitted and fixed up in good style, and will celebrate the Fourth by a first-class dinner. There is not a more beautiful drive from the city than the one leading to Little Canada, and a more agreeable or accomplished host than the proprietor of the "Union Park House," cannot be found anywhere. A word to the wise is quantum suf.

GRAND FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION.—The German friends of education will give a grand pic-nic on the Fourth of July; the proceeds to be devoted to educational purposes. Having secured the services of the Great Western Band, the public may rely upon having a gay old time, such as the Germans generally have. Come one, come all, on St. Anthony Hill, opposite H. M. Rice's old residence.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, RAMSEY COUNTY—In Probate Court, Special Term, June 7th, 1862.

Upon reading and filing the petition of William G. Carter, guardian of said minor, praying for reasons therein set forth that he may be licensed to sell the real estate belonging to the said minor.

It is ordered that Monday, the 7th day of July, 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the office of the Judge of Probate, in the city of St. Paul, be assigned for the hearing of the said petition; and that the next of kin of said minor, and all other persons interested in his estate, appear at a session of the Probate Court, then and there to be holden, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered that the said petitioner give notice to all persons interested in said matter of the pendency of the said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the St. Paul PRESS, a newspaper in St. Paul, in said Ramsey county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.

R. F. CROWELL,

MORTGAGE SALE.—John Cheever and Catharine, his wife, of the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, by mortgaged deed, dated May 24, A. D. 1861, granted, bargained, sold and conveyed unto William H. Pelham, of the same place, and to his heirs and assigns forever, all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, described in said deed of mortgage as follows, viz: Lots numbered one (1) and two (2) of block numbered thirty-two (32) of the tract of land called Como, according to the recorded plat thereof in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the said county of Ramsey, condition-d to be void upon the payment of a certain promissory note therein mentioned.

Said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Ramsey county aforesaid, on the 25th day of May, A. D. 1861 at 10 o'clock A. M., in Book R of mortgage deeds, on pages 565, 566 and 567.

The said mortgage and the debt or promissory note thereby secured, were duly assigned by the said Wm. H. Pelham to James M. Freeman, of the City of Saint Paul, county and State aforesaid, on the seventh day of December, A. D. 1861, which said instrument of assignment was duly recorded on the ninth day of December, A. D. 1861, at 9¾ o'clock A. M., of that day in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Ramsey county, in Book B, of assignments, on page 221.

Default has been made in the condition of payment of said promissory note and mortgage, and there is now claimed to be due and is due on the said promissory note and mortgage the just and full sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150), and no suit or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof. The mortgage aforesaid contains the usual clause of waiver, whereby the mortgagors have waived surrendered and released for themselves, their heirs and assigns forever all the right, benefit, equity and claim of redemption in and to the premises in said mortgage described, according to the statute in such case made and provided.

Now therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale contained in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the above described mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction, by the Sheriff of the county of Ramsey, to the highest bidder for cash, on the 16th day of July, A. D. 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the Court House in St. Paul, Ramsey county, State of Minnesota, to satisfy and pay the amount due upon said promissory note and mortgage and all the expenses allowed by law.

MORTGAGE SALE.—JOHN SMITH AND Elizabeth Smith, his wife, of the town of Reserve, Ramsey county, Minnesota, by mortgaged deed dated May 6, A. D. 1861, granted, bargained and conveyed unto James Knights, and to his heirs and assigns forever, all that tract or parcel of land, with the here itaments thereunto belonging, situate and being in the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, and described in said deed of mortgage as follows, viz: Lot No 16 in block No 6, in Winslow's addition to St. Paul, according to the recorded plat thereof in said county of Ramsey conditioned to be void upon the payment of a certain promissory note therein mentioned

Said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Ramsey county aforesaid on the 8th day of May, A. D. 1861, at 11:30 o'clock A. M., in Book "R" of mortgages, on pages 548, 549, 550 551. Default has been made in the condition of payment of said promissory note and mortgage, and there is now claimed to be due, and is due on the said promissory note and mortgage, the just and full sum of four hundred and eighty-eight dollars and fourteen cents, ($488 14) and no suit or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt remaining secured by the said mortgage or any part thereof. And the said mortgagors did on the same day execute and deliver to the said mortgagee a certain indenture or agreement of waiver of all right of redemption of the mortgaged premises for themselves, their heirs and assigns forever, in pursuance of an act entitled "an act to regulate the foreclosure of real estate," passed by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved on the 10th day of March, A. D. 1860, in case of a sale of said premises upon a foreclosure of said mortgage, which said indenture or agreement was duly recorded with said mortgage on Book "R" of mortgages, on pages 548, 549, 550, 551.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the Statutes, in such case provided, the above described mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction by the Sheriff of the said county of Ramsey to the highest bidder for cash, on the 5th day of July, A. D. 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the Court House in St. Paul, Ramsey county, State of Minnesota, to satisfy and pay the amount due upon said promissory note and mortgage and all the expenses allowed by law.

The PRESS has—in accordance with the fact—claimed for the last six months a larger circulation, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, than any other paper in the city or State, and has challenged the Pioneer to compare the circulation of that paper with the PRESS, and make the result public, which challenge has been constantly declined, thus, on the part of the Pioneer, practically admitting the larger circulation of the PRESS. The bills of newspaper for the several editions of the PRESS and Pioneer show conclusively that the circulation of the several editions of the PRESS is nearly two thousand sheets per week greater than the circulation of the Pioneer.

NO PAPER TO-MORROW.

Unless we have important war news—which we shall issue in an extra—there will be no paper published Saturday morning.

RETREAT OF OUR ARMY BEFORE RICHMOND.

Our worst apprehensions are realized in the news of this morning. Gen. McClellan was compelled by the overpowering numbers of the enemy to abandon his advanced position and retreat to the James River, where the protection and co-operation of the fleet saved his army in the last terrible fight of Tuesday afternoon.

In some of its features it is a repetition of the heavy reverse that the same army of the Potomac suffered at Bull Run, one year ago.

Our army has been outnumbered, if not out-Generaled. The entrenched position that we had held for weeks within five miles of Richmond, has been exchanged for a position seventeen miles from the rebel capital.

Some of the accounts state that McClellan had to abandon his siege guns—a loss that cannot soon be made good.

Other accounts would indicate that he had saved all his guns save one.

No estimates are given of the losses, which are said to be immense.

News of this reverse, when it reaches Europe, will almost certainly precipitate the intervention of France and England.

Two hundred thousand men are called for. If foreign interference comes, we shall need a half a million.

Richmond must fall if it takes half a million men in that one army to do it. The gunboats are more than equal to one hundred thousand men.

Let our State rally and fill up at once the Sixth Regiment, and proceed with additional regiments after harvest.

FROM VICKSBURG.

Commanderr Farragut has succeeded in running past the rebel batteries at Vicksburg, and forming a junction with the fleet above. Still, Vicksburg is not captured.

Two Hundred Thousand More Volunteers to be Called For.

NEW YORK, July 1.—It is stated that on recommendation of all the Governors of all loyal States, the President will call for two hundred thousand more volunteers, to hold points alreay occupied, and close the war.

No Telegraphing on the Fourth.

No news except war advices of great importance will be sent from the office of the Associated Press, from four A. M., July 4th, to eight A. M., July 5th.

D. H. CRAIG.

From the First Regiment.

CAMP ON BATTLE-FIELD NEAR FAIR OAKS STATION, VA., June 21, 1862.

His Excellency, Alexander Ramsey, Governor of Minnesota:

DEAR SIR:—William Card, of Company G, First Minnesota Volunteers, whose friends reside near Owatonna, died in the regimental hospital last night, from typhoid fever.

He was buried this morning in the woods near the house of a Mr. Adams, not far from our hospital. Captain Messick has taken every precaution to have the grave marked and protected.

Yours truly,
EDWARD D. NEILL, Chaplain.

Wisconsin Legislature----Superior Taxes.

SUPERIOR CITY, June 18.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press:

Happily for Wisconsin the Legislature has adjourned sine die, having wasted the tax payers' money to a greater extent than usual. Most of the members had an axe to grind, judging from the acts of special legislation. The important bill of the session—the new assessment law—was killed in the Senate, and we must get along another year with the present lungling tax law. Our member and Senator greatly distinguished themselves, pushing the ten thousand dollar bond bill through in defiance of the protest of three fourths of the tax payers of Douglas county. What will these bonds be worth, seeing the county cannot pay State tax, and out of the levy of six hundred and fifty thousand dollars to pay a special United States judgment, but about one hundred dollars were collected from December up to the first of June.

Fine chance to pay seven per centum interest in New York on ten thousand dollars in bonds. Bonds not receivable for taxes are consequently worth less than county orders. We hope they will be printed on good paper, with a view in one corner of a few men with their hands full of tax-payers and working men's money. The tax sale will come off on the 1st Tuesday of September next—delinquents advertised in July—although the 1859 tax sale cost Douglas county $4,000 and the redemption printing in 1862 over $2,000, yet our officials wish to re-advertise and re-sell the identical pieces and parcels of land which were advertised, sold and bought in at the 1859 sale. It seems like stealing all around. I leave your readers to infer the status of the late Wisconsin Legislature from these facts.

The Rebels Uneasy About East Tennessee.

A correspondent of the Atlanta (Georgia) Confederacy, writing from Knoxville on the 15th, urges active movements for the defense of East Tennessee. Speaking of Governor Johnson's desire to enlist supporters, he says:

It cannot nor need it be disguised, that, if the purpose to reach this section could be achieved, he would have no sort of difficulty to bring to his standard hundreds, indeed, thousands, of our people. They are now comparatively quiet, and are only waiting the advance of the Federal Army, which they regard now as certain.

The writer adds:

It is not proper that I should speak of the movements of our forces in this department, even if I were posted. Suffice it to say that General Smith seems to be properly vigilant, as well as prompt and determined. He is at his post.

It is a question of the gravest import, to protect East Tennessee. We have an immense quantity of stores—more by two-thirds than any portion of the Confederacy. To take care of these is a matter of concern, and should be done at all hazards.

The Columbus (Georgia) Sun of the 17th inst. announces the arrival there of a portion of the 6th Florida regiment, which has been ordered to Chattanooga to reinforce General Smith.

CONGRESSIONAL.

MONDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Willey, of Virginia, the bill for the admission of Western Virginia as a State was then taken up, the question being on the amendment offered by Mr. Sumner, that after the 4th of July, 1863, within the limits of said State, there shall be no slavery nor involuntary servitude otherwise than for the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall be duly convicted.

Mr. Sumner said that the bill proposed that all children born after April, 1863, shall be free, but allowed the present generation of slaves to continue slaves, thus admitting another slave State, with two Senators, for a whole generation. He (Sumner) could not consent to the admission of a State into the Union with a constitution recognizing slavery for a whole generation. He quoted from the speeches of Webster against the admission of slave States.

Mr. Hale, of New Hampshire, said that Webster, in his later, and perhaps wiser years, repudiated every system of prospective emancipation, and said as he (Hale) did not make this world, he was ready to take it as he found it, and meet the question practically. He wanted to deal with this thing as a practical question. He would hail the advent of the admission of a slave State into the Union, with a clause for gradual emancipation more gladly and with greater satisfaction, than the admission of a free State. Why? Beause "there is more joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, than over ninety-nine that need no repentance."

After debate the bill was postponed.

The army appropriation bill was then taken up.

Mr. Hale offered an amendment to the amendment, limiting the rank and file to 750,000; limiting Major-Generals to 40, and Brigadier-Generals to 200. Adopted. (The limitation of 750,000 was subsequently stricken out.)

An amendment was adopted appropriating $2,000,000 for the comfort of the wounded and sick soldiers, and forwarding them to their homes.

An amendment was adopted, that all Aids-de-Camp, appointed since August, 1861, be referred to the Senate for confirmation.

An amendment was adopted, providing $5,000,000 for the collection, drilling and organization of volunteers.

After further consideration the bill passed. The resolution relative to certain grants of land to Michigan for Railroad purposes was passed.

Mr. Wilkinson, of Minnesota, offered the following:

Resolved, That the President inform the Senate, if not incompatible with the public interest, whether Chas. G. Fulton, one of the editors of the Baltimore newspaper, has been arrested and confined in prison, and if so, upon what charges and for what reason; whether any charges are preferred against him, if so, what are those charges and by whom preferred, and on what evidence they are based.

Laid over, after which executive session adjourned.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—HOUSE.—The House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

All importers at home or abroad are requested to have their invoices authenticated, and it is provided that the bill shall take effect on the 1st of August.

The committee here arose, when all the amendments were concurred in without a division, excepting one offered by Mr. Ward, of New York: That goods, wares and merchandize, actually on shipboard, and bound to the United States, and all those in bonded warehouses or public stores, on the first of August next, shall not be subject to the duties imposed by this act. The amendment was lost—ayes 54, nays 54. The bill was then passed.

The bill enlarging the Erie and Oswego canal locks was taken up and tabled by a majority of two.

A motion to recousider was entered.

The bill appointing a commission to examine claims of loyal citizens for property destroyed by troops was postponed till the second Wednesday in December.

DIXIEDOM AND MULATTOES.—There has always been a vast amount of legal sophistry in Dixie in regard to the negro. In Jeff. Davis' conscription act mulattoes are classed with whites. For this purpose any white blood makes a man of him; in the slave market any African blood makes him a negro. In the Supreme Court of the United States, if he has the remotest fraction of this mixture, his ancestors are presumed to have been slaves. If the latter is mustered in as a soldier he must have the rights of a soldier as a man, and not a slave as a chattel.

How intricate are the legal trials that beset the path of human chattelism. In Congress the chattel has a representation, but no vote. In taxation his master regards him as a person, not as property. He opposes direct taxes, because his chattels will be taxed; but will he give up the members of Congress those chattels send to Washington? It requires great legal tact and acumen to maintain positions so opposite, but a Southern strict constructionist can do it.—Cincinnati Gazette.

—The Union Convention which convened at Indianapolis last Wednesday was a perfect bomb shell thrown into the Bright organization of this State. It took them all aback! In Thursday's Sentinel we notice that they will call another convention to meet some time in the latter part of next month. Whether they intend to get up another ticket, we know not, but that their disloyal platform will be tinkered up more or less we are satisfied.

The Brightites are amazed, and stand confused. Their secret organizations to resist the Government, of which Judge Hughes reports, have been exposed. Their every effort made to aid the rebels in destroying the Government though secret, have been made public, hence they must again meet and consult about what is to be done.—La Porte (Indiana) Herald.

SAINT PAUL, July 3d, 1862.

The undersigned will receive sealed proposals at his office in Saint Paul, Minnesota, until 12 o'clock M. on the 15th day of July, for furnishing and delivering, at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, complete rations for United States troops, prisoners of war, and to any other persons subsisted in kind by the Government, to be sent there.

The ration consists as follows: Three-fourths of a pound of pork or bacon, or one and a fourth pounds of fresh or salt beef; twenty-two ounces of bread or flour, or one pound of hard bread, or one and a fourth pounds of corn meal; and at the rate to every one hundred rations, of eight quarts of beans or peas, and ten pounds of rice or hominy; ten pounds of green coffee, or eight pounds of roasted and ground coffee, or one and a half pounds of tea; fifteen pounds of sugar; four quarts of vinegar; one pound of sperm candles, or one and a fourth pounds of adamantine candles, or one and a half pounds of tallow candles; four pounds of soap, and two quarts of salt.

In addition to the foregoing, there is allowed twice per week one gallon of molasses per one hundred rations, and thrice per week, if practicable, an issue of potatoes, at the rate of one pound per man. When beans, peas, rice, hominy, or potatoes cannot be issued in the proportions given above, an equivalent in value shall be issued in some other proper food. Desiccated potatoes, or desiccated mixed vegetables, at the rate, per one hundred rations, of one hundred and fifty ounces of the former, or one hundred ounces of the latter, may be substituted for beans, peas, rice, hominy, or fresh potatoes, when these articles cannot be issued; or, upon the requisition of the proper officer, and when the supply on hand will admit of it, they may be issued at the foregoing rate, twice per week in lieu of beans or peas, or in lieu of rice or hominy. Fresh beef may be issued as often as the commanding officer of any detachment or regiment may require it, when practicable, in place of salt meat.

The Acting Commissary reserves to himself the right to diminish or increase the number of rations required, whenever the interests of the government demand it.

Bidders must name their sureties in their bids. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids deemed extravagant.

The contract will extend to, and include the 31st day of December, 1862.

OUR ARMY DEFEATED BEFORE RICHMOND.

Four Days' Continuous Fighting.

A Terrific Battle on Tuesday.

Our Men in Good Spirits.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 2.

A gunboat has just arrived here from the scene of action, yesterday, ten miles above City Point. That division of our army has been fighting four days, and has retreated about seventeen miles. The fight of yesterday was most terrific, the enemy having two or three to our one. The battle commenced with our land forces and after about four hours fighting our gunboats got in range and poured into the rebels a heavy and incessant fire: this fire the rebels stood about two hours, and then retreated.

Our troops have captured, notwithstanding their disadvantage, a large number of artillery pieces and 2,000 prisoners, among whom is rebel Gen. Magruder. The place where this last action took place is near Turkey Creek.

The retreat of the enemy on Saturday evening was with great disorder, and their loss has been very heavy—much greater, it is thought, than ours; still there is nothing definite in regard to losses.

In the retreat forced upon General McClellan by the superior numbers of the enemy, I learn that he had to spike his guns and leave them on the field, after burning the carriages. The nature of the ground rendered it impossible to move them.

In the retreat many of our sick and wounded were necessarily left behind. There are of course immmerable reports and rumors here, but I send only what appears to be authentic.

NEW YORK, July 3.

The Times has detailed reports of the battles of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, from which it appears that the night wing of our army, about 20,000 men, was attacked Friday by a rebel force not less than 50,000 and after a gallant fight our troops crossed the Chickahominy in order. On Saturday night and Sunday our whole left wing, under Heintzleman, Keyes and Sumner fell back along the line of the railroad and the Williamsburg road and marched to James river. The rebels crossed the Chickahominy in great force on Sunday, reaching the railroad, but made no pursuit, remaining, however, in possession of the ground previously occupied by our troops, on both sides of the Chickahominy, including bridges and earthworks we had erected against their approach.

All our army stores, &c., were withdrawn in order, without much loss. Of course there was tremendous fighting during these movements, and heavy losses on both sides.

NEW YORK, July 3.

The Times correspondent states that McClellan established his headquarters on Monday on the Malvorn Hills, one mile back of Turkey Island Bend.

At two o'clock Monday afternoon firing was heard for two hours in the direction of White Oak swamp, where Ayers was holding the rebels in check, who were attempting to cross.

An immense force of rebel artillery and cavalry, fresh from Richmond, then appeared on our left, when Porter's and Keyes' commands went to resist the enemy.

A most terrible fight ensued, and it became evident that the overpowering force of rebels were gaining when the gunboats Galena and Aroostook opened with their 54-pounders upon the traitors. The fight continued till dark, diminishing away into occasional musket shots.

About 10 o'clock in the evening, Prince De Joinville, Duc De Chartres and Count De Paris left headquarters, embarking aboard the gunboat Jacob Belle, with official dispatches from Gen. McClellan to the Government. Gen. McClellan accompanied them to the boat, and bade them a final adieu. When the Jacob Belle left all was quiet along the river. And several steamers and transports were passed going up the James river.

Reinforcements Reach General McClellan.

WASHINGTON, June 3.

A dispatch from Gen. McClellan to the War Department from Berkley's Bar, July 2d, 5.30 P. M., states that he has succeeded in getting his army to that place on the banks of the James River, and has lost but one gun which had to be abandoned last evening, (Tuesday,) because it broke down, that an hour and a half ago the rear of wagon train was within a mile of the camp and only one wagon abandoned, that evening had a severe battle, yesterday, (Tuesday), that we beat the enemy badly, the men fighting even better than before, that the men are in good spirits and that reinforcements from Washington had arrived.

The Enemy Retreat.

CORINTH, July 2.

Eight or ten regiments of cavalry, under General Chalmers, attacked Colonel Sheridan's advance guard, two miles south of Booneville, about eight o'clock yesterday morning. Our companies made most brilliant charges on the enemy's rear. At the same time Major Conn, of the Second Iowa cavalry, made a dash in front and on the enemy's left, alarming the enemy so much that Col. Sheridan was enabled to hold them in check At about half past three the enemy commenced retreating, but Sheridan, having only the Second Iowa and Second Michigan cavalry, was unable to pursue. No report of loss given.

DETAILS OF THE AFFAIR.

OUR FORCES REPULSED.

On Tuesday, the 10th, a skirmish occurred on the island, which reflected great credit on our forces engaged in it. About two miles northerly from the landing is a fine old mansion, owned by an old gentleman named Grimble. He was, as I am informed by one of his negroes, a Union man, and was forced away from home by a band of armed rebels, among whom was his own son. The house is delightfully situated, within a few rods of the waters of the inlet. In front of the house is a row of majestic live oaks, and on the landward side is an open space of several acres, skirted by forests. A road runs through this space northerly and southerly, and another road comes in from the east, lying in the direction of the forces and batteries of the enemy about Secessionville.

On the afternoon of the day just mentioned a force of the enemy, of from five hundred to a thousand, with a small body of cavalry came down this road, evidently for the purpose of cutting off such pickets as we might have in the neighborhood. They were unaware of our being in force in this vicinity. They drove in our pickets, and were coming into the open space, when they were encountered by the 97th Pennsylvania and one or two companies of the 45th Pennsylvania, who held their ground with great gallantry, and finally compelled the enemy to flee, leaving on the ground fifteen dead and five wounded, of whom two have since died. Our loss was four killed (three from the 97th and one from the 45th) and eight wounded.

During the engagement our battery fired over the heads of our forces into the ranks of the enemy, greatly to their consternation, as they had no idea that we had any artillery. While the enemy were on their retreat the fire at long range, from our batteries and from the gunboats in the stream, must have annoyed them excessively, although if any were killed in this way they must have been carried off, as all that were found on the ground were killed or wounded by musketry. The cavalry took no part in the action.

June 14.—During the greater part of to-day, our battery just erected has been engaging the batteries of the enemy, with apparent advantage to our side. There were two land batteries of the enemy, together with a hulk mounting two guns, lying in the creek which penetrates the island, and intended to command it. Our fire has been chiefly from the battery on the right of our lines, worked by a company of the Third Rhode Island. The fire has silenced the batteries of the enemy against which it was directed, and has riddled the hulk. The James and Parrott guns have done nobly. Nothing is now heard from the enemy except the occasional heavy, sullen roar of a mortar. This is placed in a masked work, where it cannot be reached by our shots. It is believed that the work done to-day will enable us to advance our lines very considerably, and possibly to reach Secessionville, the central point of the island, near which it is believed that the enemy have heavy works.

June 15.—To-day our pickets have penetrated further into the enemy's lines than ever before, and find apparently no obstruction short of a battery just this side of Secessionville.

June 16.—A sad, sad day. I will attempt the weary task of telling you some of its details of misery. As it is impossible to give a historical narrative of the engagement before the official returns are in, I shall aim simply to relate what took place under my own sight, or under such circumstances as to render me peculiarly conversant with it. The troops, exhausted by many nights of fatigue, or picket duty, had lain down, anticipating a few hours of rest, when, at about half past nine on Sunday evening, orders were received by all the forces of the command to be in line of march at one on the following morning.

Accordingly, soon after twelve the camps were all in motion; the regiments formed separately, then took their places in order—the Eighth Michigan having the right, the Seventh Connecticut next, then the Twenty-eighth Massachusetts.

THE ATTACK AND REPULSE.

They advanced heroically upon the left flank of the work (on our right); as soon as they came within short range, not more than two hundred yards from the rampart, the enemy commenced a terrible fire of grapeshot, canister, and musketry. In spite of this, the noble Michigan troops pressed their way forward, struggled through an abatis of stakes and trees, and some of them succeeded in climbing up some fifteen or twenty feet to the top of the rampart; but here they were met by a frightful fire from the rifle-pits, with which the inside of the work was crowded. It was impossible for them to remain. Already the ramparts were piled with their dead, and they unwillingly recoiled.

By this time the 7th Connecticut had come into the field, and formed into battallion front, still marching at double quick across the ridge. The line was formed with the centre opposite the right angle of the enemy's work (on our left hand, of course), with the design of attacking that flank of the work. But as the regiment advanced, the left of the line came unexpectedly upon a ravine or bank which slopes off into a morass. Unable to advance straightforward, the left necessarily crowded upon the middle and right, forcing them out under the fire of the enemy's guns, as well as throwing the line into some confusion. When the line had got within perhaps two hundred yards of the work, the enemy's guns opened with an infernal hail of grape, canister and musketry, which seemed to mow the men down in winnows. They advanced, however, till the colors stood within probably a hundred or a hundred and twenty yards of the work. The men by this time were using their guns briskly, and were firing as they advanced, at the gunners on the parapets. A good many advanced far beyond the colors, and some reached the most of the work, and from what shelter they could gain, behind the ridges of the field, they continued to fire.

The line, however, withered under the destructive fire. The men, worn with previous fatigue, were exhausted with the rapid run for a mile or more across the ridged ground. They had not the physical energy to press forward and scale the work. The line fell back for about a hundred yards, and there was completely re-formed, dressing on the colors. The order was then received to march to the right and attempt the work on the left angle. So the line was formed under the continued fire I have spoken of, and the regiment was marched by the left flank (the companies keeping nobly together), right along the face of the enemy's work. At this point of time the order was received to retire beyond the first ditch and await orders there. This was done, and the regiment remained behind this cover, shot and shell falling all about him for some minutes. Meanwhile the Twenty-eighth Massachusetts had advanced toward the work, but had broken; nor can I speak from personal observation of their further movements. The Seventy-ninth New York also had made a most gallant charge upon the works, but the most desperate valor was unavailing, and they too had retired. The Eighth Michigan, Seventh Connecticut, and Seventy-ninth New York were now in line in the ditch just spoken of. The order was given by the general in command that the men should retreat to the next field, where was the shelter of a hedge surmounting a wall or ridge of earth.

THE DAY LOST.

By this time it was evident that the day was lost beyond redeeming, and the word was given for the battery to retire. As soon as this was safely out of the way, the troops were commanded to retreat, removing all the dead and wounded so far as this could be effected. The troops retired for the most part in good order. I saw the Seventh Connecticut halt to dress and correct the alignment, within, perhaps, a thousand yards of the battery, and then retire with a well preserved battalion front, as if on parade.

The day was utterly lost. It only remained to get way the dead and wounded as far as possible, and to remove the arms that had been thrown down by the wounded, or dropped from the hands of the dying. Two surgeons of one of the regiments, with the hospital orderly, followed by men with stretchers, traversed the field of battle, venturing to within rifle range of the fort. They were not molested from the fort, but a 6-pounder from one of the flank earthworks threw a shot near them.

The troops then retired. General Stevens was among the last to leave the field. The house was fired, I suppose, because we had been fired upon from it. The enemy were seen for the first time during the day coming out of their works, and picking up the dead and wounded upon the field, apparently with care.

BRAVERY OF OUR TROOPS.

In looking back upon the morning's work, there was but one feature on which we could look with anything but the bitterest regret. That was the heroic bravery displayed by the troops with hardly an exception. (I say hardly, for I ought I think to except the Forty-sixth New York, I have no doubt that these countrymen of the great Frederic are individually brave, to recklessness, but there is an utter want of morale, a disorganization among them that renders them utterly useless or any critical occasion. Losing their heads, they discharged their guns among our own men. They ran by dozens from the field, uncontrolled by appeals of threats.

The magnitude of the loss attests the severity of the encounter and the bravery of our men. There were engaged Stevens' Division of six regiments, two regiments of Williams' Brigade, and two batteries. The regiments did not carry into action more than from 550 to 600 men each. The two batteries number perhaps 200 men.

KILLED AND WOUNDED.

The loss of all the forces, in killed, wounded and missing, is 686. The loss is divided among the regiments in something like this proportion:

Eighth Michigan	195
Seventy-ninth New York	110
Seventh Connecticut	85
Third New Hampshire	85
Twenty-eighth Massachusetts	75
One hundredth Pennsylvania (Roundheads)	55
Third Rhode Island	45
Forty-sixth New York	40

There was no panic among the troops, no rout; they were obedient to orders, fearless, and calm. There might be seen among them a hardy valor, a fiery daring, a coolness, a discipline beyond all praise.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

The officer to whom belongs the responsibility of this affair is Gen. Benham. Indeed it is understood that he assumes this responsibility, and calls the affair "a very successful reconnoissance."

June. 19.—I must risk even the mail in order to enjoy the rare luxury of recording an act creditable to our enemies. A day or two after the engagement Gen. Benham sent a flag of truce to request the privilege of removing the bodies of our dead. The reply was made that he ought, in accordance with the usages of war, to have sent immediately after the battle for the dead; that had he done so they would have been given up; that our stretchers were not fired upon while removing the dead and wounded; that the dead had already been buried, and that they would send a list of the prisoners and wounded in their hands. In all these points they had the advantage of the General. They also offered an opportunity to send the prisoners any money, clothes or letters.

GEN. BENHAM UNDER ARREST.

June 21.—Gen. Benham is now under arrest for disobeying Hunter's orders, which were not to advance on Charleston.

INTERESTING TO BEER DRINKERS.—The Taunton Republican gives the following refreshing story, which we commend to the attention of those in the habit of "tipping the mug." A few days since, says that paper, a man went into one of the beer shops in town, and called for a half pint of ale. The ale was brought him in a common pint measure; he drank a little, and thinking it tasted rather queerly, asked the storekeeper if anything was the matter with his beer. The answer was that it was first-rate, being just bought in Boston. This satisfied the customer, and he swallowed the remainder of the beer. When he got through, seeing something in the bottom of the measure, he asked what it was. "I declare," said the shopkeeper, "I forgot to take out the soap the last time I shaved!"

—"If I should be drafted into the service, what would you do?" said a gentleman to his wife, lately. "Get a substitute for you, I suppose," whereupon the worst half changed the subject of conversation.

Execution of Wm. H. Hawkins.

The New York World says that on Friday last Wm. H. Hawkins was hung at the Tombs for the murder of Captain Adams, of the ship Lammergier, on the 28th of September last. The evidence given on his trial showed that while on the passage from London to Callao, Captain Adams had some difficulty with Hawkins, who was steward, and remarked that he would run the blockade at New Orleans and sell the negro. Eighteen hours after that Hawkins borrowed an adze from a sailor, and killed the captain in his stateroom. He was a very intelligent man for a negro, could read and write quite well, and conversed on very many subjects in the most intelligent manner. In fact, he appeared to be a well-informed man. Shortly before his execution he wrote the following statement regarding himself:

I was born in South Kingston, Rhode Island, in 1828. I left my mother at the age of six years, and spent thirteen and a half years at farming. In this time I spent eleven and a half years with one man. I then commenced going to sea, and cooking part of the time in the hotels, cook-shops and steamboats. During this time I have been in nearly every port of the American coast, and in a number of foreign ports, and in vessels from seventy-six tons up to two thousand tons. I have no occasion to speak of my fare during this time, but I may say that I have had better than some and worse than others, but I shared an average with laboring men. I would say a word in behalf of the seamen. It is too bad, however, that I must speak principally of American ships. It is a positive fact that many captains are very tyrannous with their men. They commence the ill treatment as soon as they leave our ports, and treat them so that they are obliged to leave in foreign ports for fear of their lives, and many are killed and hove into the sea. If men, in many cases, make complaints to the consul in a foreign port, the captain bribes the consul, and he puts the men on board the ship again; and if men, in many cases, make a demand for recompense, the captain has the preference on the ground that the sailor is nothing more or less than a dog, and the officers make their boast of bribing the lawyer to keep the man waiting till the ship sails, as the man is obliged to go himself. It would be well to look into this important matter. I speak of this, for people living on shore don't see this awful treatment. But I have met with good treatment till the last ship in which I sailed. The Captain, Adams, has the name of being very gentlemanly when on shore. Captain Adams sailed from the port of New York for Callao in 1860, with a cook and steward, shipped from the keeper of the "Colored Sailors' Home,' and he killed the cook and hove him overboard at sea, and killed one of the men in Callao on the same voyage.

The ill treatment of this captain has been the means of bringing me in this condition, and for rehuking which I am now condemned to die.

(Signed) WM. H. HAWKINS.

HAWKINS' APPEARANCE.

Soon the drum sounded a muffled roll, the marines took their places, and after a few moments of silent waiting, Marshal Murray and his deputies came out from the door of the male prison. Hawkins followed, with two or three ministers. They passed under the "Bridge of Sighs," and toward the scaffold. He walked steadily to the chair, under the pendant rope, and sat down. The short noose was already about his neck. He was large and portly looking, and his face bore the usual every-day expression. He wore a suit of blue flannel, with a white anchor embroidered on his coat. Marshal Murray read the warrant in a low trembling voice, and, on concluding, Hawkins was asked if he wished to speak.

HIS DYING SPEECH.

Hawkins, whose arms were pinioned behind, arose, and in the calmest manner spoke for some time substantially as follows:

GENTLEMEN: I stand before you to-day to be hung. I am not in fear of death, but, if anything, anxious to go. I came here a stranger among you, and I cannot but feel gratitude for the kindness I have been shown since I have been among you. I am prepared and anxious to go. I have followed the sea for fourteen years, and you ashore do not know the outrages seamen are subjected to by their officers. This is particularly the case on American ships, until it is hard to get a good crew to sail in an American ship. A good man won't stand much of this, and they are compelled to do things they otherwise wouldn't. This is the fault of American consuls at foreign ports; if they were to do as the consuls of other nations do, this would not be. These matters ought to be fully investigated, as the sailors are compelled and drove to it. Many good men, whose deaths you never hear of, would thus be saved. I have never seen a man killed and hove overboard, but I have seen men die in their skins, which is just as bad. My case was a very circumstantial one. If I told you that I did not kill Capt. Adams you would not believe me, but if I told you I did, even if there were fifty witnesses, there wouldn't be one of them sworn. Again if I told you I killed him you would all believe me, but if I told you I did not, none of you would believe me, though it is the same man that says it. Such you see is the little confidence placed in human testimony. It's very hard that persons cannot believe one another. I shall therefore leave you to draw your own inferences from the circumstantial evidence given on my trial, for nothing I can say can change your opinion. I believe good men will not thank the jury much for convicting me.

I believe the President tried to do right in not interfering in my case. I hold no spite or malice against any one. I believe Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, a just man, and so are many of his officers. They are noble men. He is the best President you have had since George Washington. His officers are noble to this country in the time of need. He faces more than any two men ought to, but he dares them all. I am prepared to go now, as well off as I am, instead of living ten or twenty years more, to be forever lost. I always was a bashful man, but as Peter could speak before all men, so I speak before you to-day. I think God Almighty has forgiven all my sins, which I know are great and very many. I hope you will all try to meet me again, where we shall meet no more to part forever. Meet me in heaven, where the "wicked cease from troubling and the weary are forever at rest." He then returned thanks to the marshal and his assistants and the prisod officers.

Rev. H. H. Gabrett then made a prayer, after which Hawkins repeated the Lord's prayer, and then prayed a few minutes for those who had been friendly to him, for the President, and rulers of the country. He petitioned for the Divine watchfulness over the army and navy, that the rebellion might be crushed and peace re-established; that the heart of the master might be softened toward the slave, and that masters may be permitted to see God's marvelous light, when they shall no longer hold their fellow man in bondage. He prayed for his sister, and that the Comforter might be sent to her after his death, and to him, dying. He closed with a fervent amen.

More than one in the little assembly around seemed deeply affected and mingled their "amens" with that of the speaker. Hats were lifted as he prayed, and one or two persons knelt on the boards near the scaffold. Of the executioner, only one eye was visible, as he peered through a hole cut in his rough enclosure.

Hawkins then shook hands with his friends and the marshal, and, in a firm tone, but without effort, said, "Farewell, friends, God bless you."

HUNG.

The marshal stepped back one or two paces. A deputy joined together with ring and hook the noose around the prisoner's neck and the rope pendant from the gallows. The black cap was pulled down. The marshal waved his sword. The executioner's eye instantly disappeared from the hole where he had been peering. A dull striking sound was heard, and Hawkins was snatched into the air, where he swung slightly with hardly a vibration of the muscles. Three or four times his breast heaved, and then all was still, for he was dead. After hanging about half an hour the body was taken down, a coroner's jury empannelled, and after the usual verdict was rendered the remains were removed for burial. The painful scene was over, and soon the prison yard was left alone to its wall roses and its gibbet.

The Only Loyal Men in Eastern Virginia the Negroes.

The regular army correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing from McClellan's army, makes the following statement in regard to the loyalty and reliability of contrabands:

THE NEGRO.

History will record that the only friends of the Union found by this army in Eastern Virginia are negro slaves. So are they the only true friends we have found elsewhere in Secessia. But a little while ago a slave warned us that Col. Jeb. Stuart was moving swiftly to our rear with a strong force of cavalry. Our own cavalry did not move in time to intercept the expedition. The experience of the various reconnoissance departments of our armies in the field is uniform. The information derived by them from tepid Union citizens and deserters, is always vague and unsatisfactory, often treacherous. A negro seldom deceives. He imparts his information to the best of his ability. Many strive to acquire information by which they hope to recommend themselves upon reaching our lines. Please observe—and I speak upon testimony of officers serving in the topographical department—that the military maps of this field have been corrected upon information derived from contrabands. They have correctly described localities and roads which were inaccessible to reconnoissance officers, and in every instance where it has been possible to compare the intelligence derived from them with the country, they have proved reliable. A gentleman connected with the topographical department, assured me distinctly, that their best maps were drafted upon information communicated by negroes. But the testimony is uniform throughout rebeldom. None but vicious politicians or stupid officers pretend to dispute it. Unhappily the army is full of both classes, of high rank. It is humiliating to reflect upon both the stupidity and heartlessness of officers who might have benefitted the country so much by using the instruments which Providence forced upon them, but which they criminally rejected. Well, sirs, I am satisfied that there are Generals in our armies who would not avail themselves of the assistance of a fugitive slave, if it would save the country from ruin, and, unhappily, the Government at Washington seems as hopelessly stolid. Well did the poet say: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

A Veteran.

There is now residing in the town of Warren, Herkimer county, in this state, a survivor of the revolution, John Marshall, who was present at the battle of Bunker Hill, the surrender of Yorktown, and the evacuation of this city by the British at the close of the war. Mr. Marshall is a native of Colchester, Connecticut, and was employed to transport supplies for the American army. In this capacity he served Generals Putnam, Ward and Washington, and conveyed the baggage of Count de Rochambeau from Rhode Island to West Point. During the siege of Yorktown he was engaged in hauling ordnance. When the enemy evacuated New York he was present, and accompanied the Americans into the city.

After the restoration of peace, he took up his residence in the town of Warren, and became the father of sixteen children, thirteen of whom became the heads of families. The descendants of this veteran now exceed one hundred and fifty in number, and of these four are great-great-grand-children.

Mr. Marshall entered zealously into all the political controversies which agitated the country, and was an ardent Republican. Colonel Prentiss, the editor of the federal journal at Cooperstown, was the special object of his aversion, and they had frequent disputes together, sometimes coming to blows. Subsequently, when Colonel Prentiss, with other members of the federal party, became supporters of General Jackson, Mr. Marshall was so annoyed at their accession to the democratic ranks, as to abandon participation in political matters.

His oldest son, Mr. Romeo W. Marshall, inherited all the father's pertinacity of opinion, as well as his patriotism. During the last war with Great Britain, he enlisted under General Tompkins, for whom he entertained, personally and politically, the warmest attachment. He subsequently removed to Trenton, Oneida county, and now holds the office of postmaster at Redwood. Mr. D. D. T. Marshall, of the Twenty-first ward of this city, is his oldest son.

The other members of this numerous family are equally distinguished for their patriotism, earnest impulsiveness of temperament and radical sentiments. No less than seven of them were with the Grand Army at Yorktown, and more are ready in the event of a conscription. Doctor Guy C. Marshall, late of Bellevue Hospital, holds the post of surgeon to Berdan's regiment of sharpshooters.

The venerable patriarch, now almost a century old, is hale and vigorous, mentally and physically, and overflows with loyal enthusiasm. His memory is unimpaired, and he enters with much zeal into all the important questions of the day. He is apparently good for several years longer; tenacity of life being characteristic of the family.—New York Evening Post.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches, &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

EYE & EAR.

DR. UNDERWOOD

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skillful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-decoying empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO SEVEN PER CENT. PER ANNUM—THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME INSURANCE COMPANY,

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums since the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded three hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $829,903.33. The premium income of thirty of the smaller companies was $851,578.65 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,000,000.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the whole of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent corporation. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John McGee, Secretary, those well accredited officers very justly say: "The well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, commend it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the crack company of our State, in high credit all over the Union, worked upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last summed up to $1,521,268.08, against an actual liability of only $55,180.43; and, moreover, it is worth noting that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $124,434.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bonds and mortgages $296,279.53, secured on real estate worth $1,[illegible]0,000, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $820,656. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $[illegible]05,715.148, taking $829,903 premium, and paid losses $[illegible]55,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after reserving an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "nett surplus" of $166,611 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.

The need of a first class Mill of this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we as good Flour and as great a yield to any Mill in Minnesota, and respect-ding corn in the ear. this Mill is warranted.

SUMMER ARRANGEMENT.

THE CITY.

THE Post-Office will be closed to-day from nine o'clock A. M. until five o'clock P. M. CHAS. NICHOLS, P. M.

THE members of Pioneer Hook and Ladder Company No. 1, are directed to appear in full uniform at the truck house, this morning at 7 o'clock.

By order of the foreman,

J. H. MATHEWS.

D. H. MCCLOUD, Secretary.

FROM THE FIFTH REGIMENT.—A letter received from Gov. Ramsey, dated at St. Louis, June 28th, says Chaplain Chaffee, of the 5th Regiment, has resigned on account of ill health, and is on his way home. He reports that Col. Borgersrode behaved gallantly in the recent battle, and that Gen. Stanley so reports.

I. O. O. F.—Hennepin Lodge I. O. O. F. will meet at the Hall on Monday evening next, at which time all the members are requested to be present.

The members of St. Paul and Hennepin Lodges will meet jointly on Tuesday evening next, for the purpose of organization. A full attendance of the membership is requested. d2t

THE Clara Hine will make two trips to Minnehaha Falls to-day; will leave the lower levee at 10 o'clock and upper levee at half past ten; will remain at the Falls until half past two o'clock, in order that persons can take dinner and pic-nic at the hotel; will leave again at five o'clock, so that persons can attend the ball in the evening. Fare for the round trip, 50 cents.

FROM CENTRAL AMERICA.—We learn that Jacob Schaefer, recently from Central America, is sojourning at the Winslow. Mr. Schaefer has been engaged extensively in the silver mining business of that country and visits Minnesota with a view to make this State his home. He is a brother-in-law of Col. J. H. Stevens, of Glencoe. Should he settle with us his well established business qualifications will give him a prominent position in the future destinies of the State.

Arrival from Fort Garry----Great Drought---Fear of Famine.

W. G. Fonseca, Esq., arrived in this city last evening from the British settlement on Red River. We are indebted to him for the notes of the trip.

July 3d, 1862.

Left Fort Gary on the 12th of June. The settlement suffering from drought. Fears were entertained that the crops would fail. If so, flour would be carried from St. Cloud to the settlement. There would be suffering. Wheat could not be bought there for eight shillings sterling per bushel. The Canadian miners arrived in safety and left 87,000 in the hands of the Hudson Bay Company, and, the settlers. The road all the way from St. Joe to Alexandria was lined with miners' wagons going to Carribou and Salmon River. One young man from Sinkopee was lost. Having lingered behind, he became bewildered and took the back track—when found, he was fifty miles away from where he set out, hungry and exhausted.

RIVER ITEMS—The arrivals yesterday were the Northerner from St. Louis; Key City from Dunleith; McLellan from La Crosse; Clara Hine from Mankato; and the Antelope from Carver.

The War Eagle will make an excursion trip to Stillwater this morning, provided a sufficient number of persons desire to go. She will start from the lower levee at 7 o'clock. Fare for the round trip, $2.50 per couple.

The Clara Hine brought about 3,000 pounds of ginseng and other freight. She will make two excursions to Minnehaha Falls to-day, starting from the lower levee at 10 o'clock A. M. and 5 o'clock P. M.

The McLellan, Capt. Martin, clerk Cochrane, will depart at 8 o'clock this morning for La Crosse.

The Key City, Capt. Worden, clerks Eldred and Ewing, is the Prairie du Chien and Dunleith packet to-day at 8 A. M.

NOW IS YOUR TIME.—SUMMER GOODS at your own price. Business Suits, Fine Black Cloth Coats and Doeskin Pants, at a slight advance of New York cost.

Persons unacquainted with the Melodeon and its history, will bear in mind that we are the pioneers and leading manufacturers not only in the United States, but in the world. We commenced the manufacture of Melodeons in the fall of the year 1853, and since that time have finished and sold TWENTY-SEVEN THOUSAND. These instruments are now in use not only in the United States and Canada, but also in Europe, Asia, Africa, South America and the West Indies, and from all these quarters we have the most flattering testimonials of the high estimation in which they are held.

AT ALL INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITIONS THEY HAVE INVARIABLY BEEN AWARDED THE HIGHEST PREMIUM WHENEVER EXHIBITED IN COMPETITION WITH OTHERS.

We shall take pleasure in forwarding by mail (at our own expense) our Illustrated Catalogue, in which every instrument we manufacture is fully described and illustrated by elegant engravings.

All Melodeons of our manufacture, either sold by us or dealers in any part of the United States or Canada, are warranted to be perfect in every respect, and should any repairs be necessary before the expiration of five years from date of sale, we hold ourselves ready and willing to make the same free of charge, provided the injury is not caused by accident or design.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—DEFAULT has been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred and eighty three dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon that certain mortgage executed, acknowledged and delivered by John Wesley Bond and Johanna A. H. Bond, his wife, of Ramsey county, Territory (now State) of Minnesota, to Lowman Hawes, of Bloomington, (late of Madison), State of Indiana, and which bears date August twentieth, (20th) A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and was given to secure the payment of six hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($624.25), in one year from the date thereof, and interest thereon, and was duly recorded at three and a half (3½) of the clock, in the afternoon on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of August, in said year (1857), as a mortgage, in Book "L" of mortgages, pages three hundred and three (303) and three hundred and four (304), in the Registry of Deeds of said Ramsey county.

And the said Lowman Hawes, mortgagee, has duly paid the taxes upon the land therein described as lying in the said county of Ramsey, for the years 1858, 1859, 1860 and 1861, and all interest and charges thereon, and has the receipt of the treasurer of the said county of Ramsey therefor, and the amount so paid and the interest thereon, at the date of this notice, is twenty-eight and fifty-two one-hundredth dollars, $28.52) and claims an additional lien on the said land in the county of Ramsey, for the same; and no proceedings at law or in equity have been had to collect the said mortgage debt or any part of the same.

And whereas, said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, deceased and died intestate on the eleventh (11th) day of February, A. D. 1861, and upon due application, Mary Hawes, of Madison, in the county of Jefferson, State of Indiana, was on the eleventh (11th) day of April, A. D. 1861, duly appointed administratrix of the estate, &c., of said Lowman Hawes, deceased, by the Court of Common Pleas, being also a Court of Probate, of said county of Jefferson, and letters of administration have been duly issued to her out of said Court, as administratrix of said estate; an authenticated copy of the said letters of administration and appointment are now on file in the Probate Court in and for the county of Ramsey, in the State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to a power of sale, in said mortgage contained, authorizing and empowering the said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to make sale of the premises therein described upon default being made in the conditions of the said mortgage, and under and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31) in township thirty (30) north of range twenty-three (23) west, lying and being in the county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota; also the southeast quarter (¼) of section two (2), in township thirty-two (32) north, of range twenty-one (21) west, lying and being in the county of Washington and State of Minnesota, with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances belonging, or in anywise appertaining to the said tracts, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash, by the Sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Paul, in said county, at ten (10) of the clock in the forenoon, on Saturday, the sixteenth (16th) day of August, A. D. 1862, to pay said debt, taxes and interest and costs allowed by law.

Dated Saint Paul, Minn., July 1st, 1862.

MORTGAGE SALE.—John Cleveland and Catharine, his wife, of the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, by mortgaged deed, dated May 24, A. D. 1861, granted, bargained, sold and conveyed unto William H. Pelham, of the same place, and to his heirs and assigns forever, all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, described in said deed of mortgage as follows, viz: Lots numbered one (1) and two (2) of block numbered thirty-two (32) of the tract of land called Como, according to the recorded plat thereof in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the said county of Ramsey, conditioned to be void upon the payment of a certain promissory note therein mentioned.

Said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Ramsey county, Minnesota, on the 25th day of May, A. D. 1861 at 10 o'clock A. M., in Book R of mortgage deeds, on pages 565, 566 and 567.

The said mortgagee and the debt or promissory note thereby secured, were duly assigned by the said Wm. H. Pelham to James M. Freeman, of the city of Saint Paul, county and State aforesaid, on the 8th day of December, A. D. 1861, which said instrument of assignment was duly recorded on the ninth day of December, A. D. 1861, at 9¾ o'clock A. M., of that day in the office of the Register of Deeds of said Ramsey county, in Book B, of assignments on page 221.

Default has been made in the condition of payment of said promissory note and mortgage, and there is now claimed to be due and is due on the said promissory note and mortgage the just and full sum of one hundred and fifty dollars ($150), and no suit or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to the power of sale contained in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the statute in such case made and provided, the above described mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction, by the Sheriff of the county of Ramsey, in the said county of Ramsey, on the 16th (16th) day of July, A. D. 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the front door of the court house in St. Paul, Ramsey county, State of Minnesota, to satisfy and pay the amount due upon said promissory note and mortgage and all expenses allowed by law.

MORTGAGE SALE.—JOHN SMITH AND Elizabeth Smith, his wife, of the town of Reserve, Ramsey county, Minnesota, by mortgaged deed dated May 6, A. D. 1861, granted, bargained and conveyed unto James Knights, and to his heirs and assigns forever, all that tract or parcel of land, with the tenements thereunto belonging, situate and being in the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, and described in said deed of mortgage as follows, viz: Lot No 15 in Block No 6, in Winslow's addition to St. Paul, according to the recorded plat thereof in said county of Ramsey conditioned to be void upon the payment of a certain promissory note therein mentioned.

Said mortgage was duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds of Ramsey county aforesaid, on the 8th day of May, A. D. 1861, at 11.30 o'clock A. M., in Book "R" of mortgages, on pages 544, 549, 550 & 551. Default has been made in the conditions of said mortgage and promissory note and mortgage, and there is now claimed to be due, and is due on the said promissory note and mortgage, the just and full sum of four hundred and eighty-eight dollars and fourteen cents, ($488 14) and no suit or proceeding at law or otherwise has been instituted to recover said debt or any part thereof. And the said mortgagors did on the same day, agree to and deliver to the said mortgagee a certain indenture or agreement of waiver of all right of redemption of the mortgaged premises, by themselves, their heirs and assigns forever, in consequence of an act called "An act to repeal the law for the redemption of real estate," passed by the legislature of the State of Minnesota, approved on the 6th day of March, A. D. 1860, in case of a sale of said premises upon a foreclosure of said mortgage, which said indenture or agreement was duly recorded with said mortgage on Book "R" of mortgages, on page 548, 549, 550, 551.

Now, therefore notice is hereby given, that by virtue of a power of sale in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the Statutes, in such case provided, the above described mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction to the Sheriff of the said county of Ramsey to the highest bidder for cash, on the 5th day of July, A. D. 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the Court House in St. Paul, Ramsey county, State of Minnesota, to satisfy and pay the amount due upon said promissory note and mortgage and all the expenses allowed by law.

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

The PRESS has—in accordance with the fact—claimed for the last six months a larger circulation, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, than any other paper in the city or State, and has challenged the Pioneer to compare the circulation of that paper with the PRESS, and make the result public, which challenge has been constantly declined, thus, on the part of the Pioneer, practically admitting the larger circulation of the PRESS. The bills of newspaper for the several editions of the PRESS and Pioneer show conclusively that the circulation of the several editions of the PRESS is nearly two thousand sheets per week greater than the circulation of the Pioneer.

NO PAPER TO-MORROW.

Unless we have important war news—which we shall issue in an extra—there will be no paper published Saturday morning.

RETREAT OF OUR ARMY BEFORE RICHMOND.

Our worst apprehensions are realized in the news of this morning. Gen. McClellan was compelled by the overpowering numbers of the enemy to abandon his advanced position and retreat to the James River, where the protection and co-operation of the fleet saved his army in the last terrible fight of Tuesday afternoon.

In some of its features it is a repetition of the heavy reverse that the same army of the Potomac suffered at Bull Run, one year ago.

Our army has been outnumbered, if not out-Generaled. The entrenched position that we had held for weeks within five miles of Richmond, has been exchanged for a position seventeen miles from the rebel capital.

Some of the accounts state that McClellan had to abandon his siege guns—a loss that cannot soon be made good.

Other accounts would indicate that he had saved all his guns save one.

No estimates are given of the losses, which are said to be immense.

News of this reverse, when it reaches Europe, will almost certainly precipitate the intervention of France and England.

Two hundred thousand men are called for. If foreign interference comes, we shall need a half a million.

Richmond must fall if it takes half a million men in that one army to do it. The gunboats are more than equal to one hundred thousand men.

Let our State rally and fill up at once the Sixth Regiment, and proceed with additional regiments after harvest.

FROM VICKSBURG.

Commanderr Farragut has succeeded in running past the rebel batteries at Vicksburg, and forming a junction with the fleet above. Still, Vicksburg is not captured.

Two Hundred Thousand More Volunteers to be Called For.

NEW YORK, July 1.—It is stated that on recommendation of all the Governors of all loyal States, the President will call for two hundred thousand more volunteers, to hold points alreay occupied, and close the war.

No Telegraphing on the Fourth.

No news except war advices of great importance will be sent from the office of the Associated Press, from four A. M., July 4th, to eight A. M., July 5th.

D. H. CRAIG.

From the First Regiment.

CAMP OF BATTLE-FIELD NEAR FAIR OAKS STATION, VA., June 21, 1862.

His Excellency, Alexander Ramsey, Governor of Minnesota:

DEAR SIR:—William Card, of Company G, First Minnesota Volunteers, whose friends reside near Owatonna, died in the regimental hospital last night, from typhoid fever.

He was buried this morning in the woods near the house of a Mr. Adams, not far from our hospital. Captain Messick has taken every precaution to have the grave marked and protected.

Yours truly,
EDWARD D. NEILL, Chaplain.

Wisconsin Legislature----Superior Taxes.

SUPERIOR CITY, June 18.

To the Editor of the St. Paul Press:

Happily for Wisconsin the Legislature has adjourned sine die, having wasted the tax payers' money to a greater extent than usual. Most of the members had an axe to grind, judging from the acts of special legislation. The important bill of the session—the new assessment law—was killed in the Senate, and we must get along another year with the present bungling tax law. Our member and Senator greatly distinguished themselves, pushing the ten thousand dollar bond bill through in defiance of the protest of three fourths of the tax payers of Douglas county. What will these bonds be worth, seeing the county cannot pay State tax, and out of the levy of six hundred and fifty thousand dollars to pay a special United States judgment, but about one hundred dollars were collected from December up to the first of June.

Fine chance to pay seven per centum interest in New York on ten thousand dollars in bonds. Bonds not receivable for taxes are consequently worth less than county orders. We hope they will be printed on good paper, with a view in one corner of a few men with their hands full of tax-payers and working men's money. The tax sale will come off on the 1st Tuesday of September next—delinquents advertised in July—although the 1859 tax sale cost Douglas county $4,000 and the redemption printing in 1862 over $2,000, yet our officials wish to re-advertise and re-sell the identical pieces and parcels of land which were advertised, sold and bought in at the 1859 sale. It seems like stealing all around. I leave your readers to infer the status of the late Wisconsin Legislature from these facts.

The Rebels Uneasy About East Tennessee.

A correspondent of the Atlanta (Georgia) Confederacy, writing from Knoxville on the 15th, urges active movements for the defense of East Tennessee. Speaking of Governor Johnson's desire to enlist supporters, he says:

It cannot nor need it be disguised, that, if the purpose to reach this section could be achieved, he would have no sort of difficulty to bring to his standard hundreds, indeed, thousands, of our people. They are now comparatively quiet, and are only waiting the advance of the Federal Army, which they regard now as certain.

The writer adds:

It is not proper that I should speak of the movements of our forces in this department, even if I were posted. Suffice it to say that General Smith seems to be properly vigilant, as well as prompt and determined. He is at his post.

It is a question of the gravest import, to protect East Tennessee. We have an immense quantity of stores—more by two-thirds than any portion of the Confederacy. To take care of these is a matter of concern, and should be done at all hazards.

The Columbus (Georgia) Sun of the 17th inst. announces the arrival there of a portion of the 6th Florida regiment, which has been ordered to Chattanooga to reinforce General Smith.

CONGRESSIONAL.

MONDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—SENATE.—On motion of Mr. Willey, of Virginia, the bill for the admission of Western Virginia as a State was then taken up, the question being on the amendment offered by Mr. Sumner, that after the 4th of July, 1863, within the limits of said State, there shall be no slavery nor involuntary servitude otherwise than for the punishment of crime, whereof the party shall be duly convicted.

Mr. Sumner said that the bill proposed that all children born after April, 1863, shall be free, but allowed the present generation of slaves to continue slaves, thus admitting another slave State, with two Senators, for a whole generation. He (Sumner) could not consent to the admission of a State into the Union with a constitution recognizing slavery for a whole generation. He quoted from the speeches of Webster against the admission of slave States.

Mr. Hale, of New Hampshire, said that Webster, in his later, and perhaps wiser years, repudiated every system of prospective emancipation, and said as he (Hale) did not make this world, he was ready to take it as he foundit, and meet the question practically. He wanted to deal with this thing as a practical question. He would hail the advent of the admission of a slave State into the Union, with a clause for gradual emancipation more gladly and with greater satisfaction, than the admission of a free State. Why? Beause "there is more joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, than over ninety-nine that need no repentance."

After debate the bill was postponed.

The army appropriation bill was then taken up.

Mr. Hale offered an amendment to the amendment, limiting the rank and file to 750,000; limiting Major-Generals to 40, and Brigadier-Generals to 200. Adopted. (The limitation of 750,000 was subsequently stricken out.)

An amendment was adopted appropriating $2,000,000 for the comfort of the wounded and sick soldiers, and forwarding them to their homes.

An amendment was adopted, that all Aids-de-Camp, appointed since August, 1861, be referred to the Senate for confirmation.

An amendment was adopted, providing $5,000,000 for the collection, drilling and organization of volunteers.

After further consideration the bill passed. The resolution relative to certain grants of land to Michigan for Railroad purposes was passed.

Mr. Wilkinson, of Minnesota, offered the following:

Resolved, That the President inform the Senate, if not incompatible with the public interest, whether Chas. G. Fulton, one of the editors of the Baltimore newspaper, has been arrested and confined in prison, and if so, upon what charges and for what reason; whetherany charges are preferred against him, if so, what are those charges and by whom preferred, and on what evidence they are based.

Laid over, after which executive session adjourned.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—HOUSE.—The House went into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

All importers at home or abroad are requested to have their invoices authenticated, and it is provided that the bill shall take effect on the 1st of August.

The committee here arose, when all the amendments were concurred in without a division, excepting one offered by Mr. Ward, of New York: That goods, wares and merchandize, actually on shipboard, and bound to the United States, and all those in bonded warehouses or public stores, on the first of August next, shall not be subject to the duties imposed by this act. The amendment was lost—ayes 54, nays 54. The bill was then passed.

The bill enlarging the Erie and Oswego canal locks was taken up and tabled by a majority of two.

A motion to recousider was entered.

The bill appointing a commission to examine claims of loyal citizens for property destroyed by troops was postponed till the second Wednesday in December.

DIXIEDOM AND MULATTOES.—There has always been a vast amount of legal sophistry in Dixie in regard to the negro. In Jeff. Davis' conscription act mulattoes are classed with whites. For this purpose any white blood makes a man of him; in the slave market any African blood makes him a negro. In the Supreme Court of the United States, if he has the remotest fraction of this mixture, his ancestors are presumed to have been slaves. If the latter is mustered in as a soldier he must have the rights of a soldier as a man, and not a slave as a chattel.

How intricate are the legal trials that beset the path of human chattelism. In Congress the chattel has a representation, but no vote. In taxation his master regards him as a person, not as property. He opposes direct taxes, because his chattels will be taxed; but will he give up the members of Congress those chattels send to Washington? It requires great legal tact and acumen to maintain positions so opposite, but a Southern strict construcionist can do it.—Cincinnati Gazette.

—The Union Convention which convened at Indianapolis last Wednesday was a perfect bomb shell thrown into the Bright organization of this State. It took them all aback! In Thursday's Sentinel we notice that they will call another convention to meet some time in the latter part of next month. Whether they intend to get up another ticket, we know not, but that their disloyal platform will be tinkered up more or less we are satisfied.

The Brightites are amazed, and stand confused. Their secret organizations to resist the Government, of which Judge Hughes reports, have been exposed. Their every effort made to aid the rebels in destroying the Government though secret, have been made public, hence they must again meet and consult about what is to be done.—La Porte (Indiana) Herald.

SAINT PAUL, July 3d, 1862.

The undersigned will receive sealed proposals at his office in Saint Paul, Minnesota, until 12 o'clock M. on the 18th day of July, for furnishing and delivering, at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, complete rations for United States troops, prisoners of war, and to any other persons subsisted in kind by the Government, to be sent there.

The ration consists as follows: Three-fourths of a pound of pork or bacon, or one and a fourth pounds of fresh or salt beef; twenty-two ounces of bread or flour, or one pound of hard bread, or one and a fourth pounds of corn meal; and at the rate to every one hundred rations, of eight quarts of beans or peas, and ten pounds of rice or hominy; ten pounds of green coffee, or eight pounds of roasted and ground coffee, or one and a half pounds of tea; fifteen pounds of sugar; four quarts of vinegar; one pound of sperm candles, or one and a fourth pounds of adamantine candles, or one and a half pounds of tallow candles; four pounds of soap, and two quarts of salt.

In addition to the foregoing, there is allowed twice per week one gallon of molasses per one hundred rations, and thrice per week, if practicable, an issue of potatoes, at the rate of one pound per man. When beans, peas, rice, hominy, or potatoes cannot be issued in the proportions given above, an equivalent in value shall be issued in some other proper food. Desiccated potatoes, or desiccated mixed vegetables, at the rate, per one hundred rations, of one hundred and fifty ounces of the former, or one hundred ounces of the latter, may be substituted for beans, peas, rice, hominy, or fresh potatoes, when these articles cannot be issued; or, upon the requisition of the proper officer, and when the supply on hand will admit of it, they may be issued at the foregoing rate, twice per week in lieu of beans or peas, or in lieu of rice or hominy. Fresh beef may be issued as often as the commanding officer of any detachment or regiment may require it, when practicable, in place of salt meat.

The Acting Commissary reserves to himself the right to diminish or increase the number of rations required, whenever the interests of the government demand it.

Bidders must name their sureties in their bids. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids deemed extravagant.

The contract will extend to, and include the 31st day of December, 1862.

OUR ARMY DEFEATED BEFORE RICHMOND.

A Terrific Battle on Tuesday.

Our Men in Good Spirits.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 2.

A gunboat has just arrived here from the scene of action, yesterday, ten miles above City Point. That division of our army has been fighting four days, and has retreated about seventeen miles. The fight of yesterday was most terrific, the enemy having two or three to our one. The battle commenced with our land forces and after about four hours fighting our gunboats got in range and pourred into the rebels a heavy and incessant fire: this fire the rebels stood about two hours, and then retreated.

Our troops have captured, notwithstanding their disadvantage, a large number of artillery pieces and 2,000 prisoners, among whom is rebel Gen. Magruder. The place where this last action took place is near Turkey Creek.

The retreat of the enemy on Saturday evening was with great disorder, and their loss has been very heavy—much greater, it is thought, than ours; still there is nothing definite in regard to losses.

In the retreat forced upon General McClellan by the superior numbers of the enemy, I learn that he had to spike his guns and leave them on the field, after burning the carriages. The nature of the ground rendered it impossible to move them.

In the retreat many of our sick and wounded were necessarily left behind. There are of course innumerable reports and rumors here, but I send only what appears to be authentic.

NEW YORK, July 3.

The Times has detailed reports of the battles of Thursday, Friday and Saturday, from which it appears that the night wing of our army, about 20,000 men, was attacked Friday by a rebel force not less than 50,000 and after a gallant fight our troops crossed the Chickahominy in order. On Saturday night and Sunday our whole left wing, under Heintzleman, Keyes and Sumner fell back along the line of the railroad and the Williamsburg road and marched to James river. The rebels crossed the Chickahominy in great force on Sunday, reaching the railroad, but made no pursuit, remaining, however, in possession of the ground previously occupied by our troops, on both sides of the Chickahominy, including bridges and earthworks we had erected against their approach.

All our army stores, &c., were withdrawn in order, without much loss. Of course there was tremendous fighting during these movements, and heavy losses on both sides.

NEW YORK, July 3.

The Times correspondent states that McClellan established his headquarters on Monday on the Malvorn Hills, one mile back of Turkey Island Bend.

At two o'clock Monday afternoon firing was heard for two hours in the direction of White Oak swamp, where Ayers was holding the rebels in check, who were attempting to cross.

An immense force of rebel artillery and cavalry, fresh from Richmond, then appeared on our left, when Porter's and Keyes' commands went to resist the enemy.

A most terrible fight ensued, and it became evident that the overpowering force of rebels were gaining when the gunboats Galena and Aroostook opened with their 54-pounders upon the traitors. The fight continued till dark, diminishing away into occasional musket shots.

About 10 o'clock in the evening, Prince De Joinville, Duc De Chartres and Count De Paris left headquarters, embarking aboard the gunboat Jacob Belle, with official dispatches from Gen. McClellan to the Government. Gen. McClellan accompanied them to the boat, and bade them a final adieu. When the Jacob Belle left all was quiet along the river. And several steamers and transports were passed going up the James river.

Reinforcements Reach General McClellan.

WASHINGTON, June 3.

A dispatch from Gen. McClellan to the War Department from Berkley's Bar, July 2d, 5.30 P. M., states that he has succeeded in getting his army to that place on the banks of the James River, and has lost but one gun which had to be abandoned last evening, (Tuesday,) because it broke down, that an hour and a half ago the rear of wagon train was within a mile of the camp and only one wagon abandoned, that evening had a severe battle, yesterday, (Tuesday), that we beat the enemy badly, the men fighting even better than before, that the men are in good spirits and that reinforcements from Washington had arrived.

BRILLIANT CHARGES.

CORINTH, July 2.

Eight or ten regimenis of cavalry, under General Chalmers, attacked Colonel Sheridan's advance guard, two miles south of Booneville, about eight o'clock yesterday morning. Our companies made most brilliant charges on the enemy's rear. At the same time Major Comi, of the Second Iowa cavalry, made a dash in front and on the enemy's left, alarming the enemy so much that Col. Sheridan was enabled to hold them in check At about half past three the enemy commenced retreating, but Sheridan, having only the Second Iowa and Second Michigan cavalry, was unable to pursue. No report of loss given.

Rebel Gunboats Burnt.

STEAM RAM SWITZERLAND, Above Vicksburg, June 28. Via Memphis, July 2d.

To E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

Since my last dispatch informing you that I have communicated with Flag officer Farragut I have been able to maintain constant intercourse with his fleet through the active energy of Gen. Williams.

On the 26th inst. I went up the Yazoo river with two rams, the Monarch and Lancaster, the latter under command of medical cadet. Charles R. Ellet. I proceeded about sixty-five miles to a point where the river is obstructed by a raft built by the enemy and protected by four guns in battery; my object was to capture or destroy three of the enemy's gunboats that I was informed was lying before the raft, the Van Dorn, Ralley and Livingston. I ran up close under the battery, and was mortified to see the enemy set fire to the boats and start them adrift down the river upon us. I was obliged to leave the river to escape conflagration. The three boats were totally destroyed. The enemy did not fire upon us.

It is with great pleasure that I announce the arrival of Flag-officer Farragut with nine vessels of his fleet above Vicksburg. They passed up this A. M. about five o'clock, through a severe fire from 30 or 40 of enemy's guns. Their loss as far as reported was four men killed, and 13 wounded.

THE FIGHT NEAR CHARLESTON

DETAILS OF THE AFFAIR.

OUR FORCES REPULSED.

On Tuesday, the 10th, a skirmish occurred on the island, which reflected great credit on our forces engaged in it. About two miles northerly from the landing is a fine old mansion, owned by an old gentleman named Grimble. He was, as I am informed by one of his negroes, a Union man, and was forced away from home by a band of armed rebels, among whom was his own son. The house is delightfully situated, within a few rods of the waters of the inlet. In front of the house is a row of majestic live oaks, and on the landward side is an open space of several acres, skirted by forests. A road runs through this space northerly and southerly, and another road comes in from the east, lying in the direction of the forces and batteries of the enemy about Secessionville.

On the afternoon of the day just mentioned a force of the enemy, of from five hundred to a thousand, with a small body of cavalry came down this road, evidently for the purpose of cutting off such pickets as we might have i.. the neighborhood. They were unaware of our being in force in this vicinity. They drove in our pickets, and were coming into the open space, when they were encountered by the 97th Pennsylvania and one or two companies of the 45th Pennsylvania, who held their ground with great gallantry, and finally compelled the enemy to flee, leaving on the ground fifteen dead and five wounded, of whom two have since died. Our loss was four killed (three from the 97th and one from the 45th) and eight wounded.

During the engagement our battery fired over the heads of our forces into the ranks of the enemy, greatly to their consternation, as they had no idea that we had any artillery. While the enemy were on their retreat the fire at long range, from our batteries and from the gunboats in the stream, must have annoyed them excessively, although if any were killed in this way they must have been carried off, as all that were found on the ground were killed or wounded by musketry. The cavalry took no part in the action.

June 14.—During the greater part of to-day, our battery just erected has been engaging the batteries of the enemy, with apparent advantage to our side. There were two land batteries of the enemy, together with a hulk mounting two guns, lying in the creek which penetrates the island, and intended to command it. Our fire has been chiefly from the battery on the right of our lines, worked by a company of the Third Rhode Island. The fire has silenced the batteries of the enemy against which it was directed, and has riddled the hulk. The James and Parrott guns have done nobly. Nothing is now heard from the enemy except the occasional heavy, sullen roar of a mortar. This is placed in a masked work, where it cannot be reached by our shots. It is believed that the work done to-day will enable us to advance our lines very considerably, and possibly to reach Secessionville, the central point of the island, near which it is believed that the enemy have heavy works.

JUNE 15.—To-day our pickets have penetrated further into the enemy's lines than ever before, and find apparently no obstruction short of a battery just this side of Secessionville.

JUNE 16.—A sad, sad day. I will attempt the weary task of telling you some of its details of misery. As it is impossible to give a historical narrative of the engagement before the official returns are in, I shall aim simply to relate what took place under my own sight, or under such circumstances as to render me peculiarly conversant with it. The troops, exhausted by many nights of fatigue, or picket duty, had lain down, anticipating a few hours of rest, when, at about half past nine on Sunday evening, orders were received by all the forces of the command to be in line of march at one on the following morning.

Accordingly, soon after twelve the camps were all in motion; the regiments formed separately, then took their places in order—the Eighth Michigan having the right, the Seventh Connecticut next, then the Twenty-eighth Massachusetts.

THE ATTACK AND REPULSE.

They advanced heroically upon the left flank of the work (on our right); as soon as they came within short range, not more than two hundred yards from the rampart, the enemy commenced a terrible fire of grapeshot, canister, and musketry. In spite of this, the noble Michigan troops pressed their way forward, struggled through an abatis of stakes and trees, and some of them succeeded in climbing up some fifteen or twenty feet to the top of the rampart; but here they were met by a frightful fire from the rifle-pits, with which the inside of the work was crowded. It was impossible for them to remain. Already the ramparts were piled with their dead, and they unwillingly recoiled.

By this time the 7th Connecticut had come into the field, and formed into battalion front, still marching at double quick across the ridge. The line was formed with the centre opposite the right angle of the enemy's work (on our left hand, of course), with the design of attacking that flank of the work. But as the regiment advanced, the left of the line came unexpectedly upon a ravine or bank which slopes off into a morass. Unable to advance straightforward, the left necessarily crowded upon the middle and right, forcing them out under the fire of the enemy's guns, as well as throwing the line into some confusion. When the line had got within perhaps two hundred yards of the work, the enemy's guns opened with an infernal hail of grape, canister and musketry, which seemed to mow the men down in winnows. They advanced, however, till the colors stood within probably a hundred or a hundred and twenty yards of the work. The men by this time were using their guns briskly, and were firing as they advanced, at the gunners on the parapets. A good many advanced far beyond the colors, and some reached the most of the work, and from what shelter they could gain, behind the ridges of the field, they continued to fire.

The line, however, withered under the destructive fire. The men, worn with previous fatigue, were exhausted with the rapid run for a mile or more across the ridged ground. They had not the physical energy to press forward and scale the work. The line fell back for about a hundred yards, and there was completely re-formed, dressing on the colors. The order was then received to march to the right and attempt the work on the left angle. So the line was formed under the continued fire I have spoken of, and the regiment was marched by the left flank (the companies keeping nobly together), right along the face of the enemy's work. At this point of time the order was received to retire beyond the first ditch and await orders there. This was done, and the regiment remained behind this cover, shot and shell falling all about him for some minutes. Meanwhile the Twenty-eighth Massachusetts had advanced toward the work, but had broken; nor can I speak from personal observation of their further movements. The Seventy-ninth New York also had made a most gallant charge upon the works, but the most desperate valor was unavailing, and they too had retired. The Eighth Michigan, Seventh Connecticut, and Seventy-ninth New York were now in line in the ditch just spoken of. The order was given by the general in command that the men should retreat to the next field, where was the shelter of a hedge surmounting a wall or ridge of earth.

THE DAY LOST.

By this time it was evident that the day was lost beyond redeeming, and the word was given for the battery to retire. As soon as this was safely out of the way, the troops were commanded to retreat, removing all the dead and wounded so far as this could be effected. The troops retired for the most part in good order. I saw the Seventh Connecticut halt to dress and correct the aligament, within, perhaps, a thousand yards of the battery, and then retire with a well preserved battalion front, as if on parade.

The day was utterly lost. It only remained to get way the dead and wounded as far as possible, and to remove the arms that had been thrown down by the wounded, or dropped from the hands of the dying. Two surgeons of one of the regiments, with the hospital orderly, followed by men with stretchers, traversed the field of battle, venturing to within rifle range of the fort. They were not molested from the fort, but a 6-pounder from one of the flank earthworks threw a shot near them.

The troops then retired. General Stevens was among the last to leave the field. The house was fired, I suppose, because we had been fired upon from it. The enemy were seen for the first time during the day coming out of their works, and picking up the dead and wounded upon the field, apparently with care.

BRAVERY OF OUR TROOPS.

In looking back upon the morning's work, there was but one feature on which we could look with anything but the bitterest regret. That was the heroic bravery displayed by the troops with hardly an exception. (I say hardly, for I ought I think to except the Forty-sixth New York. I have no doubt that these countrymen of the great Frederic are individually brave, to recklessness, but there is an utter want of morale, a disorganization among them that renders them utterly useless or any critical occasion. Losing their heads, they discharged their guns among our own men. They ran by dozens from the field, uncontrolled by appeals of threats.

The magnitude of the loss attests the severity of the encounter and the bravery of our men. There were engaged Stevens' Division of six regiments, two regiments of Williams' Brigade, and two batteries. The regiments did not carry into action more than from 550 to 600 men each. The two batteries number perhaps 200 men.

KILLED AND WOUNDED.

The loss of all the forces, in killed, wounded and missing, is 686. The loss is divided among the regiments in something like this proportion:

Eighth Michigan	105
Seventy-ninth New York	110
Seventh Connecticut	88
Third New Hampshire	88
Twenty-eighth Massachusetts	75
One hundredth Pennsylvania (Roundheads)..	55
Third Rhode Island	45
Forty-sixth New York	40

There was no panic among the troops, no rout; they were obedient to orders, fearless, and calm. There might be seen among them a hardy valor, a fiery daring, a coolness, a discipline beyond all praise.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

The officer to whom belongs the responsibility of this affair is Gen. Benham. Indeed it is understood that he assumes this responsibility, and calls the affair "a very successful reconnoissance."

JUNE. 19.—I must risk even the mail in order to enjoy the rare luxury of recording an act creditable to our enemies. A day or two after the engagement Gen. Benham sent a flag of truce to request the privilege of removing the bodies of our dead. The reply was made that he ought, in accordance with the usages of war, to have sent immediately after the battle for the dead; that had he done so they would have been given up; that our stretchers were not fired upon while removing the dead and wounded; that the dead had already been buried, and that they would send a list of the prisoners and wounded in their hands. In all these points they had the advantage of the General. They also offered an opportunity to send the prisoners any money, clothes or letters.

GEN. BENHAM UNDER ARREST.

JUNE 21.—Gen. Benham is now under arrest for disobeying Hunter's orders, which were not to advance on Charleston.

INTERESTING TO BEER DRINKERS.—The Taunton Republican gives the following refreshing story, which we commend to the attention of those in the habit of "tipping the mug." A few days since, says that paper, a man went into one of the beer shops in town, and called for a half pint of ale. The ale was brought him in a common pint measure; he drank a little, and thinking it tasted rather queerly, asked the storekeeper if anything was the matter with his beer. The answer was that it was first-rate, being just bought in Boston. This satisfied the customer, and he swallowed the remainder of the beer. When he got through, seeing something in the bottom of the measure, he asked what it was. "I declare," said the shopkeeper, "I forgot to take out the soap the last time I shaved!"

—"If I should be drafted into the service, what would you do?" said a gentleman to his wife, lately. "Get a substitute for you, I suppose," whereupon the worst half changed the subject of conversation.

Execution of Wm. H. Hawkins.

The New York World says that on Friday last Wm. H. Hawkins was hung at the Tombs for the murder of Captain Adams, of the ship Lammergier, on the 28th of September last. The evidence given on his trial showed that while on the passage from London to Callao, Captain Adams had some difficulty with Hawkins, who was steward, and remarked that he would run the blockade at New Orleans and sell the negro. Eighteen hours after that Hawkins borrowed an adze from a sailor, and killed the captain in his stateroom. He was a very intelligent man for a negro, could read and write quite well, and conversed on very many subjects in the most intelligent manner. In fact, he appeared to be a well-informed man. Shortly before his execution he wrote the following statement regarding himself:

I was born in South Kingston, Rhode Island, in 1828. I left my mother at the age of six years, and spent thirteen and a half years at farming. In this time I spent eleven and a half years with one man. I then commenced going to sea, and cooking part of the time in the hotels, cook-shops and steamboats. During this time I have been in nearly every port of the American coast, and in a number of foreign ports, and in vessels from seventy-six tons up to two thousand tons. I have no occasion to speak of my fare during this time, but I may say that I have had better than some and worse than others, but I shared an average with laboring men. I would say a word in behalf of the seamen. It is too bad, however, that I must speak principally of American ships. It is a positive fact that many captains are very tyrannous with their men. They commence the ill treatment as soon as they leave our ports, and treat them so that they are obliged to leave in foreign ports for fear of their lives, and many are killed and hove into the sea. If men, in many cases, make complaints to the consul in a foreign port, the captain bribes the consul, and he puts the men on board the ship again; and if men, in many cases, make a demand for recompense, the captain has the preference on the ground that the sailor is nothing more or less than a dog, and the officers make their boast of bribing the lawyer to keep the man waiting till the ship sails, as the man is obliged to go himself. It would be well to look into this important matter. I speak of this, for people living on shore don't see this awful treatment. But I have met with good treatment till the last ship in which I sailed. The Captain, Adams, has the name of being very gentlemanly when on shore. Captain Adams sailed from the port of New York for Callao in 1860, with a cook and steward, shipped from the keeper of the "Colored Sailors' Home,' and he killed the cook and hove him overboard at sea, and killed one of the men in Callao on the same voyage.

The ill treatment of this captain has been the means of bringing me in this condition, and for rebuking which I am now condemned to die.

HAWKINS' APPEARANCE.

Soon the drum sounded a muffled roll, the marines took their places, and after a few moments of silent waiting, Marshal Murray and his deputies came out from the door of the male prison. Hawkins followed, with two or three ministers. They passed under the "Bridge of Sighs," and toward the scaffold. He walked steadily to the chair, under the pendant rope, and sat down. The short noose was already about his neck. He was large and portly looking, and his face bore the usual every-day expression. He wore a suit of blue flannel, with a white anchor embroidered on his coat. Marshal Murray read the warrant in a low trembling voice, and, on concluding, Hawkins was asked if he wished to speak.

HIS DYING SPEECH.

GENTLEMEN: I stand before you to-day to be hung. I am not in fear of death, but, if anything, anxious to go. I came here a stranger among you, and I cannot but feel gratitude for the kindness I have been shown since I have been among you. I am prepared and anxious to go. I have followed the sea for fourteen years, and you ashore do not know the outrages seamen are subjected to by their officers. This is particularly the case on American ships, until it is hard to get a good crew to sail in an American ship. A good man won't stand much of this, and they are compelled to do things they otherwise wouldn't. This is the fault of American consuls at foreign ports; if they were to do as the consuls of other nations do, this would not be. These matters ought to be fully investigated, as the sailors are compelled and drove to it. Many good men, whose deaths you never hear of, would thus be saved. I have never seen a man killed and hove overboard, but I have seen men die in their skins, which is just as bad. My case was a very circumstantial one. If I told you that I did not kill Capt. Adams you would not believe me, but if I told you I did, even if there were fifty witnesses, there would'nt be one of them sworn. Again if I told you I killed him you would all believe me, but if I told you I did not, none of you would believe me, though it is the same man that says it. Such you see is the little confidence placed in human testimony. It's very hard that persons cannot believe one another. I shall therefore leave you to draw your own inferences from the circumstantial evidence given on my trial, for nothing I can say can change your opinion. I believe good men will not thank the jury much for convicting me.

I believe the President tried to do right in not interfering in my case. I hold no spite or malice against any one. I believe Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, a just man, and so are many of his officers. They are noble men. He is the best President you have had since George Washington. His officers are noble to this country in the time of need. He faces more than any two men ought to, but he dares them all. I am prepared to go now, as well off as I am, instead of living ten or twenty years more, to be forever lost. I always was a bashful man, but as Peter could speak before all men, so I speak before you to-day. I think God Almighty has forgiven all my sins, which I know are great and very many. I hope you will all try to meet me again, where we shall meet no more to part forever. Meet me in heaven, where the "wicked cease from troubling and the weary are forever at rest." He then returned thanks to the marshal and his assistants and the prisod officers.

Rev. H. H. Gabrett then made a prayer, after which Hawkins repeated the Lord's prayer, and then prayed a few minutes for those who had been friendly to him, for the President, and rulers of the country. He petitioned for the Divine watchfulness over the army and navy, that the rebellion might be crushed and peace re-established; that the heart of the master might be softened toward the slave, and that masters may be permitted to see God's marvelous light, when they shall no longer hold their fellow man in bondage. He prayed for his sister, and that the Comforter might be sent to her after his death, and to him, dying. He closed with a fervent amen.

More than one in the little assembly around seemed deeply affected and mingled their "amens" with that of the speaker. Hats were lifted as he prayed, and one or two persons knelt on the boards near the scaffold. Of the executioner, only one eye was visible, as he peered through a hole cut in his rough enclosure.

Hawkins then shook hands with his friends and the marshal, and, in a firm tone, but without effort, said, "Farewell, friends, God bless you."

HUNG.

The marshal stepped back one or two paces. A deputy joined together with ring and hook the noose around the prisoner's neck and the rope pendant from the gallows. The black cap was pulled down. The marshal waved his sword. The executioner's eye instantly disappeared from the hole where he had been peering. A dull striking sound was heard, and Hawkins was snatched into the air, where he swung slightly with hardly a vibration of the muscles. Three or four times his breast heaved, and then all was still, for he was dead. After hanging about half an hour the body was taken down, a coroner's jury empannelled, and after the usual verdict was rendered the remains were removed for burial. The painful scene was over, and soon the prison yard was left alone to its wall roses and its gibbet.

The Only Loyal Men in Eastern Virginia the Negroes.

The regular army correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writing from McClellan's army, makes the following statement in regard to the loyalty and reliability of contrabands:

THE NEGRO.

History will record that the only friends of the Union found by this army in Eastern Virginia are negro slaves. So are they the only true friends we have found elsewhere in Secessia. But a little while ago a slave warned us that Col. Jeb. Stuart was moving swiftly to our rear with a strong force of cavalry. Our own cavalry did not move in time to intercept the expedition. The experience of the various reconnoissance departments of our armies in the field is uniform. The information derived by them from tepid Union citizens and deserters, is always vague and unsatisfactory, often treacherous. A negro seldom deceives. He imparts his information to the best of his ability. Many strive to acquire information by which they hope to recommend themselves upon reaching our lines. Please observe—and I speak upon testimony of officers serving in the topographical department—that the military maps of this field have been corrected upon information derived from contrabands. They have correctly described localities and roads which were inaccessible to reconnoissance officers, and in every instance where it has been possible to compare the intelligence derived from them with the country, they have proved reliable. A gentleman connected with the topographical department, assured me distinctly, that their best maps were drafted upon information communicated by negroes. But the testimony is uniform throughout rebeldom. None but vicious politicians or stupid officers pretend to dispute it. Unhappily the army is full of both classes, of high rank. It is humiliating to reflect upon both the stupidity and heartlessness of officers who might have benefitted the country so much by using the instruments which Providence forced upon them, but which they criminally rejected. Well, sirs, I am satisfied that there are Generals in our armies who would not avail themselves of the assistance of a fugitive slave, if it would save the country from ruin, and, unhappily, the Government at Washington seems as hopelessly stolid. Well did the poet say: "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn."

A Veteran.

There is now residing in the town of Warren, Herkimer county, in this state, a survivor of the revolution, John Marshall, who was present at the battle of Bunker Hill, the surrender of Yorktown, and the evacuation of this city by the British at the close of the war. Mr. Marshall is a native of Colchester, Connecticut, and was employed to transport supplies for the American army. In this capacity he served Generals Putnam, Ward and Washington, and conveyed the baggage of Count de Rochambeau from Rhode Island to West Point. During the siege of Yorktown he was engaged in hauling ordnance. When the enemy evacuated New York he was present, and accompanied the Americans into the city.

After the restoration of peace, he took up his residence in the town of Warren, and became the father of sixteen children, thirteen of whom became the heads of families. The descendants of this veteran now exceed one hundred and fifty in number, and of these four are great-great-grand-children.

Mr. Marshall entered zealously into all the political controversies which agitated the country, and was an ardent Republican. Colonel Prentiss, the editor of the federal journal at Cooperstown, was the special object of his averson, and they had frequent disputes together, sometimes coming to blows. Subsequently, when Colonel Prentiss, with other members of the federal party, became supporters of General Jackson, Mr. Marshall was so annoyed at their accession to the democratic ranks, as to abandon participation in political matters.

His oldest son, Mr. Romeo W. Marshall, inherited all the father's pertinacity of opinion, as well as his patriotism. During the last war with Great Britain, he enlisted under General Tompkins, for whom he entertained, personally and politically, the warmest attachment. He subsequently removed to Trenton, Oneida county, and now holds the office of postmaster at Redwood. Mr. D. D. T. Marshall, of the Twenty-first ward of this city, is his oldest son.

The other members of this numerous family are equally distinguished for their patriotism, earnest impulsiveness of temperament and radical sentiments. No less than seven of them were with the Grand Army at Yorktown, and more are ready in the event of a conscription. Doctor Guy C. Marshall, late of Bellevue Hospital, holds the post of surgeon to Berdan's regiment of sharpshooters.

The venerable patriarch, now almost a century old, is hale and vigorous, mentally and physically, and overflows with loyal enthusiasm. His memory is unimpaired, and he enters with much zeal into all the important questions of the day. He is apparently good for several years longer; tenacity of life being characteristic of the family.—New York Evening Post.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches, &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

EYE & EAR.

DR. UNDERWOOD

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

CASH CAPITAL.....$100,000
NETT SURPLUS..... 138,000

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO SEVEN PER CENT. PER ANNUM—THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The net profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums above the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded three hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $820,993.63. The premium income of thirty of the smaller companies was $851,578.65 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,900,-000.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the mass of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent corporation. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John Metcee, Secretary, those well accustomed officers very justly say: "The well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, commend it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the crack company of our state, in high credit all over the Union, worked upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last summed up to $1,521,268.08, against an actual liability of only $35,089.43; and, moreover, it is worth noting that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $124,434.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bonds and mortgages $9,0,219.53, secured on real estate worth $1,75,900, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $220,686. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $1,06,75,148, taking $820,993 premium, and paid losses $535,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after reserving an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "net surplus" of $169,011 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

H. J. BRAINARD & CO.'S

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.

The need of a first class Mill of this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we can make as good Flour and as great a yield to the bushel as any Mill in Minnesota, and respectfully solicit a fair trial.

FROM THE FIFTH REGIMENT.—A letter received from Gov. Ramsey, dated at St. Louis, June 28th, says Chaplain Chaffee, of the 5th Regiment, has resigned on account of ill health, and is on his way home. He reports that Col. Borgersrode behaved gallantly in the recent battle, and that Gen. Stanley so reports.

I. O. O. F.—Hennepin Lodge I. O. O. F. will meet at the Hall on Monday evening next, at which time all the members are requested to be present.

The members of St. Paul and Hennepin Lodges will meet jointly on Tuesday evening next, for the purpose of organization. A full attendance of the membership is requested. d2t

THE Clara Hine will make two trips to Minnehaha Falls to-day; will leave the lower levee at 10 o'clock and upper levee at half past ten; will remain at the Falls until half past two o'clock, in order that persons can take dinner and pic-nic at the hotel; will leave again at five o'clock, so that persons can attend the ball in the evening. Fare for the round trip, 50 cents.

FROM CENTRAL AMERICA.—We learn that Jacob Schaefer, recently from Central America, is sojourning at the Winslow. Mr. Schaefer has been engaged extensively in the silver mining business of that country and visits Minnesota with a view to make this State his home. He is a brother-in-law of Col. J. H. Stevens, of Glencoe. Should he settle with us his well established business qualifications will give him a prominent position in the future destinies of the State.

Arrival from Fort Garry---Great Drought---Fear of Famine.

W. G. Fonseca, Esq., arrived in this city last evening from the British settlement on Red River. We are indebted to him for the notes of the trip.

July 3d, 1862.

Left Fort Gary on the 12th of June. The settlement suffering from drought. Fears were entertained that the crops would fail. If so, flour would be carried from St. Cloud to the settlement. There would be suffering. Wheat could not be bought there for eight shillings sterling per bushel. The Canadian mowers arrived in safety and left $2,000 in the hands of the Hudson Bay Company, and the soldiers. The road all the way from St. Joe to Alexandria was lined with miners' wagons going to Carriboo and Salmon River. One young man from Sinkapee was lost. Having lingered behind, he became bewildered and took the back track—when found, he was fifty miles away from where he set out, hungry and exhausted.

RIVER ITEMS—The arrivals yesterday were the Northerner from St. Louis; Key City from Dunleith; McLellan from La Crosse; Clara Hine from Mankato; and the Antelope from Carver.

The War Eagle will make an excursion trip to Stillwater this morning, provided a sufficient number of persons desire to go. She will start from the lower levee at 7 o'clock. Fare for the round trip, $2.50 per couple.

The Clara Hine brought about 3,000 pounds of ginseng and other freight. She will make two excursions to Minnehaha Falls to-day, starting from the lower levee at 10 o'clock A. M. and 5 o'clock P. M.

The McLellan, Capt. Martin, clerk Cochrane, will depart at 8 o'clock this morning for La Crosse.

The Key City, Capt. Worden, clerks Eldred and Ewing, is the Prairie du Chien and Dunleith packet to-day at 8 A. M.

PROSPECTUS
SAINT PAUL PRESS,
A REPUBLICAN NEWSPATER.

The success which the PRESS has achieved affords the best evidence of its value as a newspaper, and that it more fully meets the wants and views of the people of Minnesota than any other period
It has attained a circulation in its several editions
GREATER THAN ANY OTHER PAPER IN ST. PAUL, OR NORTHWEST OF MILWAUKEE.
The PRESS will continue to advocate the interests of free American labor:
THE PERPETUITY OF THE UNION
And the preservation of Republican institutions; honesty and economy in Government;
THE VIGOROUS PROSECUTION OF THE WAR FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF THE SLAVEHOLDERS' REBELLION;
The use of every available means to crush the rebellion effectually, without regard to the preservation of the PECULIAR INSTITUTION for which the war was begun.
The PRESS will give the current history of the war;
The general news of the day:
All the telegraphic news of the Associated Press of the United States the same morning that it is given to the public in the leading cities of the Union;
The proceedings of Congress and State Legislature; and, BY AUTHORITY,
THE LAWS OF MINNESOTA.
MARKET REPORTS by telegraph, from New York, Chicago and Milwaukee; and carefully prepared commercial reports of the market and trade of St. Paul.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—DEFAULT has been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred and eighty three dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon that certain mortgage executed, acknowledged and delivered by John Wesley Bond and Johanna A. H. Bond, his wife, of Ramsey county, Territory (now State) of Minnesota, to Lowman Hawes, of Bloomington, (late of Madison), State of Indiana, and which bears date August twentieth, (20th) A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and was given to secure the payment of six hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($624.25), in one year from the date thereof, and interest thereon, and was duly recorded at three and a half (3½) of the clock, in the afternoon on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of August, in said year (1857), as a mortgage, in Book "L" of mortgages, pages three hundred and three (303) and three hundred and four (304), in the Registry of Deeds of said Ramsey county.
And the said Lowman Hawes, mortgagee, has duly paid the taxes upon the land therein described as lying in the said county of Ramsey, for the years 1858, 1859, 1860 and 1861, and all interest and charges thereon, and has the receipt of the treasurer of the said county of Ramsey therefor, and the amount so paid and the interest thereon, at the date of this notice, is twenty-eight and fifty-two one-hundredth dollars, $28.52) and claims an additional lien on the said land in the county of Ramsey, for the same; and no proceedings at law or in equity have been had to collect the said mortgage debt or any part of the same.
And whereas, said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, deceased and died intestate on the eleventh (11th) day of February, A. D. 1861, and upon due application, Mary Hawes, of Madison, in the county of Jefferson, State of Indiana, was on the eleventh (11th) day of April, A. D. 1862, duly appointed administratrix of the estate, &c., of said Lowman Hawes, deceased by the Court of Common Pleas, being also a Court of Probate, of said county of Jefferson, and letters of administration have been duly issued to her out of said Court, as administratrix of said estate; an authenticated copy of the said letters of administration and appointment are now on file in the Probate Court in and for the county of Ramsey, in the State of Minnesota.
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to a power of sale, in said mortgage contained, authorizing and empowering the said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to make sale of the premises therein described upon default being made in the conditions of the said mortgage, and under and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described as follows, to wit: the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31) in township thirty (30) north of range twenty-three (23) west, lying and being in the county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota; also the southeast quarter (¼) of section two (2), in township thirty-two (32) north, of range twenty-one (21) west, lying and being in the county of Washington and State of Minnesota, with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances belonging, or in anywise appertaining to the said tracts, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash, by the Sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Paul, in said county, at ten (10) of the clock in the forenoon, on Saturday, the sixteenth (16th) day of August, A. D. 1862, to pay said debt, taxes and interest and costs allowed by law.
Dated Saint Paul, Minn., July 1st, 1862.

STATE OF MINNESOTA, RAMSEY COUNTY—In Probate Court, Special Term, June 7th, 1862.
Upon reading and filing the petition of William G. Carter, guardian of said minor, praying for reasons therein set forth that he may be licensed to sell the real estate belonging to the said minor.
It is ordered that Monday, the 7th day of July, 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the office of the Judge of Probate, in the city of St. Paul, be assigned for the hearing of the said petition; and that the next of kin of said minor, and all other persons interested in his estate, appear at a session of the Probate Court, then and there to be holden, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.
And it is further ordered that the said petitioner give notice to all persons interested in said matter of the pendency of the said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the St. Paul Press, a newspaper in St. Paul, in said Ramsey county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.
R. F. CROWELL,
jc19-d3w Thurs Judge of Probate.

MORTGAGE SALE.—John Casey Paul Catharine, his wife, of the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, by mortgaged deed, dated May 24, A. D. 1861, granted, bargained, sold and conveyed unto William R. Pelham, of the same place, and to his heirs and assigns forever, all that tract or parcel of land lying and being in the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, described in said deed of mortgage as follows, viz: Lots numbered one (1) and two (2) of block numbered thirty-two (32) of the tract of land called Como, according to the recorded plat thereof in the office of the Register of Deeds, in and for the said county of Ramsey, condition of the said mortgage being that if the said Casey Paul should pay unto the said William R. Pelham, or his heirs or assigns, the sum of one hundred and seventy-five dollars, with interest thereon, on the first day of May, A. D. 1862, then the said mortgage should be void, as by the said mortgage and the condition thereof, duly recorded in the office of the Register of Deeds in and for the county of Ramsey, State of Minnesota, in Book R of mortgages, on page 548, 549, 550, 551, will more fully appear.
And whereas, default has been made in the payment of the said sum of money above mentioned, and the whole thereof remains due and unpaid, and no proceedings have been had at law or in equity to recover the said debt or any part thereof.
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that by virtue of a power of sale in said mortgage, and in pursuance of the statute in such case provided, the above described mortgaged premises will be sold at public auction by the Sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House in St. Paul, Ramsey county, State of Minnesota, on Saturday, the 26th day of July, A. IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

The PRESS has—in accordance with the fact—claimed for the last six months a larger circulation, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, than any other paper in the city or State, and has challenged the Pioneer to compare the circulation of that paper with the PRESS, and make the result public, which challenge has been constantly declined, thus, on the part of the Pioneer, practically admitting the larger circulation of the PRESS. The bills of newspaper for the several editions of the PRESS and Pioneer show conclusively that the circulation of the several editions of the PRESS is nearly two thousand sheets per week greater than the circulation of the Pioneer.

THE BATTLES BEFORE RICHMOND.

We publish the fullest accounts received by mail and telegraph, of the unprecedented battles—renewed and continued through seven days—before Richmond.

The latest news shows that there has been no fighting since Tuesday, at which time the enemy was badly beaten.

On the whole, the result is by no means so bad as was at first supposed.

The movement—of McClellan changing his base of operations—and line of communication was premeditated, was no doubt necessary, and has been accomplished with less loss on our side than on the enemy's.

McClellan says that in every conflict we beat the enemy.

FROM CORINTH.

Lieut. Woodbury, of the Second Battery—Hotchkiss'—arrived at St. Paul last night. He left the battery and the Fourth Regiment at Corinth a week ago Thursday.

A CALL FOR MORE TROOPS.

The President, in response to the recommendations of the Governors of the loyal States, has called for three hundred thousand more volunteers. Our young State has already done nobly, and the valor of her sons on many a bloody battlefield has won for Minnesota a name that every citizen is proud of. Let us crown the noble record with the last grand effort that we shall be called on to make, by promptly filling up the Sixth and Seventh Regiments.

Fifty thousand men would be more valued by the President to-day that ten thousand two months hence.

FREMONT'S SUCCESSOR.

It is Carl Schurz, and not Sigel, who is in command of the 1st army corps under Gen. Pope. It is said Gen. Sigel intends to resign.

FROM THE SALMON RIVER PARTIES.

Mr. Hoyt received yesterday a letter from his son, Judge Hoyt, dated the 21st of June, written twenty miles west of St. Joseph—St. Joe, is twenty miles west of Pembina.

The party were all in good health and fine spirits. They expected to reach Fort Benton in about thirty-five days, or by the 18th of August. No serious accident or hindrance had occurred. They found plenty of wood and water, and very good roads.

He writes that every man thinks his chance is worth more than two thousand dollars, and would not be hired to turn back for that sum. Letters from St. Paul advising them of Capt. Fisk's movements, did not reach them till they got to Pembina.

Letters were received from members of Capt Fisk's party, written from Alexandria on the 28th of June. They expected to get to Fort Abercrombie the evening of the third inst. They were getting along very well.

—At latest advices from Richmond, Jeff. Davis had not returned from a visit to his sick child at Raleigh, North Carolina. The Southern papers report him ill at that point.

Call for Three Hundred Thousand More Volunteers.

CORRESPONDENCE BETWEEN THE GOVERNORS OF EIGHTEEN STATES AND THE PRESIDENT.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, July 1, 1862.

The following correspondence between the President and the Governors of the several States will explain itself:

To the President:

The undersigned, Governors of States of the Union, impressed with the belief that the citizens of the States which they respectively represent, are of one accord in the hearty desire that the recent successes of the Federal army may be followed up by measures which must insure the speedy restoration of the Union, and believing that in view of the movements now in progress, and the reduced condition of our effective forces in the field, resulting from the usual and unavoidable casualties of the service, that the time has arrived for prompt and vigorous measures to be adopted by the people in support of the great interests committed to your charge, we respectfully request, if it meets with your entire approval, that you at once call upon the several States for such numbers of men as may be required to fill up all military organizations now in the field, and add to the army heretofore organized such additional number of men as may in your judgment be necessary to garrison and hold all of the numerous cities and military positions that have been captured by our armies, and to speedily crush the rebellion that still exists in several of the Southern States, thus practically restoring to the civilized world our great and good Government. All believe that the decisive moment is near at hand, and to that end the people of the United States are desirous to aid promptly in furnishing all reinforcements that you may deem necessary to sustain the Government.

ISRAEL WASHBURNE, Jr., Governor of Maine.
N. S. BERRY, Governor of New Hampshire.
FREDERICK HOLBROOK, Gov. of Vermont.
WM. A. BUCKINGHAM, Gov. of Connecticut.
E. D. MORGAN, Governor of New York.
CHAS. S. OLDEN, Governor of New Jersey.
A. G. CURTIN, Governor of Pennsylvania.
A. W. BRADFORD, Governor of Maryland.
F. H. PIERPONT, Governor of Virginia.
AUSTIN BLAIR, Governor of Michigan.
J. B. TEMPLE, Pres. Military Board of Kentucky
ANDREW JOHNSON, Governor of Tennessee
H. R. GAMBLE, Governor of Missouri.
O. P. MORTON, Governor of Indiana.
DAVID TODD, Governor of Ohio.
ALEXANDER RAMSEY, Gov. of Minnesota.
RICHARD YATES, Governor of Illinois.
EDWARD SALOMON, Governor of Wisconsin.

THE PRESIDENT'S REPLY.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, July 1, 1862.

GENTLEMEN: Fully concurring in the wisdom of the views expressed to me in so patriotic a manner by you in the communication of the 28th day of June, I have decided to call into the service an additional force of three hundred thousand men. I suggest and recommend that the troops should be chiefly of infantry. The quota of your State would be ———. I trust that they may be enrolled without delay, so as to bring this unnecessary and injurious civil war to a speedy and satisfactory conclusion. An order fixing the quotas of the respective States will be issued by the War Department to-morrow.

(Signed) ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The Recent Battles Before Richmond.

WHAT HAS BEEN GAINED.

The Eastern papers that came to us Saturday morning contain hopeful views of the results of the late terrible struggle, and change of position of our army before Richmond. The advantages gained of the change of front of the army, are thus summed up by the Cincinnati Commercial:

1. A better base of operations is secured closer to Richmond, and guarded against flank surprises thus releasing a great part of the army from guard duty.

2. The vast system of earthwarks on the hills south of the Chickahominy, upon which the enemy have been engaged with great assiduity, and which they boasted were impregnable have been evaded.

3. Our army, instead of presenting a front of fifteen miles, divided by a river and swamps, to the enemy, is concentrated within a space of five or six miles of comparatively unbroken county, and advances from the unsavory and unhealthy swamp region, upon high ground.

4. McClellan, holding James river, may, if he pleases, by aid of the gunboats and transports and pontoons, cross it in a hurry, to intercept the flight of the enemy. He may even take the town from the south side of the river, and allow the enemy to take flight in the direction of Washington, which it is to be hoped will be considered safe while they are running.

The New York Times speaks thus:

With the Chickahominy in his rear, McClellan may bid defiance to any attempt of the rebels to outflank him. That swamp can only be crossed by the bridges which he commands; and every one of them can be so held by artillery as to render transit utterly impossible. Why the rebels should have originally abandoned so splendid a line of defense, seems utterly inexplicable. They could easily have held it against the whole army, and compelled us to approach Richmond from some other direction. They have now given us the full benefit of its strength. Resting upon that, McClellan's right wing and rear are perfectly safe. With his left resting on James River, his front strongly fortified by redoubts and earthworks, a powerful train of mortars and heavy siege guns on the spot and ready for operation, he can easily reduce Fort Darling, remove all obstructions from James River, push our gunboats directly into Richmond, repel any force that may attempt a rescue, and thus bring the campaign to a brilliant and successful close. How rapidly he may be able to do all this is a matter of secondary importance. That he will do it, and that his recent change of front gives him the means of doing it with almost absolute certainty, we think there can be no room to doubt.

—The New Orleans papers state that the rope used on the occasion of the execution of Mumford at New Orleans, was taken from the parish prison, and intended for one of Gen. Butler's agents, who was captured early in April and confined in that place. He was to have been hung with that rope the same day that the fleet passed the forts, but the event caused a postponement, which saved the life of the agent.

VISIT OF GOV. RAMSEY TO MINNESOTA SOLDIERS IN HOSPITAL.

We find on the Executive files at the Capitol, quite an interesting letter from Governor Ramsey, dated at St. Louis, June 28th, in which he gives an account of his visiting the Minnesotians in the several hospitals in that city.

Arriving in St. Louis on the 25th ult., he immediately entered upon a thorough looking up of all the sick and disabled in the hospitals in and around the city, with the determination of seeing each sick soldier in person, and learning from their own lips exactly their condition.

There are no less than ten different hospitals, used for the soldiers, and they are quite widely separated. The hospital at Camp Benton is some five miles from the city, in a northwesterly direction, and the hospital at Jefferson Barracks, about twelve miles from the city in a southerly direction. There are from one hundred to five hundred patients in each hospital, and it requires much time after reaching a hospital to learn the residence of the patients.

The Governor sent a complete list, which we give below, of all the Minnesotians there were in the hospitals, at the date of his letter, all of whom were seen by him. Out of the entire list of about fifty patients, only three were considered very sick. Those were Jesse Connor, of Winona, at 4th street hospital; William Morris, of Blue Earth City, at 5th street hospital; and Joseph Bandet, of Chippewa county, Wisconsin, at the House of Refuge. These men were too ill then to be removed. The others were convalescent, and all able to take their meals at the general mess table. Of course the patients there are constantly changing; as they recover they are furloughed, discharged, or return to their regiments, and others come in to take their places. A few have died.

Furloughs and discharges were asked for quite a number of them, and such as were without money were furnished with such amounts as their wants demanded.

The universal testimony of the men was they were well served and cared for night and day. Some desired a furlough for a short season; but the greater part were only anxious to join their regiments. It gave them great pleasure to see the Governor and he was rejoiced to be able to contribute in any manner to their comfort.

The hospitals, without exception, are orderly, cleanly, and as well ventilated as a sick room in a well ordered family. In these particulars they are really wonderful.

Some of the men having been absent from their regiments have not been paid for months, because they have not their descriptive rolls with them—as fast as those can be obtained they will be paid off.

The only public military hospital north of St. Louis is at Keokuk, but no Minnesotians were found there, among five hundred patients.

As the Tennessee river is very low and the railroad from Memphis to Corinth scarcely opened, the Governor proceeded from St. Louis directly to Washington to attend to the claims of the State against the War Department, and has reserved his visit to Corinth until his return.

SAINT PAUL, July 3d, 1862.

The undersigned will receive sealed proposals at his office in Saint Paul, Minnesota, until 12 o'clock M. on the 16th day of July, for furnishing and delivering, at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, complete rations for United States troops, prisoners of war, and to any other persons subsisted in kind by the Government, to be sent there.

The ration consists as follows: Three-fourths of a pound of pork or bacon, or one and a fourth pounds of fresh or salt beef; twenty-two ounces of bread or flour, or one pound of hard bread, or one and a fourth pounds of corn meal; and at the rate to every one hundred rations, of eight quarts of beans or peas, and ten pounds of rice or hominy; ten pounds of green coffee, or eight pounds of roasted and ground coffee, or one and a half pounds of tea; fifteen pounds of sugar; four quarts of vinegar; one pound of sperm candles, or one and a fourth pounds of adamantine candles, or one and a half pounds of tallow candles; four pounds of soap, and two quarts of salt.

In addition to the foregoing, there is allowed twice per week one gallon of molasses per one hundred rations, and thrice per week, if practicable, an issue of potatoes, at the rate of one pound per man. When beans, peas, rice, hominy, or potatoes cannot be issued in the proportions given above, an equivalent in value shall be issued in some other proper food. Desiccated potatoes, or desiccated mixed vegetables, at the rate, per one hundred rations, of one hundred and fifty ounces of the former, or one hundred ounces of the latter, may be substituted for beans, peas, rice, hominy, or fresh potatoes, when these articles cannot be issued; or, upon the requisition of the proper officer, and when the supply on hand will admit of it, they may be issued at the foregoing rate, twice per week in lieu of beans or peas, or in lieu of rice or hominy. Fresh beef may be issued as often as the commanding officer of any detachment or regiment may require it, when practicable, in place of salt meat.

The Acting Commissary reserves to himself the right to diminish or increase the number of rations required, whenever the interests of the government demand it.

The contract will extend to, and include the 31st day of December, 1862.

T. M. SAUNDERS,
Captain Third Artillery,

The Battles of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

FULL ACCOUNTS.

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF POTOMAC,
TURKEY ISLAND, Va., July 2.

The following is an account of the battles fought in front of Richmond, on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday—being the 5th, 6th and 7th days of the engagement.

On Sunday morning the corps of Gen. Sumner and Gen. Franklin were left in the works at Fair Oaks, with instructions to evacuate and protect the baggage and supplie trains on their way to James river.

They had hardly left their positions and were falling back on the railroad and Williamsburg turnpike, when the rebels discovered the movement and immediately started in pursuit with their whole force. So rapidly did the rebels approach, that our officers had barely time to place their men in position to receive them, before they were upon them.

The enemy advanced to the attack about two o'clock, which was promptly met by our men.

The battle lasted until dark, during which the enemy suffered terribly, advancing in solid masses to within a short distance of our artillery. The effect of our guns upon their ranks was fearful, killing and wounding them by hundreds. At dark the enemy was repulsed, and forced to abandon his position.

This fight took place at about one and a half miles above Savage Station.—Whilst this battle was in progress, other important events were transpiring.

The railroad bridge across the Chickahominy was burnt, and a train of twelve cars, under full head of steam, was off the bridge. All the commissary and quartermaster's stores were committed to the flames, together with a large amount of ordnance stores. The large house at the station and the adjoining grounds, which were filled with our sick and wounded, whom it was impossible to get away, were left with the necessay means for their comfort.

They numbered about 700, and are in the enemy's hands.

The troops which had fought the battle of Sunday went under cover of night to White Oak Swamp bridge, a distance of twelve miles, there to await the approach of the enemy.

The disposition of the troops on Monday—the sixth day ot battle—was, as follows: Gen. Smith's division occupied the right of bridge, while Gen. Sumner's and Gen. Franklin's corps occupied the left. Gen. Heintzleman's corps with Gen. McCall's division was out on the road to meet the enemy who was approaching from Richmond. The enemy came up boldly early in the morning, having been heavily reinforced by the troops who had fought the battle of Friday on the opposide of the Chickahominy.

About three o'clock it became evident that some portions of our lines must give way. The rebels were constantly throwing fresh troops into action, and our troops in front of the bridge now fell back to within three miles and a half of Turkey Island, where the fight was shortly afterward renewed and continued with the greatest determination on both sides. The loss on Monday was very heavy on both sides during the day. The cattle and the greater portion of the transportation had safely crossed Turkey Island bridge. Some of the rear wagons had to be abandoned to make room for the passage of artillery. The fight was renewed early on Tuesday morning by the rebels. They evidently intended to crush our army, and it lasted about three hours, resulting in considerable loss to both sides.

The enemy then retired, leaving the field to our troops. The rebels again advanced about three o'clock P. M. in considerable numbers, but retired after being shelled by the gunboats and artillery for about two hours, without coming near enough for musketry to become engaged. The loss of our army during these seven engagements is not known, but 2,000 is considered to be as near an estimate as can at present be given in killed, wounded and missing. Many of those at present unaccounted for may have straggled away through the country and may hereafter return.

The loss of the enemy in killed must have been very heavy—far exceeding that of our army. We have taken about seven hundred prisoners, among whom are five lieutenants and one major. The reported capture of General Magruder is probably a mistake.

General Reynolds and Captain Kingsbury, of his staff, were taken prisoners, as also was Colonel Stockton, of Michigan. General Meade, of Pennsylvania, was severely wounded; General Burns was wounded in the face; General Sumner and General Heintzelman were both slightly wounded in the left arm, but never left the field. General McCall was seen to fall from his horse during the day, and was taken prisoner.

The extent of his injuries is not known. Col. Goslin, of Penn., was killed. Capt. Campbell, of Fifth Regular Cavalry, was also killed: Col. Pratt, of 31st New York, was wounded in the face. Army is now encamped on high rolling ground on the banks of the James river, fifteen miles from Richmond, the transports are already unloading supplies at the wharves. the commanding General feels confident of successfully meeting any attacks the enemy may make upon him in his present position. The reinforcements the rebels received from Beauregard's and Jackson's army gave them a force double that of the army of the Potomac, and many of the prisoners taken during the battles belonged to Beauregard's army.

THE MEN IN FINE SPIRITS.

Everything Looking Bright.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 3.

This morning the steamer Nellie Baker arrived at Fort Monroe from Harrison's Landing, having left at five o'clock. She brings 25 rebel prisoners and a few wounded. The most terrible fighting took place Tuesday last and with most brilliant success; the rebels were defeated in every action, and the rebel prisoners admit the loss of at least 10,000 that day. Our artillery was most successfully handled nearly all day, while the rebels did but very little execution with theirs.

Our loss was very small. As fast as the rebel forces were cut to pieces other fresh troops were immediately marched forward to fill their places. They seemed to disregard the lives of their men, and hold them under the hottest fire of our artillery.

The enemy have been driven back in every fight for the last three days. Our troops are in fine spirits, and never so anxious to fight as now.

THE LATEST FROM GENERAL McCLELLAN.

WASHINGTON, June 5.

Dispatches have been received from Gen. McClellan, dated as late as one o'clock A. M., July 4th. The following is the substance, omitting details not proper for present publication: There had been no fighting since Tuesday night, when the enemy were repulsed with great slaughter. The army moved to the position now occupied because it afforded superior advantages for the co-operation of the gunboats, of which seventeen are now in the river protecting the flank of our army.

Statements of the casualties in the severe battles of the eight days cannot be furnished. Our forces were not beaten in any conflict, nor could they be driven by the uttermost efforts of the enemy.

No guns have been lost since the 27th, when McCall's division at the outset was overwhelmed, and twenty-five pieces fell into the hands of the enemy.

The sick and wounded are being sent to the hospitals.

At one o'clock yesterday the army was drawn up in position for review; the bands were playing, national salutes being fired, and things looked bright.

NEW YORK, July 5.

Captain Spear, of General Reynold's staff, reports that reinforcements were being landed on Thursday morning, and were received with great enthusiasm by Gen. McClellan's troops. The battle of Tuesday lasted from five A. M. till nine P. M., we took twenty-four guns from the rebels who came up three or four lines deep. The canteens of rebels were filled were filled with whisky and gunpowder,

Rebel Accounts of Tuesday's Fight

THEY OWN UP PRETTY BADLY WHIPPED.

WASHINGTON, July 4.

The Richmond Examiner of July 2d, gives the following relating to the battle of Monday. It says on Sunday morning Generals Hill and Longstreet, with their divisions, crossed the Chickahominy, and late Monday P. M. attacked the enemy about five miles northeast of Darlingtown on New Market Road. The conflict was terrible, and by 8.30 P. M. the enemy had been driven back a mile and a half. At half past nine being heavily reinforced the enemy made another desperate stand. The loss here on the rebel side was terrible; the situation being hopeless against such overwhelming forces, Gen. Hill slowly retired. At this moment, seeing their adversary retire, the most vociferous cheers arose from the Yankee line. The fight ended there for the night.

The Examiner says it thinks the division which went into the fight of Friday, 14,000 strong, could only number 6,000 for duty on Tuesday, and that the loss of life exceeds that of any battle or series of battles yet fought.

About eight A. M. of Tuesday, the Examiner says, Jackson's and Huger's divisions attacked McClellan's left flank on the west side of the Chickahominy, seven miles from Richmond—later in the day Magruder fell upon his right flank.—Fighting was going on until Tuesday night. Heavy firing from the gunboats on the James river was heard on Tuesday morning.

A number of Federal transparts are in the river with reinforcements from Burnside, but they have not yet landed.

The above extracts from the Examiner relate to Tuesday's battle in which Gen. McClellan's dispatch of yesterday said the enemy were badly beaten.

Advices read at the War Department show that there was no fighting on the Peninsula up to 5.30 P. M.

McClellan's Position Impregnable.

CITY POINT BURNT.

Rebel Loss in late Battle 20,000.

OURS BUT TEN THOUSAND.

Rebel Forces Engaged 200,000.

NEW YORK, July 5.

The Fort Monroe correspondent of the Tribune, dated 3d, says, Gen. McClellan's position cannot be affected by any force however great. Supplies of all kinds in abundance have arrived, and the army is in the best possible spirits.

Two gunboats went up the Appomaton river on Sunday night.

The Island Belle got aground and was dismantled and burned.

The City Point was burnt this morning by the gunboats, thus destroying the shelter for rebel sharpshooters.

James river is filled with transports, vessels and steamers, and over twenty gunboats in the vicinity of Harrison's Landing.

Rebel prisoners state their loss at 20,000, while ours will not exceed 10,000.

WASHINGTON, July 4.

Accounts from Warrenton state that there is no enemy there.

The 200 rebel cavalry seen on Wednesday have disappeared.

Arrival of Prisoners at Fortress Monroe.

WASHINGTON, July 4.

Accounts from Fredericksburg represent the greatest possible distress among the inhabitants—the 13th Virginia rebel regiment, raised in that town, having been cut to pieces.

EVENING.—Latest advices received at the War Department from McClellan are dated 9 o'clock this morning, up to which time there had been no fighting since Tuesday.

Gen. Dix reports the arrival to-day at Fort Monroe of 553 rebel prisoners, being a part of those taken in the late battles, among whom are several Colonels and Majors.

Gen. Dix has ordered all civilians away from Fort Monroe, and no persons will be permitted to pass to that point or to the army of the Potomac, except those connected with the military or naval service.

Gen. Stoneman's Retreat to Yorktown.

IT WAS NOT AN ACCIDENT.

He Covered the Embarkation At White House.

And Retreats without Loss to Fort Monroe.

FORT MONROE, July 2d, 9 P. M.

Col. C. Ross Smith, who is connected with the reserve cavalry, informs us that their force numbering over 1,000, have all arrived here this evening. This command with the flying artillery and about 1,500 infantry were placed under command of Gen. Stoneman, to attend to the removal of Government property at White House. They saw it all safely removed and the building destroyed, and on Saturday they left the White House after shipping all the goods, and the infantry, 1,500, and retreated to Williamsburg, arriving there early on Sunday, from thence they went to Yorktown, where they shipped their artillery.

Their men are all in good health and spirits, and lost only two of their number, who were taken while on picket duty.

They represent the expedition admirably managed by Gen. Stoneman—the cavalry, infantry and artillery, amounted in all to 3,000.

GREAT FIRE AT WINONA

Republiban Office Burned.

WINONA, July 5.

A fire broke out in this city about two o'clock this morning, resulting in the complete destruction of four blocks of buildings. Including the destruction of merchandise and other property, the loss was near $500,000.

The fire was first discovered in the rear of Claperton's bakery, on Center street. Before any considerable number of persons had collected on the ground, the flames had gained such ascendency among the inflammable wooden buildings that all efforts of the citizens, aided by the fire and hook and ladder companies, could not stop their progress. The wind was blowing a light breeze from the south, but it soon veered around, changing its direction to the south-west, and rapidly spread the flames to the buildings immediately adjoining that in which the fire was first discovered.

From the block of buildings southeast of the corner of Second and Main streets the fire spread with fearful rapidity to others, and before the day dawned the principal business portion of the town lay in ashes. The loss in merchandise, buildings, grain, and other property, is very great, and upon many persons it falls heavily. There is an insurance of probably $100,000 on the property destroyed. A number of persons narrowly escaped with their lives.

The office of the Daily Republican was completely destroyed—the books and accounts only being saved. Loss $4,000, insurance $2,400. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is conjectured that it was caused by a smouldering sky rocket, which had fallen upon the roof of a building during a display of fire-works last evening.

THE GREAT BATTLE BEFORE RICHMOND.

PARTICULARS OF THE FIGHT ON WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY.

PLANS OF THE ENEMY.

A correspondent of the New York Timesi writing from the Camp before Richmond, on Saturday last, 28th, gives the following particulars of the fighting on Wednesday and Thursday:

REBEL PLANS.

It was soon apparent, after Fair Oaks, that the rebel attack upon our left wing had induced a change of programme, and what the new plan has been I think today is showing. Up to that time our left wing was the weak point, and to that the chief efforts of the enemy were directed, but with the withdrawal of our main body to the south side of the Chickahominy, the right wing, with its exposed line of communication between the river and White House, has been the point inviting attack, and though the rebels have apparently been chiefly concerned with efforts against our left wing, there have not been wanting signs and evidence that their real purpose was directed against the right, whose exposed situation must have been fully revealed to them by the bold dash of Stuart's Cavalry across our rear.

During the advance of our pickets in front of Hooker's position on Wednesday, the rebels showed signs of a lack of inclination or ability to oppose any very decided opposition to our advance, and the new ground was gained with far less effort than could be expected. Instead of seeking to drive us from our new position, as many expected they would on Thursday, the rebels turned in another direction, and crossing in large force at Meadow Bridge, one of the upper bridges on the Chickahominy, near Mechanicsville, fell upon our troops in that vicinity in overwhelming force, in an effort to pass around our right wing and sever our line of communication with the Pamunkey, little thinking that was precisely what we wished them to undertake, if disposed to attack at all.

POSITION OF OUR FORCES ON THE RIGHT.

The troops remaining on that side of the Chickahominy were the corps of Gen. Porter, consisting of Morrell's Division, and the regulars, under Sykes, and the division of McCall, with which the army has been recently reinforced, consisting in all of some 25,000 men, a force entirely inadequate to defend the country between the Chickahominy and the Pamunkey against such force as the enemy might bring against them, but one as large as could wisely be spared from the main body of the army.

MOVEMENTS OF THE REBELS.

During last week, the enemy opposite this position on the other side of the Chickahominy have been very quiet, but it has been apparent to those skilled in warfare that the quietness has been the repose of the tiger preparing for his spring. Secretly and silently the enemy had thrown a bridge across the swamp a short distance below Mechanicsville, nearly opposite the position held by General McCall, so hidden by the trees and undergrowth along the Chickahominy that its existence was not suspected until an adventurous scouting party came upon it a few nights since.

Across the bridge the rebels had thrown up a series of entrenchments on the commanding hights beyond, under the cover of which they attempted on Monday, the 23d inst., to throw two new bridges across the stream, in which effort they met with a determined opposition from our forces, and a heavy thunder-storm coming on that night, compelled them to desist the work they had striven to continue under cover of the darkness. These symptoms of an attack revealing the purpose of the enemy, General McCall was directed to withdraw a mile down the road to a strong position on Beaver Dam Creek.

THE FIGHT COMMENCED.

On Thursday they came, taking advantage apparently of our occupation, with the movement of the day previous on the left. Crossing the river in strong force, under cover of a heavy fire from their batteries on the opposite side, the enemy pressed down the road against the position of General McCall, first attacking his first Brigade, consisting of the Bucktails, and the Fifth, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Pennsylvania regiments. These troops were soon reinforced by the six regiments forming the other two brigades of the division, and from their strong position behind the swampy ravine of Beaver Dam creek, held the greatly superior force of the enemy at bay from the time of the attack until the going down of the sun, at near 9 o'clock.

OUR MEN RETIRE BEFORE THE ENEMY.

That night an order came from Gen. McClellan for Gen. Porter to withdraw his forces gradually to a point near Meadow's Ridge. After a few hours' sleep upon their arms, were aroused, and in accordance with the plan of operations, Gen. McClellan, at 3 o'clock, opened a fire of artillery on the enemy who vigorously responded, until our forces began gradually to retire before them as if retreating, but maintaining their ranks in good order, crossing a bridge over a creek on the way, destroying it behind them, compelling the enemy to wait the slow construction of a new passage-way in the fire of our opposing artillery and heavy musketry fire from the Ninth Massachusetts.

Dividing here, our troops continued their retreat over two separate roads, burning behind them such commissary stores as they could not carry, which, fortunately, was of small account, as the removal of all portable property across the Chickahominy had previously been ordered. Following close after Porter's men, the rebels continued to advance, until they came upon a piece of woods, in which they seemed to hesitate to follow, halting for some time before showing themselves again. But, without waiting for them, our troops still fell back, until near the Chickahominy, at Woodbury's Bridge, where they halted in the open country, which there spreads out into broad fields and fertile pastures.

HEIGHT OF THE ENGAGEMENT.

Quickly the dispositions for battle were made, the division being drawn up in line of battle, the batteries planted in the most eligible positions, and every preparation for holding the ground at any cost, in accordance with the orders received from the Commander-in-Chief. It was now near noon, and our troops had taken fresh courage for effort from the hour of two for rest and refreshment which they had enjoyed. Then the enemy were reported to be again advancing; they opened fire on our men, from the woods skirting the plain in which the latter were posted.

First commencing with the usual picket skirmishing, and then swelling into the roar of the artillery duel, the struggle opened between the advanced guard of the two armies, until by three or four o'clock in the afternoon the battle raged fiercely all along the line, until within an hour or two of sunset, when the storm lulled for a time, and the rebels, who had been meanwhile reinforced, came on with fresh vigor to the assault. They were soon met with equal determination by Porter's men, aided now by the reinforcements that had come to them from the corps of Franklin, Sumner and Keyes; from the former Slocum's division, from Sumner the brigades of French, and the Irish boys under Meagher, and from the further reserved corps of Keyes, the brigade of Palmer, which had done good service in the fight of Wednesday on the left. Desperately and determinedly did the rebels press forward, but as desperately and determinedly were they met and driven, gaining nothing further that night of the promise of their morning advance. Not until after nine o'clock did the men find rest, which, we may be sure, came not unwelcomed to such of the men as had passed through the struggle, commencing early in the afternoon of the previous day.

Most opportunely was the arrival of the reinforcements that evening, for our troops, hard pressed by superior numbers, were in danger of being driven further back than was intended, and the first symptoms of disorder were showing themselves in the hasty flight of teamsters and lookers-on, the straggling soldiers in the crowd being turned back from Woodbury's bridge by the strong guard who kept watch over it with their bayonets.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

And so the sun went down upon that battle-field strewn with the bruised and mangled forms of what have once been men, of what were still men, though shorn of their full proportions, and bidden to go maimed and halted through life. But though the night had settled down upon the earth, and wearied men were sleeping so peacefully, even in the midst of death, rest did not come at all, for there was still a vigilant watch to be kept upon the movements of the enemy, and the nearby work of removing the dead and providing for the wounded. And early in the morning, at 2 o'clock, all were disturbed by the sound of a sharp firing coming from the direction of the left, where the enemy were amusing themselves with a night on the positions of Sumner, Hooker and Kearney, with no result that I learn of. Smith's division, directly opposite Woodbury's Bridge, on the further side of the Chickahominy, were also attacked during the day of Friday, his brave Vermont boys and the Twenty-third New York, with the help of Ayers' and other batteries, repelling the assault with great slaughter.

THE LOSS.

And who can estimate our loss, when none but an Omnipotent eye can, in the confusion that follow the first hours of the engagement, search out the fate of all who appear not with their comrades as they gather with their regiments at night? It will surely exceed a thousand, and I hope not pass 1,500; but a few days more will tell, while, meanwhile, the list must swell greatly, for the battle is not yet fully ended. Strategy or no strategy, there must still be desperate fighting, even though the rebels should play into our hands to the end, as they are reported to have done to-day in seeking to possess themselves of the communications with White House, little thinking, probably, how far advanced were the preparations for changing to a new and better base on the James river, where our gunboats can afford us full protection, and we shall have but a single flank to guard.

THE OPERATIONS OF THURSDAY.

GAINES' HILL, Friday, June 27.—The army of the Potomac is having a week of work, and the promise of the prevailing signs is that the closing day of the last week in June is to witness hard fighting. Yesterday afternoon, at about two o'clock, the rebels, who had crossed the Chickahominy at Meadow Bridge, two miles below Mechanicsville, attacked with artillery from across the river, and with a strong infantry force, the regiments opposing the First Brigade of McCall's division—the Bucktails, the Tenth, Eighth, Ninth and Fifth Pennsylvania regiments. They were promptly met by the Pennsylvanians, who fought them for two hours, when the Second and Third Brigades of McCall's division, comprising six regiments, reinforced their hard-pressed comrades, and fought them until evening, repulsing them at every point. Our men suffered a very considerable loss in killed, wounded and prisoners, something like three hundred—the figure is merely estimated—but were ready for further work this morning, and in high spirits.

After holding the enemy in check for four hours, McCall's division was reinforced by two brigades from Gen. Fitz John Porter, and the rebels were again driven back, they making a further attack, with a heavy loss. During the action a severe cannonading was kept up by both parties, the rebels, however, failing to do much damage with their shells. They advanced upon us in great force. It is estimated that at least 30,000 men were brought by them into the fight, to make a desperate effort to flank our right. Our far inferior force, however, held them effectually in check and eventually drove them back.

Gen. McClellan himself arrived on the ground toward evening, and immediately sent a dispatch to be read to the troops on the other side of the Chickahominy, to the effect that Gen. McCall had repulsed the enemy and driven them back upon their entrenchments. The dispatch was read to the troops just at dusk, and from that hour till late in the night, along the lines of our army, cheer after cheer went up.

The fight was renewed early in the morning, when the enemy were again repulsed: but at about six o'clock, in accordance with strategic plans of Gen. McClellan, our troops fell back two or three miles, the rebels following.

The fight has proceeded to-day on better ground and satisfactorily. The movements of the army are important, but I am forbid to state them in detail.

From White House we hear of a probable advance of the enemy on that post of supplies, and everything there is ready to receive them.

All along the lines to-day there has been vigorous firing, the enemy attempting to shell our camps.

FRIDAY'S WORK.

BATTLE FIELD, June 27, 10 P. M.

To-day another battle has been fought by our gallant Union troops—another glorious victory to be added to the brilliant records of Wednesday and Thursday. I call to-day's battle a victory, for so it is set down by those claiming to understand the purpose of the movement.

Giving up ground that we had held, and burning commissary and ammunition stores while fleeing from a pursuing enemy, looks like defeat. But it was not defeat—it was part and parcel of a strategic plan. We gave up ground that it was inexpedient, with the force at command, to hold any longer.

Our retrograde column fell back to a specific point—fought to hold the point as they had been told to do—fought firmly, bravely, furiously, as it was known they would—held the position against greatly superior numbers, and hold it now. The enemy fought desperately.

Our loss in to-day's fighting estimated at twelve hundred—killed wounded and missing; that of the enemy is deemed much greater. There is no trusting estimates now, however.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE DAY'S WORK.

Shortly after the close of Thursday's fight came an order from Gen. McClellan to Gen. Fitz John Porter, directing the withdrawal of his corps to a position two miles this side of Gaines' Mill, the ground we now occupy. At three o'clock A. M., the moving back of the corps, who had been sleeping on their arms all night, began. Gen. McCall, in accordance with instructions, opened with his artillery upon the enemy. The latter thought this the renewal of the preceding day's fight, and returned a vigorous response from their guns. Shot and shell flew in antagonistic directions with dangerous liveliness.

Gradually Gen. McCall's troops withdrew, which, the enemy naturally mistaking for a victory on their side, caused them to follow on in hot haste. Of course our rear column yielded the ground slowly, the more to make the enemy believe that they were being beaten. Meantime Gen. Sykes' division led the retreating column, followed by Gen. Morrell's division. Along the advance there were but little indications of a retreat. The men moved slowly, and all, ignorant of this backward movement, were anxious to know the cause of it. I should here state that Gen. McClellan had previously ordered the removal of all tents and commissary and quartermaster's stores across the Chickahominy. This order was given on Thursday, before the first attack on the enemy by Gen. McCall, and shows the object to have been a concentration of all our troops on the other side of the river in accordance with the programme alluded to above.

CLOSE OF THE DAY'S FIGHT.

The sun went down in brightness and beauty. Its departing rays shed their twilight hues upon the contest of carnage still going on. It was half past nine o'clock when the firing ceased and the day's work of battle was over. We compelled the enemy to retreat, and held the ground we were told to hold. The closing firing was between the enemy and Gen. Smith's division on our left.

FROM THE FIFTH REGIMENT.

ITS PART IN THE OCCUPATION OF CORINTH.

Governor Ramsey:

I am requested by Col. Borgersrode, who is disabled by a severe wound in his right hand and unable to perform the duty himself, to prepare for your use a statement in detail of the connection sustained by the Fifth Regiment Minnesota Volunteers, in the movements of this army, preliminary to the occupation of Corinth. On the 28th of May, 1862, a movement was made against the works of the enemy along the entire extent of the Federal lines. The Minnesota Fifth occupied a position in the front of the battle, being the second battalion from the right of the first brigade of the second division of "Pope's army of the Mississippi." The movement commenced early in the day. The advance upon the left had proceeded but a few paces beyond our outposts when it encountered a considerable force of the enemy's pickets. The Minnesota Fifth was here ordered to charge across an open field at double quick and with bayonets fixed, which was promptly obeyed, the rebel pickets keeping up a sharp fire as they were driven in. The line moved rapidly forward about a mile and a half from where the pickets of the enemy were first encountered, and halted just under cover of a slight elevation of ground. Skirmishers were thrown out in front, and a reconnoissance made, which disclosed the fact that the enemy in large force, and drawn up in line of battle, occupied a piece of woods about fifty rods in our front, and on our right, and that an entrenched battery of heavy artillery was in a commanding position on our left some two hundred rods in advance. The latter soon opened fire on a battery of light artillery as it was moving into position on the brow of the hill running along our front. Though this battery was immediately upon our left, and supported by another regiment (the 47th Illinois,) yet the formation of the line was such that it brought the Fifth Minnesota immediately in range of the enemy's guns, and nearly all his shot and shell passed over or fell near where it lay. It was protected, however, by its position under the brow of the hill mentioned, where, by laying flat upon their faces, our men escaped casualty. They suffered much, however, by the intense heat, and many were taken off the field and carried to the rear, disabled by sunstroke, and otherwise affected by the heat. Our artillery was of but little avail against the superior guns of the enemy's battery, entrenched as they were, behind extensive earthworks, and after being engaged perhaps two hours, slackened its fire. Presently the enemy were observed advancing in considerable force directly in our front. The movements of the enemy indicated a purpose to cut off and capture the battery. When within a distance of two hundred yards from our line, the Minnesota Fifth rose to its feet and discharged a volley into the advancing column, which met an immediate response, and a fierce engagement ensued, lasting perhaps forty minutes.

Our men fell upon their faces just under the brow of the hill after every discharge, thus saving themselves from the effect of what must otherwise have proved a most destructive fire. The regiment that had been placed in position to support the battery had retired, and for a while its condition seemed critical, but an order was given to fix bayonets preparatory to a charge. It was obeyed with alacrity, and the Minnesota Fifth moved to the brow of the hill, formed, and awaited the order to advance, but the enemy evidently comprehended the intention, broke in confusion and made a precipitate retreat. It was now nearly night, and with the exception of an occasional shot from the enemy's battery, no further firing occurred that day. Once during the engagement, the right of the regiment misunderstanding an order to "fall down" for one to "fall back," given by one of the company officers, retired the distance of a few yards, but rallied in obedience to command.

That night was occupied in digging trenches and rifle pits, and burying the enemy's dead. About eighty of the latter were interred on the field. No rest and but little refreshment were allowed the men. The following morning a battery of Parrott guns were mounted, bearing on the rebel works, and a fierce fire of artillery kept up until nearly night, when the latter became reduced and were abandoned. As was the case the first day, the Minnesota Fifth lay immediately in range of the fire of the rebel guns, but being protected by the cover of its entrenchments, no casualties occurred, though many narrow escapes might be mentioned.

Company A—Killed, none.

Wounded, Corporal Pulaski Miller, in the hand, not serious; privates E. A. Bard, shot through the wrist, severely wounded; John J. Bury, in the jaw by a buck-shot, not dangerous; E. E. Hanoum, slightly, in the hand.

Company E—Killed, none.

Company G—Killed, none.

Company H—Killed, none.

Company I—Killed, private Patrick Glynn.

Company K—Killed, private William Blackburn.

Respectfully yours,
L. F. HUBBARD,
Lieut. Col. 5th Reg. M. V.

How Beauregard got to Richmond.

Our well-informed Nashville correspondent writes, upon what he deems pretty good authority, that while Beauregard was holding Corinth, he had several thousand negroes employed in extending the Jackson and Vicksburg Railroad from Lowashee to Montgomery, Alabama, thus forming a connection with the East. Our Washington correspondent refers to something of the same sort. With such a work completed, a glance at the map will show the facility with which the army of the Mississippi, or a large portion of it, may have been transferred to Richmond.—Cincinnati Gazette.

PERSONAL.—Major Hans Mattson, of the Third Regiment, arrived in town last Saturday evening. He remains but a short time, and will soon return to his regiment.

Fred. E. Miller, who has been a prisoner to the rebels ever since the battle of Bull Run, has also arrived, having been released on his parole.—Goodhue Rep.

AFTER THE FARMS.—Every day brings considerable increase to our population in the shape of land-seekers from other States. The benefits conferred by the Homestead Bill upon Minnesota are just beginning to be appreciated.—St. Peter Tribune.

Humors of the Day.

—Punch says women first resorted to tight lacing to prove to men how well they could bear squeezing.

—What is the difference between a drummer boy and a pound of meat? One weighs a pound and the other pounds away.

—The refrain of the newspapers just now is "Where, and oh, where, is the Corinth army gone?" and in truth it is very difficult to tell.,

—Why is a young lady, when taking a cup of tea, like a native of the Confederated States? Because she is a Miss-a-sippin'. [Mississippian.]

—To make "Lager Beer," take a barrel and fill it with rain water, put in one pair of old boots, a head of last fall's cabbage, two short sixes, a sprig of wormwood and a little yeast.

—The Bible says, "Remember Lot's wife." The rebels, in their rage for salt, remember her and "lust after her." So they obey one scriptural injunction only to disobey another.—Louisville Journal.

—A sixty-nine pounder shell burst near an Irishman in one of the trenches. Pat coolly surveyed the ruins the fragments had made, and exclaimed, "Be jabers! thim's the fellows to soften the wax in a man's ear!"

—Here is an old epigram in two lines, or rather an epitaph, sharp enough to wake up the vixen, if she were not very dead indeed:

If I said I was sorry then I should lie too."

—A young lady was thrown from a carriage, and on being asked where she was injured most, innocently replied, "Down at the surprise party, when Tom Skillings went home with another girl."

—When Madge was a very little girl her father found her chubby hands full of the blossoms of a beautiful tea rose, on which he had bestowed great care. "My dear," said he, "didn't I tell you not to pick one of those flowers without leave?" "Yes, papa," said Madge, innocently, "but all these had leaves."

—If four hound dogs with sixteen legs can can catch twenty-one rabbits with eighty-seven legs in forty-four minutes, how many legs must the same rabbits have to get away from eight hound dogs with thirty-two legs in seventeen minutes and a half?

—"My dear Horatio, I had a very curious dream about you."

"What was it, dear?"

"I dreamt I saw you carried up to heaven in a golden chariot, surrounded by angels clothed in white and purple. What is that the sign of, my dear?"

"It is sign of foul stomach, my dearest."

—"Come, sonny, get up," said an indulgent father to his hopeful son the other morning. "Remember the early bird catches the worm."

"What do I want of worms?" replied sonny; "mother won't let me go fishing."

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches, &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

EYE & EAR.

DR. UNDERWOOD

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

THE GREAT BATTLE BEFORE RICHMOND.

PLANS OF THE ENEMY.

A correspondent of the New York Times writing from the Camp before Richmond, on Saturday last, 28th, gives the following particulars of the fighting on Wednesday and Thursday:

REBEL PLANS.

It was soon apparent, after Fair Oaks, that the rebel attack upon our left wing had induced a change of programme, and what the new plan has been I think to-day is showing. Up to that time our left wing was the weak point, and to that the chief efforts of the enemy were directed, but with the withdrawal of our main body to the south side of the Chickahominy, the right wing, with its exposed line of communication between the river and White House, has been the point inviting attack, and though the rebels have apparently been chiefly concerned with efforts against our left wing, there have not been wanting signs and evidence that their real purpose was directed against the right, whose exposed situation must have been fully revealed to them by the bold dash of Stuart's Cavalry across our rear.

During the advance of our pickets in front of Hooker's position on Wednesday, the rebels showed signs of a lack of inclination or ability to oppose any very decided opposition to our advance, and the new ground was gained with far less effort than could be expected. Instead of seeking to drive us from our new position, as many expected they would on Thursday, the rebels turned in another direction, and crossing in large force at Meadow Bridge, one of the upper bridges on the Chickahominy, near Mechanicsville, fell upon our troops in that vicinity in overwhelming force, in an effort to pass around our right wing and sever our line of communication with the Pamunkey, little thinking that was precisely what we wished them to undertake, if disposed to attack at all.

POSITION OF OUR FORCES ON THE RIGHT.

The troops remaining on that side of the Chickahominy were the corps of Gen. Porter, consisting of Morrell's Division, and the regulars, under Sykes, and the division of McCall, with which the army has been recently reinforced, consisting in all of some 25,000 men, a force entirely inadequate to defend the country between the Chickahominy and the Pamunkey against such force as the enemy might bring against them, but one as large as could wisely be spared from the main body of the army.

MOVEMENTS OF THE REBELS.

During last week, the enemy opposite this position on the other side of the Chickahominy have been very quiet, but it has been apparent to those skilled in warfare that the quietness has been the repose of the tiger preparing for his spring. Secretly and silently the enemy had thrown a bridge across the swamp a short distance below Mechaniesville, nearly opposite the position held by General McCall, so hidden by the trees and undergrowth along the Chickahominy that its existence was not suspected until an adventurous scouting party came upon it a few nights since.

Across the bridge the rebels had thrown up a series of entrenchments on the commanding heights beyond, under the cover of which they attempted on Monday, the 23d inst., to throw two new bridges across the stream, in which effort they met with a determined opposition from our forces, and a heavy thunder-storm coming on that night, compelled them to desist the work they had striven to continue under cover of the darkness. These symptoms of an attack revealing the purpose of the enemy, General McCall was directed to withdraw a mile down the road to a strong position on Beaver Dam Creek.

THE FIGHT COMMENCED.

On Thursday they came, taking advantage apparently of our occupation, with the movement of the day previous on the left. Crossing the river in strong force, under cover of a heavy fire from their batteries on the opposite side, the enemy pressed down the road against the position of General McCall, first attacking his first Brigade, consisting of the Bucktails, and the Fifth, Eighth, Ninth and Tenth Pennsylvania regiments. These troops were soon reinforced by the six regiments forming the other two brigades of the division, and from their strong position behind the swampy ravine of Beaver Dam creek, held the greatly superior force of the enemy at bay from the time of the attack until the going down of the sun, at near 9 o'clock.

OUR MEN RETIRE BEFORE THE ENEMY.

That night an order came from Gen. McClellan for Gen. Porter to withdraw his forces gradually to a point near Meadow's Ridge. After a few hours' sleep upon their arms, were aroused, and in accordance with the plan of operations, Gen. McClellan, at 3 o'clock, opened a fire of artillery on the enemy who vigorously responded, until our forces began gradually to retire before them as if retreating, but maintaining their ranks in good order, crossing a bridge over a creek on the way, destroying it behind them, compelling the enemy to wait the slow construction of a new passage-way in the fire of our opposing artillery and heavy musketry fire from the Ninth Massachusetts.

Dividing here, our troops continued their retreat over two separate roads, burning behind them such commissary stores as they could not carry, which, fortunately, was of small account, as the removal of all portable property across the Chickahominy had previously been ordered. Following close after Porter's men, the rebels continued to advance, until they came upon a piece of woods, in which they seemed to hesitate to follow, halting for some time before showing themselves again. But, without waiting for them, our troops still fell back, until near the Chickahominy, at Woodbury's Bridge, where they halted in the open country, which there spreads out into broad fields and fertile pastures.

HEIGHT OF THE ENGAGEMENT.

Quickly the dispositions for battle were made, the division being drawn up in line of battle, the batteries planted in the most eligible positions, and every preparation for holding the ground at any cost, in accordance with the orders received from the Commander-in-Chief. It was now near noon, and our troops had taken fresh courage for effort from the hour of two for rest and refreshment which they had enjoyed. Then the enemy were reported to be again advancing; they opened fire on our men, from the woods skirting the plain in which the latter were posted.

First commencing with the usual picket skirmishing, and then swelling into the roar of the artillery duel, the struggle opened between the advanced guard of the two armies, until by three or four o'clock in the afternoon the battle raged fiercely all along the line, until within an hour or two of sunset, when the storm lulled for a time, and the rebels, who had been meanwhile reinforced, came on with fresh vigor to the assault. They were soon met with equal determination by Porter's men, aided now by the reinforcements that had come to them from the corps of Franklin, Sumner and Keyes; from the former Slocum's division, from Sumner the brigades of French, and the Irish boys under Meagher, and from the further reserved corps of Keyes, the brigade of Palmer, which had done good service in the fight of Wednesday on the left. Desperately and determinedly did the rebels press forward, but as desperately and determinedly were they met and driven, gaining nothing further that night of the promise of their morning advance. Not until after nine o'clock did the men find rest, which, we may be sure, came not unwelcomed to such of the men as had passed through the struggle, commencing early in the afternoon of the previous day.

Most opportunely was the arrival of the reinforcements that evening, for our troops, hard pressed by superior numbers, were in danger of being driven further back than was intended, and the first symptoms of disorder were showing themselves in the hasty flight of teamsters and lookers-on, the straggling soldiers in the crowd being turned back from Woodbury's bridge by the strong guard who kept watch over it with their bayonets.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

And so the sun went down upon that battle-field strewn with the bruised and mangled forms of what have once been men, of what were still men, though shorn of their full proportions, and bidden to go maimed and halted through life. But though the night had settled down upon the earth, and wearied men were sleeping so peacefully, even in the midst of death, rest did not come at all, for there was still a vigilant watch to be kept upon the movements of the enemy, and the nearby work of removing the dead and providing for the wounded. And early in the morning, at 2 o'clock, all were disturbed by the sound of a sharp firing coming from the direction of the left, where the enemy were amusing themselves with a night on the positions of Sumner, Hooker and Kearney, with no result that I learn of. Smith's division, directly opposite Woodbury's Bridge, on the further side of the Chickahominy, were also attacked during the day of Friday, his brave Vermont boys and the Twenty-third New York, with the help of Ayers' and other batteries, repelling the assault with great slaughter.

THE LOSS.

And who can estimate our loss, when none but an Omnipotent eye can, in the confusion that follow the first hours of the engagement, search out the fate of all who appear not with their comrades as they gather with their regiments at night? It will surely exceed a thousand, and I hope not pass 1,500; but a few days more will tell, while, meanwhile, the list must swell greatly, for the battle is not yet fully ended. Strategy or no strategy, there must still be desperate fighting, even though the rebels should play into our hands to the end, as they are reported to have done to-day in seeking to possess themselves of the communications with White House, little thinking, probably, how far advanced were the preparations for changing to a new and better base on the James river, where our gunboats can afford us full protection, and we shall have but a single flank to guard.

THE OPERATIONS OF THURSDAY.

GAINES' HILL, Friday, June 27.—The army of the Potomac is having a week of work, and the promise of the prevailing signs is that the closing day of the last week in June is to witness hard fighting. Yesterday afternoon, at about two o'clock, the rebels, who had crossed the Chickahominy at Meadow Bridge, two miles below Mechanicsville, attacked with artillery from across the river, and with a strong infantry force, the regiments opposing the First Brigade of McCall's division—the Bucktails, the Tenth, Eighth, Ninth and Fifth Pennsylvania regiments. They were promptly met by the Pennsylvanians, who fought them for two hours, when the Second and Third Brigades of McCall's division, comprising six regiments, reinforced their hard-pressed comrades, and fought them until evening, repulsing them at every point. Our men suffered a very considerable loss in killed, wounded and prisoners, something like three hundred—the figure is merely estimated—but were ready for further work this morning, and in high spirits.

After holding the enemy in check for four hours, McCall's division was reinforced by two brigades from Gen. Fitz John Porter, and the rebels were again driven back, they making a further attack, with a heavy loss. During the action a severe cannonading was kept up by both parties, the rebels, however, failing to do much damage with their shells. They advanced upon us in great force. It is estimated that at least 30,000 men were brought by them into the fight, to make a desperate effort to flank our right. Our far inferior force, however, held them effectually in check and eventually drove them back.

Gen. McClellan himself arrived on the ground toward evening, and immediately sent a dispatch to be read to the troops on the other side of the Chickahominy, to the effect that Gen. McCall had repulsed the enemy and driven them back upon their entrenchments. The dispatch was read to the troops just at dusk, and from that hour till late in the night, along the lines of our army, cheer after cheer went up.

The fight was renewed early in the morning, when the enemy were again repulsed: but at about six o'clock, in accordance with strategic plans of Gen. McClellan, our troops fell back two or three miles, the rebels following.

The fight has proceeded to-day on better ground and satisfactorily. The movements of the army are important, but I am forbid to state them in detail.

From White House we hear of a probable advance of the enemy on that post of supplies, and everything there is ready to receive them.

All along the lines to-day there has been vigorous firing, the enemy attempting to shell our camps.

FRIDAY'S WORK.

Correspondence of the New York Herald.

BATTLE FIELD, June 27, 10 P. M.

To-day another battle has been fought by our gallant Union troops—another glorious victory to be added to the brilliant records of Wednesday and Thursday. I call to-day's battle a victory, for so it is set down by those claiming to understand the purpose of the movement.

Giving up ground that we had held, and burning commissary and ammunition stores while fleeing from a pursuing enemy, looks like defeat. But it was not defeat—it was part and parcel of a strategic plan. We gave up ground that it was inexpedient, with the force at command, to hold any longer.

Our retrograde column fell back to a specific point—fought to hold the point as they had been told to do—fought firmly, bravely, furiously, as it was known they would—held the position against greatly superior numbers, and hold it now. The enemy fought desperately.

Our loss in to-day's fighting estimated at twelve hundred—killed wounded and missing; that of the enemy is deemed much greater. There is no trusting estimates now, however.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE DAY'S WORK.

Shortly after the close of Thursday's fight came an order from Gen. McClellan to Gen. Fitz John Porter, directing the withdrawal of his corps to a position two miles thu side of Gaines' Mill, the ground we now occupy. At three o'clock A. M., the moving back of the corps, who had been sleeping on their arms all night, began. Gen. McCall, in accordance with insructions, opened with his artillery upon the enemy. The latter thought this the renewal of the preceding day's fight, and returned a vigorous response from their guns. Shot and shell flew in antagonistic directions with dangerous liveliness.

Gradually Gen. McCall's troops withdrew, which, the enemy naturally mistaking for a victory on their side, caused them to follow on in hot haste. Of course our rear column yielded the ground slowly, the more to make the enemy believe that they were being beaten. Meantime Gen. Sykes' division led the retreating column, followed by Gen. Morrell's division. Along the advance there were but little indications of a retreat. The men moved slowly, and all, ignorant of this backward movement, were anxious to know the cause of it. I should here state that Gen. McClellan had previously ordered the removal of all tents and commissary and quartermaster's stores across the Chickahominy. This order was given on Thursday, before the first attack on the enemy by Gen. McCall, and shows the object to have been a concentration of all our troops on the other side of the river in accordance with the programme alluded to above.

CLOSE OF THE DAY'S FIGHT.

The sun went down in brightness and beauty. Its departing rays shed their twilight hues upon the contest of carnage still going on. It was half past nine o'clock when the firing ceased and the day's work of battle was over. We compelled the enemy to retreat, and held the ground we were told to hold. The closing firing was between the enemy and Gen. Smith's division on our left.

FROM THE FIFTH REGIMENT.

ITS PART IN THE OCCUPATION OF CORINTH.

Governor Ramsey:

I am requested by Col. Borgersrode, who is disabled by a severe wound in his right hand and unable to perform the duty himself, to prepare for your use a statement in detail of the connection sustained by the Fifth Regiment Minnesota Volunteers, in the movements of this army, preliminary to the occupation of Corinth. On the 28th of May, 1862, a movement was made against the works of the enemy along the entire extent of the Federal lines. The Minnesota Fifth occupied a position in the front of the battle, being the second battalion from the right of the first brigade of the second division of "Pope's army of the Mississippi." The movement commenced early in the day. The advance upon the left had proceeded but a few paces beyond our outposts when it encountered a considerable force of the enemy's pickets. The Minnesota Fifth was here ordered to charge across an open field at double quick and with bayonets fixed, which was promptly obeyed, the rebel pickets keeping up a sharp fire as they were driven in. The line moved rapidly forward about a mile and a half from where the pickets of the enemy were first encountered, and halted just under cover of a slight elevation of ground. Skirmishers were thrown out in front, and a reconnoissance made, which disclosed the fact that the enemy in large force, and drawn up in line of battle, occupied a piece of woods about fifty rods in our front, and on our right, and that an entrenched battery of heavy artillery was in a commanding position on our left some two hundred rods in advance. The latter soon opened fire on a battery of light artillery as it was moving into position on the brow of the hill running along our front. Though this battery was immediately upon our left, and supported by another regiment (the 47th Illinois,) yet the formation of the line was such that it brought the Fifth Minnesota immediately in range of the enemy's guns, and nearly all his shot and shell passed over or fell near where it lay. It was protected, however, by its position under the brow of the hill mentioned, where, by laying flat upon their faces, our men escaped casualty. They suffered much, however, by the intense heat, and many were taken off the field and carried to the rear, disabled by sunstroke, and otherwise affected by the heat. Our artillery was of but little avail against the superior guns of the enemy's battery, entrenched as they were, behind extensive earthworks, and after being engaged perhaps two hours, slackened its fire. Presently the enemy were observed advancing in considerable force directly in our front. The movements of the enemy indicated a purpose to cut off and capture the battery. When within a distance of two hundred yards from our line, the Minnesota Fifth rose to its feet and discharged a volley into the advancing column, which met an immediate response, and a fierce engagement ensued, lasting perhaps forty minutes.

Our men fell upon their faces just under the brow of the hill after every discharge, thus saving themselves from the effect of what must otherwise have proved a most destructive fire. The regiment that had been placed in position to support the battery had retired, and for a while its condition seemed critical, but an order was given to fix bayonets preparatory to a charge. It was obeyed with alacrity, and the Minnesota Fifth moved to the brow of the hill, formed, and awaited the order to advance, but the enemy evidently comprehended the intention, broke in confusion and made a precipitate retreat. It was now nearly night, and with the exception of an occasional shot from the enemy's battery, no further firing occurred that day. Once during the engagement, the right of the regiment misunderstanding an order to "fall down" for one to "fall back," given by one of the company officers, retired the distance of a few yards, but rallied in obedience to command.

That night was occupied in digging trenches and rifle pits, and burying the enemy's dead. About eighty of the latter were interred on the field. No rest and but little refreshment were allowed the men. The following morning a battery of Parrott guns were mounted, bearing on the rebel works, and a fierce fire of artillery kept up until nearly night, when the latter became reduced and were abandoned. As was the case the first day, the Minnesota Fifth lay immediately in range of the fire of the rebel guns, but being protected by the cover of its entrenchments, no casualties occurred, though many narrow escapes might be mentioned.

Company A—Killed, none.

Wounded, Corporal Pulaski Miller, in the hand, not serious; privates E. A. Bard, shot through the wrist, severely wounded: John J. Bury, in the jaw by a buck-shot, not dangerous; E. E. Haroun, slightly, in the hand.

Company E—Killed, none.

Company G—Killed, none.

Company H—Killed, none.

Company I—Killed, private Patrick Glynn.

Company K—Killed, private William Blackburn.

Respectfully yours,
L. F. HUBBARD,
Lieut. Col. 5th Reg. M. V.

How Beauregard got to Richmond.

Our well-informed Nashville correspondent writes, upon what he deems pretty good authority, that while Beauregard was holding Corinth, he had several thousand negroes employed in extending the Jackson and Vicksburg Railroad from Lowashee to Montgomery, Alabama, thus forming a connection with the East. Our Washington correspondent refers to something of the same sort. With such a work completed, a glance at the map will show the facility with which the army of the Mississippi, or a large portion of it, may have been transferred to Richmond.—Cincinnati Gazette.

PERSONAL.—Major Hans Mattson, of the Third Regiment, arrived in town last Saturday evening. He remains but a short time, and will soon return to his regiment.

Fred. E. Miller, who has been a prisoner to the rebels ever since the battle of Bull Run, has also arrived, having been released on his parole.—Goodhue Rep.

AFTER THE FARMS.—Every day brings considerable increase to our population in the shape of land-seekers from other States. The benefits conferred by the Homestead Bill upon Minnesota are just beginning to be appreciated.—St. Peter Tribune.

Humors of the Day.

—Punch says women first resorted to tight lacing to prove to men how well they could bear squeezing.

—What is the difference between a drummer boy and a pound of meat? One weighs a pound and the other pounds away.

—The refrain of the newspapers just now is "Where, and oh, where, is the Corinth army gone?" and in truth it is very difficult to tell.

—Why is a young lady, when taking a cup of tea, like a native of the Confederated States? Because she is a Miss-a-sippin'. [Mississippian.]

—To make "Lager Beer," take a barrel and fill it with rain water, put in one pair of old boots, a head of last fall's cabbage, two short sixes, a sprig of wormwood and a little yeast.

—The Bible says, "Remember Lot's wife." The rebels, in their rage for salt, remember her and "lust after her." So they obey one scriptural injunction only to disobey another.—Louisville Journal.

—A sixty-nine pounder shell burst near an Irishman in one of the trenches. Pat coolly surveyed the ruins the fragments had made, and exclaimed, "Be jabers! thim's the fellows to soften the wax in a man's ear!"

—Here is an old epigram in two lines, or rather an epitaph, sharp enough to wake up the vixen, if she were not very dead indeed:

If I said I was sorry then I should lie too."

—A young lady was thrown from a carriage, and on being asked where she was injured most, innocently replied, "Down at the surprise party, when Tom Skillings went home with another girl."

—When Madge was a very little girl her father found her chubby hands full of the blossoms of a beautiful tea rose, on which he had bestowed great care. "My dear," said he, "didn't I tell you not to pick one of those flowers without leave?" "Yes, papa," said Madge, innocently, "but all these had leaves."

—If four hound dogs with sixteen legs can can catch twenty-one rabbits with eighty-seven legs in forty-four minutes, how many legs must the same rabbits have to get away from eight hound dogs with thirty-two legs in seventeen minutes and a half?

—"My dear Horatio, I had a very curious dream about you."

"What was it, dear?"

"I dreamt I saw you carried up to heaven in a golden chariot, surrounded by angels clothed in white and purple. What is that the sign of, my dear?"

"It is sign of foul stomach, my dearest."

—"Come, sonny, get up," said an indulgent father to his hopeful son the other morning. "Remember the early bird catches the worm."

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches, &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

EYE & EAR.

DR. UNDERWOOD,

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO SEVEN PER CENT. PER ANNUM—THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums above the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded three hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $830,965.35. The premiums income of nearly of the smaller companies was $5 5,865 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,000,000.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the mass of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent corporation. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME, the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John McGee, Secretary, those well accredited officers very justly say: "Our well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, command it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the one crack company of our State, in high credit all over the Union, worked upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last amounted up to $1,521,268.08, against an actual liability of only $55,080.43; and, moreover, it is worth nothing that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $121,431.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bond and mortgages $910,219.53, secured on real estate worth $1,715,000, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $320,636. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $106,715,148, taking $829,993 premium, and paid losses $235,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after reserving an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "nett surplus" of $160,661 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night

THE CITY.

THE Rev. Robert W. Blow will preach at Christ Church, this morning at half-past ten o'clock, also at four o'clock P. M.

THE Fourth of July pic-nic of the Germans near Summit Avenue will be continued to-day. As the entire proceeds go for educational purposes, it is believed it will be again thronged.

IMPROVED.—The LeSueur County Herald comes to us enlarged and generally improved. It enjoys the rare felicity of being the only paper in its county, and is doing well, pecuniarily.

HOT.—The last two days have certainly been the hottest days of the season—thermometer 96 in the shade. About these days one feels the highest veneration for Ice Symonds.

"ANOTHER BOTTLE OR TWO."—Since the "Wizard Oil Man" has been among us, the urchins have all learned, and are constantly singing on the streets, the chorus of "another bottle or two-o, another bottle or two-o-o."

REMOVED.—Dr. Price, dentist, who has been occupying the old Rice dwelling house so long as to have almost become a fixture, has recently removed his office to the rooms over McCloud's Hardware store.

HEAVY FIRE AT WINONA.—A dispatch was received by Messrs. Burbank & Co. yesterday, stating that a heavy fire broke out at Winona at half past one o'clock in the morning, consuming four blocks. Among the buildings burned was the express office, but everything was saved out of it except the stationery and a few promiscuous packages of no great value.

I. O. O. F.—Hennepin Lodge I. O. O. F. will meet at the Hall on Monday evening next, at which time all the members are requested to be present.

The members of St. Paul and Hennepin Lodges will meet jointly on Tuesday evening next, for the purpose of organization. A full attendance of the membership is requested. d2t

PROPOSALS FOR SUBSISTENCE FOR TROOPS AT FORT SNELLING.—We call attention to the advertisement of Captain Saunders, inviting proposals until noon of July 16th, for furnishing rations to troops, prisoners, &c., at Fort Snelling, until the first of next January.

It is said that a large profit has been made out of the contracts for supplying rations at Fort Snelling for the past year. It is hoped there will be sufficient competition on the 16th to secure to the Government fair prices, while the contractor may make a moderate profit.

DISTRESSING CASUALITY BY LIGHTNING.—Allen Harmon, Esq., writes from Cold Spring, eighteen miles from St. Cloud, that on the afternoon of the 1st of July, a severe storm passed over that region, during which a German farmer, his wife and a yoke of oxen were struck by lightning and all killed.

They were plowing corn, the man holding the plow and the woman driving and leading the oxen by a rope. The man was first struck and killed, his clothes being torn to pieces; the lightning then passed along the plow beam, killing the oxen, and was conducted to the woman by the rope. She was knocked down but got up and walked a few rods and fell dead. They leave six children.

THE FIRST REGIMENT.—The anxiety to hear the particulars of the late battles before Richmond, so far as they affect the personel of the First Regiment is intense. There were all sorts of rumors in the city yesterday, stating that an almost fabulous number were killed, among whom were this and that officer; but it is unnecessary to assure our readers there has been no news received. As soon as the news comes it will be given in a reliable form.

The family of Gen. Gorman received a dispatch yesterday stating that the General was at the Eutaw House, in Baltimore, sick. Neither he nor his son, Lieutenant Gorman, were injured.

The family of Gen. Dana have received a dispatch since the battle, stating the General is all right.

ORDINATION EXERCISES.—Rev. L. B. Teft was ordained to the work of the Gospel Ministry, at Prescott, Wis., on the 29th of June, by an Ecclesiastical Council convened for the purpose, of which Rev. A. Gale was Moderator, and T. B. Rogers, Clerk. The order of exercises were as follows:

1. Reading of the Scriptures, by Rev. T. B. Rogers.
2. Introductory prayer, by Rev. C. T. Catlin.
3. Sermon, by Rev. A. Gale.
4. Ordaining prayer, by Rev. A. P. Graves.
5. Hand of Fellowship, by Rev. E. Munger.
6. Charge to candidate, by Rev. T. E. Keeley.
7. Address to Church and Congregation, by Rev. T. F. Thickstun.
8. Closing prayer, by Rev. L. Thayer.
9. Benediction, by the Candidate.

POLICE ITEMS.—Considering that yesterday was the "day after the Fourth," there was but little for Justice Gibbs to dispose of.

Mary Day alias Karney (she has forsaken the name of Karney, on account of her husband being "no man at all, at all,") celebrated the Fourth in her own way, by knocking a shanty all to flinters. This proceeding not agreeing with the views of the occupants thereof, she was taken before Justice Gibbs, who gave her good advice to the amount of $10 and costs, and as Mary had no spare change, she was committed for two weeks.

Ferguson, who was charged with the robbery of $255 from Mr. Whitcher, was discharged, there being no evidence against him.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.—The eighty-sixth anniversary of American Independence was not observed in such a marked manner in St. Paul as on many former occasions,

Before daylight the fire bells rang summoning the members of the Hope Military Company to parade. Under their auspices the cannon was fired in different parts of the city at the break of day.

The Pioneer Hook and Ladder Company paraded in full uniform and fair force, preceded by the Great Western Band in the forenoon. They drew their truck, and presented a very creditable appearance.

The Cadets, a company of school boys who have been drilled by their teachers, Messrs. Gates and Hazeltine, also paraded in the forenoon. Their fine military appearance evinced what soldiers they would make, should in after years, their country require their services.

The usual public school exercises for the fourth were held at the Capitol in the forenoon, where the Declaration of Independence was read by George A. Nourse, Esq. After these exercises were over a pic-nic was held on the mission grounds, when Young America revelled in sandwiches, fruit cakes, ice cream and lemonade.

In the afternoon there was a pic-nic in the grove between Summit and Dayton avenues, given under the auspices of a German school society, which was largely attended by both German and native citizens During the afternoon brief and felicitous addresses were made in German by Mr. Ludvig, and in English by Col. Cullin. We learn that the society cleared about $100.

The Clara Hine made two trips conveying excursionists to Minnehaha Falls, and the cars made five trips at different periods of the day to St. Anthony.

Private parties penetrated to the country at all points, where they spent the day on the banks or on the broad and crystal surface of some of the numerous lakes of the vicinity.

RIVER NEWS.—The arrivals since Friday morning are as follows: War Eagle and Northern Light, from Dunleith; Northern Belle and Keokuk, from La Crosse; Pomeroy and Clara Hine, from Mankato, and Antelope from Carver.

The Northerner left for St. Louis; McLellan and Northern Belle for La Crosse; Key City and War Eagle for Dunleith; Pomeroy for Mankato, and the Antelope for Carver.

The W. L. Ewing is due this morning, and will depart for St. Louis at four o'clock this afternoon.

The Northern Light, Capt. Gabbert, Clerk Cook, will start at eight A. M. for Prairie du Chien and Dunleith.

The McLellan will arrive this afternoon and will be the LaCrosse boat to-morrow morning.

The Itasca will be in port this morning, and will depart for Prairie du Chien and Dunleith to-morrow at eight A. M.

Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, July 4.

A gloom was cast over change to-day in consequence of the unfavorable intelligence from the army before Richmond. The depreciation of securities, however, affected the leading markets for breadstuffs rather favorable—especially wheat, which was in better request for shipment to Canada, and we note an advance in prices of about 1c per bushel, with sales of 180,000 bushels, at 83@86c for No. 2 white winter, 81c for No. 2 red winter, 83½c@85c for amber lown, 81@82c for No. 1 spring, and 72@75c for No. 2 spring—the market closing firm.—Chicago Tribune.

THE GREAT BATTLES BEFORE RICHMOND.

Important Events of the First Three Days' Fighting.

THE GREAT BATTLE OF FRIDAY—SUCCESSFUL STRATEGIC MOVEMENT.

WHITE HOUSE, Saturday, June 28.

The events transpiring at this point, and in the army before Richmond, during the past four days, have been of such varied character and thrilling interest that I scarcely know where to commence or end the record in order to make it all understandable to the general reader. Many who were eye-witnesses to these movements have fled off panic-stricken, fully convinced that the whole army before Richmond has been destroyed, and that General McClellan has been out-witted, out-generaled, and out-flanked, and "driven to the wall," where he promised to place the enemy. The evacuation of White House was to them an inexplicable mystery under any other condition of facts; but, had they kept their eyes open early in the week, they would have discovered that the work of evacuation was silently and surely progressing before any of the fighting on the left wing, as early as Tuesday, and that large numbers of vessels had left the York and Pamunkey Rivers, and were moving rapidly around to a new base of operations on the James River. They might also have observed that all civilians were forbidden to approach the front as early as Tuesday, under any pretence whatever, and that the immense stores of supplies at Dispatch Station had been steadily reduced for a week, until the last box of crackers, barrel of beef, and bale of hay had disappeared before the great contest of Friday, which left the way open for the enemy to approach that point, which I have every reason to believe was designedly intended by Gen. McClellan to be the mouth of the empty trap into which they were being led, and, as I hope and believe, to their entire rout and discomfiture.

Before proceeding to narrate the events as they have occurred in the vicinity of White House during the past few days, I will briefly state that the whole movement of McClellan, so far as the changing of his lines is concerned, and in reality the making of his left wing his right wing, and withdrawing his right wing to rest near Savage Station, at the railroad bridge across the Chickahominy, has been accomplished, throwing the way open for the enemy to rush to his coveted feast at the White House, where he found nothing but an empty platter.

WEDNESDAY AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

At the White House on Wednesday matters were progressing as usual, with the exception that there had been a check in the landing of stores of all descriptions, whilst those on the landing were being loaded into wagons and carried off towards the left flank. Several steamers, with large strings of vessels, laden with forage and subsistence, had also been started down the river, with orders to proceed to City Point, on the James river. This reversal in the course of transportation occasioned considerable comment and speculation, but was ascertained to be the fulfillment of an order direct from General McClellan.

DOINGS ON THURSDAY.

The fact that the gunboats had taken position in front of the landing with their guns out and shotted, and the sweeping away of the trees, which was still progressing, gave renewed activity to the rush of the camp followers for passes by the mail boat to Fortress Monroe, and our population commenced to be depleted.

Throughout the day, at White House, the greatest vigilance was observed in and around the headquarters of General Casey. An immense train of wagons was moving forward from the subsistence and commissary departments throughout the day, and the immense stocks on shore were being rapidly diminished. The trains on the railroad were still steadily moving forward with ammunition, and continued throughout the night. Cavalry scouts had also been sent out in various directions during the day, and preparations were made for obstructing the roads.

Whilst all these preparations were going on, indicating the probable intention of evacuating the landing, on shore, the numerous steamers and tugs, probably fifty in number, had been busy towing down the river to West Point, a distance of fifty miles, through its tortuous windings, long lines of brigs and barks laden with stores. The vessels that were scattered about in the vicinity were also collected together in separate groups and anchored in the stream, where they could be easily and rapidly taken in two by the steamers when the time for their removal arrived. And in order that the reader may imagine the scene here presented, it may be proper for him to understand that not less than seven hundred sail of vessels were, two days previous, at anchor at the White House landing and stream along for eight or ten miles down the river.

In the meantime the work on the construction of the railroad bridge over the Pamunkey, just above the landing, was steadily progressing, a large force of workmen being constantly at work. This fact, in conjunction with the evident movement towards a speedy evacuation, bewildered the speculations of the uninitiated, but Colonel Ingalls, under whose directions the evacuation was progressing, moved about as coolly as as summer's morning.

The reports from the front on Thursday evening continued favorable, heavy skirmishing having taken place on the right, resulting in the repulse of the enemy, and a few more of the wounded arrived, who reported everything progressing most satisfactorily, whilst all the indications were that a general battle along the whole line would take place the next day (Friday.) The trains were kept in motion all night carrying forward munitions of war, whilst the wagon-trains were still lining the roads with commissary stores.

THE GREAT ALARM.

On Friday morning the first item of news from the front received by telegraph was a gratifying announcement that Stonewall Jackson and Ewell, in attempting to turn the right flank, were repulsed by Gen. McCall with his Pennsylvania reserves, and driven back with great slaughter. There was every indication of a general battle along the whole line, and Gen. McClellan, in order to be ready for all emergencies, gave directions to Gen. Casey and Col. Ingalls to make every preparation for the instant removal or destruction of all the supplies at White House, should the result of the impending battle render such a course necessary.

The steamers and tugs were all in early requisition, and were moving down the river with long trains of transports in tow. The vessels nearest the landing were also stored full of commissary stores and munitions, and moved out in the stream. The immense piles of boxes of crackers, barrels of pork, and other stores along the landing were again covered over with bales of hay so as to be ready at a moment's notice to apply the torch for their destruction if it should become necessary.

The mail steamer, which should have left for Fortress Monroe at 7 o'clock in the morning, was ordered to be detained and at 9 o'clock a dispatch was received that a general battle was progressing along the whole line, the enemy having renewed the attempt to flank Gen. Porter's position on the right wing. At 11 o'clock a second dispatch announced that Gen. Porter had driven the enemy before him and repulsed them three times with terrific slaughter, and was then ordered by Gen. McClellan to fall back. This dispatch was a signal for renewed energy in the work of evacuation, and all the quartermaster's papers and valuables, and the chests of the paymasters were brought on board the mail boat.

It was also announced that General Stoneman, with six thousand cavalry and artillery, was within six miles of the White House, to protect the work of evacuation if a dash should be made by the enemy in that direction.

A gentleman left the Savage Station, south of the Chickahominy, at 7 o'clock on Saturday morning, and states that during the night the entire right wing of the army passed over the river in good order, not losing a wagon of the train, and only leaving such portion of their camps as was not worth removing as they retired to their new lines. There had been no firing during the night, though at 5 o'clock on Saturday morning some heavy cannonading was heard on the extreme left towards James river, which soon ceased, however, and at seven o'clock all was again quiet. The railroad was in operation all night on Friday after the battle, and the last train that left for the White House took its departure at seven o'clock, and met no interruption on the way down.

RUMORS OF INTERVENTION WHOLLY FALSE.

THE FRENCH EMPEROR'S RECENT DISPATCH.

THE ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL PASSED

Special Dispatch to the Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, July 2, 1862.

The stories relating to a diplomatic opening of intervention as having already been made by British and French ministers, are all false, the British minister having gone home, and the French minister has gone north to some watering place. Besides, it is positively known that Count Mercier, on last Saturday, read to Secretary Seward a dispatch from the Emperor, renewing assurances that he intended adhering to his course of strict neutrality.

The importance of this fact in view of present complications cannot be overrated.

It was Mr. Wright, not Wilkinson, who introduced the resolution of the expulsion of Senator Simmons. Still many Republicans are thought likely to sustain it.

Congress was exceedingly dull to-day. Mr. Wright's introduction of a resolution to expel Senator Simmons for selling his services in procuring gun contracts, is regarded as an evidence that Simmons can expect little sympathy from his party friends.

Mr. Sherman offered a resolution to adjourn on the 14th instant.

Congress is as likely to adjourn then as any other date, but in these times no man can tell what a day will bring forth, and Congress partakes of the general uncertainty.

Mr. Sherman made a forcible speech in favor of his amendment to the new Treasury Note bill, requiring bankers to pay a duty of two per cent. on their circulation. He avowed a desire by some such stringent legislation to drive the notes of local banks out of circulation and secure a national currency.

Garrett Davis announced that he should vote against this and all similar measures Secretary Chase might hereafter propose, believing them designed to destroy all State Banks.

The House passed the army appropriation bill just as it came back from the Senate, amendments and all.

Legal Notices.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—DEFAULT has been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred and eighty three dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon that certain mortgage executed, acknowledged and delivered by John Wesley Bond and Johanna A. H. Bond, his wife, of Ramsey county, Territory (now State) of Minnesota, to Lowman Hawes, of Bloomington, (late of Madison), State of Indiana, and which bears date August twentieth, (20th) A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and was given to secure the payment of six hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($621.25), in one year from the date thereof, and interest thereon, and was duly recorded at three and a half (3½) of the clock, in the afternoon on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of August, in said year (1857), as a mortgage, in Book "I," of mortgages, pages three hundred and three (303) and three hundred and four (304), in the Registry of Deeds of said Ramsey county.

And the said Lowman Hawes, mortgagee, has duly paid the taxes upon the land therein described as lying in the said county of Ramsey, for for the years 1858, 1859, 1860 and 1861, and all interest and charges thereon, and has the receipt of the treasurer of the said county of Ramsey therefor, and the amount so paid and the interest thereon, at the date of this notice, is twenty-eight and fifty-two one-hundredth dollars, $28.52) and claims an additional lien on the said land in the county of Ramsey, for the same; and no proceedings at law or in equity have been had to collect the said mortgage debt or any part of the same.

And whereas, said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, deceased and died intestate on the eleventh (11th) day of February, A. D. 1861, and upon due application, Mary Hawes, of Madison, in the county of Jefferson, State of Indiana, was on the eleventh (11th) day of April, A. D. 1861, duly appointed administratrix of the estate, &c., of said Lowman Hawes, deceased by the Court of Common Pleas, being also a Court of Probate, of said county of Jefferson, and letters of administration have been duly issued to her out of said Court, as administratrix of said estate; an authenticated copy of the said letters of administration and appointment are now on file in the Probate Court in and for the county of Ramsey, in the State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to a power of sale, in said mortgage contained, authorizing and empowering the said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to make sale of the premises therein described upon default being made in the conditions of the said mortgage, and under and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31) in township thirty (30) north of range twenty-three (23) west, lying and being in the county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota; also the southeast quarter (¼) of section two (2), in township thirty-two (32) north, of range twenty-one (21) west, lying and being in the county of Washington and state of Minnesota, with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances belonging, or in anywise appertaining to the said tracts, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash, by the Sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Paul, in said county, at ten (10) of the clock in the forenoon, on Saturday, the sixteenth (16th) day of August, A. D. 1862, to pay said debt, taxes and interest and costs allowed by law.

Dated Saint Paul, Minn., July 1st, 1862.

On reading and filing the petition of Edward Webb, Administrator of said estate, setting forth the amount of personal estate, the amount of debts, and a description of the real estate of which said deceased died seized, and the condition and value thereof, and praying that license be to him granted to sell the whole of said real estate; and it appearing by said petition that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of said Administrator to pay said debts, and that it is necessary, in order to pay the same, to sell the whole of said real estate. It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before the Judge of this Court on the 5th day of August, 1862, at ten o'clock A. M., at the office of the Judge of Probate, then and there to show cause, if any there be, why license should not be granted to said Administrator to sell said real estate.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Saint Paul PRESS, a newspaper published at Saint Paul, Ramsey county.

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

The PRESS has—in accordance with the fact—claimed for the last six months a larger circulation, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, than any other paper in the city or State, and has challenged the Pioneer to compare the circulation of that paper with the PRESS, and make the result public, which challenge has been constantly declined, thus, on the part of the Pioneer, practically admitting the larger circulation of the PRESS. The bills of newspaper for the several editions of the PRESS and Pioneer show conclusively that the circulation of the several editions of the PRESS is nearly two thousand sheets per week greater than the circulation of the Pioneer.

GOOD NEWS.

McClellan is turning the tables on the enemy. He has driven them back across the White Oak swamp, capturing three batteries and one thousand prisoners. He had advanced five miles towards Richmond.

The enemy are evidently badly beaten, notwithstanding their pursuit of us in the late retreat.. Richmond papers acknowledge their loss to be 30,000.

VICKSBURG.

The same expedient that secured us Island No. 10 has been resorted to, to capture Vicksburg. A canal has been cut around the city on the west side of the river. For the first time in the history of the war, negroes have been freely put to use by the Federal army.

It would seem that the announcement of the capture of Vicksburg, made Sunday morning, was premature, so far as actual information of the event has transpired. An assault was contemplated on the 4th, and very possibly it was taken. At any rate, it is now only a question of a few days.

THE MINNESOTA FIRST IN THE LATE BATTLES BEFORE RICHMOND.

The New York Times correspondent, who gives the fullest and most accurate account of the late terrible battles, makes the only mention that we have seen, at the present writing, of our gallant First. We publish the account in full elsewhere. It will be seen that the following relates to Sedgwick's Division, to which Gens. Gorman's and Dana's brigades belonged. The Minnesota First being in Gorman's brigade. The Times makes the mistake of substituting Maine for Minnesota, as is evident from the names,—C. W. Haskell's name appears in Company C, in the Adjutant General's Report.

The Times' correspondent says:

Sedgwick's Division left the front at daylight (Sunday), and were engaged by the enemy half way to Savage's station, which they reached at five P. M. Here the enemy's infantry came out of the wood and attacked them. The First Minnesota were advanced on the left, with a line of skirmishers in front. They had twelve wounded, three mortally—viz: Smith, Wren and Taylor, C. W. Haskell, of company C, was slightly wounded in the head by a shell.

There are so many Smiths aed Taylors in the regiment, that their names cannot be identified as to company. The name Wren, we do not find in the muster roll of the regiment. It is either the mispelling of some other name, or one of the recruits since the original roster was prepared.

FULL DETAILS TO MONDAY'S FIGHT.

Events of the gravest character have transpired within the last five days, touching the condition and prospects of the army on the Peninsula. Acting under the necessity which the Commanding General has long foreseen, the widely-extended lines of the army, with its miles of well constructed defenses, stretching almost from the James river on the left, to and beyond the Chickahominy on the right, have been abandoned, and the army before Richmond has fallen back to a more practicable line of defense and attack, upon the James river. Hither the grand army, with its immense artillery and wagon train; its commissary and quarter's stores: its ammunition; its cattle drove, of 2,540 head; in fact, its entire material, horse, foot and dragoons, bag and baggage, have been transferred. This movement, however, one of the most difficult and dangerous for a commander to execute in the face of the enemy—has been accomplished safely, though under circumstances of difficulty and trial which would have taxed the genius of a Napoleon. The army has been engaged in constant conflict with the enemy for six days, during which their highest energies have been taxed to the uttermost. We have had no moment to repose—no opportunity scarcely to properly take care of the wounded and to bury the dead. The enemy have closely watched every movement, and, with an army more than double that of our own, have had the ability to constantly launch fresh troops upon our rear, an advantage which they been quick to discover, and remorseless in improving. Their perfect knowledge of the roads, paths and bridges, and the topography of the country, which has taken us time to learn, has placed an immense advantage in their hands.

Beginning with the fight at Mechanicsville on Thursday, our advance forces, while steadily falling back, have had a continuous running fight.

On Friday one of the severest battles which was ever fought on this continent occurred on the right of the Chickahominy, near Gaines' Hill. On Saturday, after our forces had retired in good order across the creek and destroyed the bridges, we were attacked in front of our encampments, but General Smith repulsed the enemy, leaving the ground strewn with his dead.

On Saturday morning the arrangements having been completed, the wagon train was started on its way to James river, and was followed on Sunday morning by the artillery and commissary's train.

Meantime the enemy, getting scent of our movement, strongly reconnoitered our front, and finding that several of our positions had been abandoned, pushed in and attacked us vigorously. Generals Hooker and Richardson drove them back, and General Meagher's brigade, always on hand at the right time, charged, and captured two of their guns. The rebels paid a dear price for the information which they obtained. The chief struggle was near Savage's Station.

Anticipating a movement on our right flank, the railroad bridge over the Chickahominy was destroyed on Saturday morning. The rebels, supposing we had fallen back on the White House, sent a large force of infantry, cavalry and artillery in that direction, but after a long, rapid and weary march, discovered they had gone on a wild goose chase in the wrong direction.

Gen. McClellan and staff left the headquarters at Savage's Station at daylight on Sunday morning, with a body guard of the Fourth United States Cavalry, and halted some five miles out after crossing the White Oak Creek.

There were, on Saturday, about one thousand of the wounded and sick, chiefly accumulated from the battle of Friday, many of whom it was found impossible to remove, owing to the nature and severity of their wounds, and as a matter of humanity, as well as of necessity, they were left behind. A great many, however, who could walk slowly followed the track of the army, and the ambulance brought away a great many others.

WITHDRAWING FROM THE FRONT.

Gen. Hooker's Division broke camp in the intrenchments at three o'clock Sunday morning, and Gen. Sickles' and Grover's Brigades proceeded to the out-posts to relieve Gen. Paterson's New Jersey Brigade. At five o'clock A. M. the three brigades fell back to the second line of redouts, where they formed a line of battle with Richardson's and Kearney's Divisions, and remained until 8 o'clock P. M. On discovering that Gen. Hooker had fallen back, the enemy advanced their scouts with two field-pieces, and opened a brisk fire upon his rear, along the line of the railroad. Gen. Meagher's Brigade made a movement on both the enemy's flanks, while the 88th New York charged in front, and captured two of their guns. The enemy then fell back under cover of the wood. None were killed in Hooker's Division. In the Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania three were wounded; the First Massachusetts lost two prisoners. One man lost both legs by a shell. Kearney's Divisions were the last off the field.

On the approach of the rebel force to Savage Station, where the hospital was established, a white flag was sent out, and it was met by a lieutenant-colonel of the Confederates, who gave assurance that the hospital should be respected.—There was no firing, purposely, in that direction, and if an occasional shell exploded near the house, it is believed to have been purely accidental.

About 125 rebel prisoners, who were captured on Friday, accompanied us under guard. On Sunday forenoon an advance body of our cavalry, who were reconnoitering in front, discovered a body of rebel cavalry near a small church, and after a sharp engagement put them to flight, killing a considerable number of horses, and capturing some twenty-five prisoners, who were added to the group already in hand.

Sedgwick's division left the front at daylight, and were engaged by the enemy half way to Savage Station, which they reached at five P. M. Here the enemy's infantry, with a battery, came out of the woods on the right, and attacked them.

Sedgwick's division crossed the bridge at White Oak Swamp about four o'clock A. M., Monday. His rear was not annoyed during the night.

Keyes' and Porter's Divisions had already preceded us on the march, and had reached a position on the James River, near Turkey Island, which is about ten or twelve mile above City Point.

The Engineer Brigade of Gen. Woodbury preceded the army, and constructed corduroy roads where they were necessary. At the Four-mile Creek, a bridge was built across the run. At the White Oak Swamp Creek two bridges were also constructed by the same valuable corps. One for the passage of the main army train, and the other to accommodate Gen. Heintzelman's Division, who, with Hooker and Richardson, covered the retreat.

DESTRUCTION OF THE BRIDGES.

As the army resumed its march on Monday morning, information was received, through Gen. Richardson, that the enemy were pursuing, and orders were given to destroy the bridges.

The Engineer Corps was detailed for this duty, and also to defend the approach to the place. A wide space of trees had been felled across the creek, and the brigade was deployed as skirmishers at the right and left of the passage. Ayres' battery of six guns was also left to hold the position, and was stationed on the hill overlooking the swamp.

HOW THE RETREAT WAS CONDUCTED.

The retreat was conducted in the most perfect order. There was no trepidation or haste; no smashing up of wagons by careless or fast driving, and not a single accident of any consequence is believed to have occurred. A drove of 2,500 fat cattle, under the charge of Col. Clark, Chief Commissary, and Captain E. M. Buchanan, Commissary of Subsistence on Gen. McClellan's staff, were successfully driven along. They had been brought up from the White House, and narrowly escaped stampeding by the rebels.

The country through which we passed contained some of the finest farming lands I had seen in Virginia. Broad farms, with well grown crops of oats and wheat, were passed along the roads, in which the horses and cattle found abundant forage. The forage of the army had all been consumed the day before, thus relieving the train of an immense burden. Instead of the expected swamps and impassible roads we found well-traveled country roads in excellent condition, along which the immense artillery and wagon train passed with the greatest ease. After approaching within about five miles of the river, the train was divided, part being sent by each of three roads which converged near the landing. An occasional halt was ordered, to enable the advance to examine the roads and woods in front for a concealed force or masked batteries, but nothing of the kind interrupted our progress. A teamster or some mischevious person would occasionally report that we were attacked in front, which would produce a temporary scare, but beyond this, nothing delayed the movement. The soldiers regarded it as the carrying out of part of a necessary plan—the only dissatisfaction expressed being at the leaving behind of so many of the sick and wounded.

Plenty of provisions and medicines were left for them, however, and if they are permitted to use them, their situation for some time to come will be much better there than with the army in the midst of conflict and alarm.

CARE OF THE SICK AND WOUNDED.

At Savage's Station the Government had made arrangements for the sick and wounded as they were brought from the field. It was under the care of Dr. John Swinburne. Dr. Brunot, of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, arrived on Monday with a corps of surgeons and nurses. How many of these remained with the patients I am not able to state. There is a report that a larger part of them ran away when the army left. It was certainly a severe test of their philanthropy to be left in rebel hands. The demand for nursing and surgical attendance was so great that large numbers were obliged to wait four long hours before their cases could be reached. As a rule, the worst cases were attended to first, but there were and have been a great many who never received attentions at all. The entire area in the back and on both sides of the house was covered with the wounded, and there were also some twenty large tents pitched in the garden east of the house, filled with sick and wounded. The stores for Mrs. Harris, the benevolent lady who, assisted by Mrs. Sampson, is devoting herself to the sick, were delayed at White House, and if they reached Savages at all, it is doubtful whether the good things were not appropriated by the rebels as soon as they got possession of the place.

Many poor fellows who were scarcely able to drag themselves along, clung to the skirts of their comrades, or hobbled on crutches, apparently dreading more than death itself, falling into the hands of the rebels. Many became so exhausted that they fell by the wayside, and could only be roused and helped forward by the greatest exertion.

THE APPROACH TO JAMES RIVER.

When an aid of Gen. McClellan rode back and reported that the way was all open to James River, a thrill of relief ran through the whole line, and the sight of the green fields skirting its banks was indeed an oasis in the terrible desert of suspense and apprehension through which they had passed. The teams were now put upon a lively trot in order to relieve the pressure upon that portion still in the rear.

General McClellan and staff rode ahead and took possession of the old estate known as Malvern Hills, owned by B. F. Dew, one mile back from Turkey Island Bend. It is a large, old fashioned estate, originally built by the French, and has near it, in front, an old earthwork constructed by General Washington during the Revolucionary war. It has a spacious yard shaded by venerable elms and other trees. A fine view of the river can be had from this elevated position. General McClellan expresses the opinion that with a brief time to prepare, the position could be held against any force the enemy can bring against us.

Exhausted by long watching and fatigue, and covered thickly with the dust of the road over which we had passed, many of the officers threw themselves upon the shady and grassy lawn to rest. The soldiers also attracted by the shady trees, surrounded the house, or bivouacked in the fields near by.

THE FIRE IN OUR REAR.

At 2 o'clock P. M. firing was heard in the direction of White Oak Swamp, where it was supposed Ayres was holding in check the rebel force who were attempting to cross. This continued for nearly two hours, when sudden and heavy firing began further to the left, in the direction of Charles City Cross Roads. At this point an immense body of fresh troops, with artillery and cavalry, had made their appearance direct from Richmond, and were engaging our batteries still left to guard the road.

Orders were sent immediately to put the troops in line of battle; and Generals Porter's and Keyes' commands were soon on the way up the hill, returning from their comfortable encampment beyond Malvern Hills. By 4 1-2 o'clock P. M. the road was thronged with these troops, with artillery and cavalry, hastening to resist the advance of the enemy.

Firing now became more rapid, and was evidently approaching our line. The roar of the cannon was incessant, and the dust of the contest swept upward and whirled in eddying clouds above the forest trees, which concealed friend and foe from view.

Members of the staff and messengers hurriedly mounted and rode to fro with important orders to the commanding officers. The wagons were drawn up on the right of the field as a kind of temporary breastwork, and the troops were disposed in line of battle at the westward, from which direction the enemy were advancing.

THE GUNBOATS BROUGHT INTO ACTION.

The firing now became incessant, the explosion of shell constant and the most terrific from both lines, and the roar of musketry, mingled with the shouts and cheers of the contending forces.

At this juncture two of our gunboats, the Galena and Arostook moved forward some half a mile and opened fire upon the left with their 54-pounders, the shells exploding in the edge of the woods along the line of hills where it was supposed the enemy would attempt to turn our left. No doubt these terrific missiles had an excellent effect in deterring them from this enterprise, and in retarding their advance. In so long a range there was danger that some of our own men might be hit, and a signal station was established on the top of an old house overlooking the field, and also commanding a view of the river. The firing from the Galena was directed in front by these signals. The Jacob Bell and Aroostook fired several shells during the last part of the battle.

During the evening, and while the fight was going on, crowds of dusty men rushed down to the river, and plunged in to bathe. Considering the circumstances of the army, this was hardly the time to adjust one's toilet.

Meantime the contest raged with terrible fury along the whole front and right. Exploding shells filled the air, and rifled shot screamed overhead. So thick was the cloud of dust enveloping the field, it was impossible, except from the sound, to determine which way the tide of battle ebbed and flowed. The gunboats kept up a discharge of their heavy shells upon the enemy's position. Provost-Marshal Porter meantime took charge of the disabled and sick soldiers, and conducted them to the rear. A large number of stragglers filled the road, who seemed to have business in an opposite direction from that in which the enemy was coming.

The Prince De Joinville, with the Duke De Chartres and the Count De Paris, took charge of dispatches for the Government, and Gen. McClellan accompanied them as far as the gunboat Jacob Bell, on board of which he bade them a final adieu toward evening. The crew manned the rigging and cheered as the General returned to headquarters.

The day's contest wound up by a diminuendo of musketry, and by dark all firing, except an occasional shot, had ceased. It was too late to obtain any list of killed and wounded, or in fact to learn definitely the result of the fight. The Jacob Bell went down to City Point ordering up the Southfield, and all the other vessels lying below.

It should be borne in mind that the wide bottoms along the river separate the gunboats in many places, some two miles from the forces operating on the hills.

Gen. Fremont's Retirement from Command.

A Washington correspondent of the New York Times gives the following good reason for Gen. Fremonts action in asking to be relieved from duty under Gen. Pope:

First—General Fremont is a Major General of the regular army. While in command of the Western Department, Brig. Gen. Pope served under him in course, in delaying to bring rapidly forward his troops, annoyed Gen. Fremont, and interfered with the carrying out of certain plans, thereby subjecting General Pope to the displeasure of his superior.

Without concealment, Gen. Pope manifested his dislike of Fremont, his disapproval of his progressive views, and his policy gennerally, and when it was announced that Gen. Hunter was to succeed him, he, in the presence of several officers, clapped their hands, and indicated his gratification at the fact.

Secondly—General Fremont has had but about nine thousand effective men. He was sent to the Mountain Department at a time when but little was doing there. Very shortly after he assumed command matters grew thicker, and work became warmer. General Banks was compelled to retreat, and General Fremont was ordered to pursue Jackson. That he did it, and how he did it, are matters of record. The failure on the part of General Shields to burn the bridges across which Jackson, in his retreat, was to pass, saved the lucky rebel, and defeated Fremont's further victory.

With Jackson's reinforced army threatening him, with his supplies far in his rear, with General Shields' force ordered to Richmond by the President, with Banks and Sigel where they could, by no possibility, aid him, and with his own little army in need of rest, he retreated. The President telegraphed him to pursue Jackson no further, but to make a stand at Harrisonburg (which was on no line of defense), and hold it. Gen. Fremont, in the meantime, seeing the absurdity of three small commands like his own and those of Banks and Sigel standing separate, coincided with the views of Banks and Sigel and fell back to Mount Jackson, where a junction was effected—a movement which was previously suggested by him to the President.

As senior officer, by military law, Gen. Fremont was then in command of the entire corps; but Mr. Stanton telegraphed him expressly that with the other commands he was to have nothing to do. Gen. Sigel insisted upon considering himself under Fremont, and Gen. Banks told his officers, in council assembled, that in case of a battle, they were to consider themselves as responsible to the senior Major General.

Gen. Fremont telegraphed the President that his men needed rest; that the Surgeon General of his command had reported officially that his men must have better diet; that he had taken a fair position; that his men were doing well, and that by the end of ten days he would have gathered in from all quarters his convalescents, and that the number of effective men would be 30,000—well supplied with artillery and ready for any work.

Upon this came the order placing Gen. Pope—a junior officer, a pro-slavery man, a rebuked subordinate—over him, over Major General Banks and over Major General Sigel.

Gen. Fremont could with no self respect remain at his post. Had he done so, what warrant had he for supposing that to be his last official degredation? With the unanimous concurrence of his officers, of General Banks and Sigel, he asked to be relieved, and asked in such terms that the President saw fit to grant it.

The President has within a few days expressed himself most strongly and warmly in Gen. Fremont's praise, while on the other hand, it is stated that he has as warmly condemned him. With the latter report I have nothing to do, because I know nothing of it—of the former I am well assured.

Over Maj. Gen. Fremont is placed a former subordinate, an inferior in rank, an unconceaded enemy, a pro-slavery man—and that, too, as an Administrative recognition of the service done in the Valley. Of course Fremont simply requested that he might be sent to another field of action—in other words, he asked to be relieved, and reported for further orders. His friends should be satisfied with—yes, proud of his last campaign—and as one of them I put on record the fact that when he left his command he notified the President that they needed ten days' rest, and then they would be ready for service, good and active.

MARRIED.

On the 29th instant, at the residence of the bride's father, Utica, N. Y., by Rev. Chas. Knox, DELANO T. SMITH, Esq., of this city, to Miss METTIE A. PALMER, of Utica.

The National Republican, from which we take the above, has the following notice of the interesting event:

SENSIBLE TO THE LAST.—Hon. Delano T. Smith, formerly from Minnesota, and now the capable and popular Chief Clerk of the Third Auditor's office of the Treasury, has captivated one of the fairest of the fair New Yorkers, and, we learn, returned hither, and taken rooms in Franklin Square. It is expected that he will accept, with composure, the responsibilities and emolument of this matrimonial promotion.

The numerous friends of Mr. Smith in Minnesota congratulate him upon this honorable promotion, as the Republican terms it. The writer here of especially commends Mr. Smith's good judgment in his choice of locality for the selection of a wife.

SALE OF SCHOOL LANDS.

NOTICE is hereby given that in compliance with Section 46 of an act entitled "an act to establish the State Land Office, and for other purposes," approved March 20, 1862, appraisers have been appointed, and will appraise the school lands in the following counties, viz:

ANOKA,	McLEOD,
BLUE EARTH,	MOWER,
BROWN,	NICOLLET,
CARVER,	OLMSTED,
DAKOTA,	RAMSEY,
DODGE,	RICE,
FILLMORE,	SCOTT,
FREEBORN,	STEARNS,
GOODHUE,	STEELE,
HENNEPIN,	WABASHAW,
HOUSTON,	WASECA,
LE SUEUR,	WASHINGTON,
	WINONA.

All lands appraised at or above five dollars per acre will be offered for sale at public auction at the county seat of each county on or before the first day of November next, further notice of which will be given.

Fifteen per cent. of the purchase money and interest to June 1st, 1863, will be required on prairie lands, and seventy-five per cent. and interest on timber lands, the balance of the purchase money with interest at 7 per cent. will be payable any time within twenty years, at the option of the purchaser.

No lands will be sold for less than five dollars per acre, nor less than their appraised value.

The aggregate amount of land offered will be upwards of SEVENTY-FIVE THOUSAND ACRES, comprising the best farming and timber lands in the State, and located in the most densely settled counties, their aggregate population in 1860 being upwards of 157,000.

All settlers occupying lands valued at less than five dollars per acre will be required to lease the same according to law.

State Land Office, St. Paul, Minn., July 4, 1862.

CHARLES McILRATH,
Commissioner.

SAINT PAUL, July 2d, 1862.

The undersigned will receive sealed proposals at his office in Saint Paul, Minnesota, until 12 o'clock M. on the 16th day of July, for furnishing and delivering, at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, complete rations for United States troops, prisoners of war, and to any other persons subsisted in like manner by the Government, to be sent there.

The ration consists as follows: Three-fourths of a pound of pork or bacon, or one and a fourth pounds of fresh or salt beef; twenty-two ounces of bread or flour, or one pound of hard bread, or one and a fourth pounds of corn meal; and at the rate to every one hundred rations, of eight quarts of beans or peas, and ten pounds of rice or hominy; ten pounds of green coffee, or eight pounds of roasted and ground coffee, or one and a half pounds of tea; fifteen pounds of sugar; four quarts of vinegar; one pound of sperm candles, or one and a fourth pounds of adamantine candles, or one and a half pounds of tallow candles; four pounds of soap, and two quarts of salt.

In addition to the foregoing, there is allowed twice per week one gallon of molasses per one hundred rations, and thrice per week, if practicable, an issue of potatoes, at the rate of one pound per man. When beans, peas, rice, hominy, or potatoes cannot be issued in the proportions given above, an equivalent in value shall be issued in some other proper food. Desiccated potatoes, or desiccated mixed vegetables, at the rate, per one hundred rations, of one hundred and fifty ounces of the former, or one hundred ounces of the latter, may be substituted for beans, peas, rice, hominy, or fresh potatoes, when these articles cannot be issued; or, upon the requisition of the proper officer, and when the supply on hand will admit of it, they may be issued at the foregoing rate, twice per week in lieu of beans or peas, or in lieu of rice or hominy. Fresh beef may be issued as often as the commanding officer of any detachment or regiment may require it, when practicable, in place of salt meat.

The Acting Commissary reserves to himself the right to diminish or increase the number of rations required, whenever the interests of the government demand it.

The contract will extend to, and include the 31st day of December, 1862.

Bidders can be present at the opening of the bids.

T. M. SAUNDERS,
Captain Third Artillery,
Acting Com. Subsistence U. S. A.

A Skirmish in which we Capture six guns and some Prisoners.

McClellan Advances 5 Miles Towards Richmond.

RICHMOND PAPERS CONFESS A LOSS OF 30,000.

NEW YORK, July 7.

A letter to the Post confirms the report of a skirmish on Thursday and capture of six guns and some prisoners. General McClellan had removed his headquarters and army, and had advanced five miles towards Richmond.

The correspondent of Philadelphia Inquirer states that Richmond papers of the 4th acknowledge a loss of 30,000 men, though they claim a victory. The correspondent of the Philadelphia Press of the same date states that McClellan is pushing rapidly forward, driving the enemy at all points. The gunboats accompanied his advance, shelling the woods and scattering the enemy, his main force following.

The Enemy Try to get Below McClellan on James River.

The Tribune correspondent says at noon Thursday enemy appeared in force four miles from McClellan's front and began shelling, but had no great effect. Reported enemy in great force on east side of the Chickahominy and threaten McClellan's right wing. What rebels are about on south side of James river, is not known, but it is feared that on one side or other they will erect batteries to command navigation below our position.

CANAL CUT AROUND VICKSBURG.

The Negroes at Work at Last.

Vicksburg to be Stormed the Fourth.

MEMPHIS, July 6.

Vicksburg dates to July, says that two canals across the point of land opposite Vicksburg are nearly completed. Negro workmen have been collected from various plantations, and Government receipts given for labor. The bombardment has kept up regular intervals from both fleets, and it was believed that the rebel works would be stormed the 4th of July. There is every reason to believe that the city has already fallen.

The Skirmish of Last Thursday.

We Capture 1,000 Prisoners and Three Batteries.

And drive the Enemy Across White Oak Swamp.

FORTRESS MONROE, July 5.

Troops arrived here from Washington yesterday during the day and went up James river on the evening of the 4th. Four small steamers with four barges in tow arrived here this morning, loaded with artillery, men, horses, &c., doubtless bound up the river.

A skirmish took place yesterday morning near our left wing, which resulted in the defeat of the rebels. We took one thousand rebel prisoners and three small batteries. Our cavalry then followed them till they passed White Oak Swamp.

Great difficulty exists in obtaining a list of the killed in our late battles, as comparatively few cases exist where any one can tell whether the missing were killed, wounded or taken prisoners.

For the last two days the rebels have shown but little disposition to fight, and yesterday relinquished their ground and batteries almost without resistance.

The Daniel Webster will probably take her wounded to New York, and leave this port to-night.

The S. R. Spaulding arrived here this morning from Harrison's Landing, with 500 sick and wounded soldiers; they will also leave for New York to-day.

A rebel gunboat was captured yesterday up the James river, and brought down to Harrison's Landing. It was completely riddled with ball holes.

Return of Escaped Prisoners.

No More Furloughs to be Granted

All Furloughed Prisoners Ordered to Report Immediately for Duty.

WASHINGTON, July 6.

Five lieutenants and two sergeants, who were taken prisoners at the battle of Shiloh, escaped from Macon, Georgia, and arrived here to-day,—all Iowa men.

No more furloughs will be granted to returned prisoners. All furloughs heretofore given them are hereby revoked. Such prisoners will immediately repair, if belonging to the New England and Middle State regiments, to the Camp of Instruction at Indianapolis; and those of Michigan, Virginia, Tennessee, Ohio and Kentucky to Camp Chase, near Columbus; and those of Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri to camp near Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, and report for such duty compatible with their parole as may be assigned them by the commanding officer.

FROM NEW MEXICO.

Permission Refused Texans to Pass Through Chihuahua.

KANSAS CITY, July 5.

It is stated that the Texans had sent commissioners to the State of Chihuahua to obtain permission from the Mexican authorities to pass through that State to Texas, which permission was not granted.

This refusal on the part of the Mexican authorities will doubtless delay the Texans in Arizona longer than they otherwise would have stayed.

Foreign News.

ST. JOHNS, July 7.

The Europa from Liverpool 29th, via Queenstown 29th, passed Cape Race at 12 o'clock last Sunday night. She was boarded by the Associated Press news yacht, and a summary of her news obtained. The advices per the Europa are two days later than those by the Kangaroo. Receipt of Persia's news in Liverpool caused increased excitement in the cotton market, and an advance in prices. The London Times says in regard to the war in America, the news shows that nothing much can be expected before the fall, but it hopes means will be devised before that time to put an end to the conflict.

The French Chambers had adjourned. There were rumors that the Emperor Napoleon was reconsidering the principles of the next Mexican Expedition and that the embarkation of the French troops was provisionally suspended.

General News.

—The three Orleans Princes—Prince de Joinville, Count de Paris, and Duc de Chartres—arrived at Washington on the 2d inst., en route for Boston and Europe. They return to Europe after a campaign of a number of months, in which they have had no opportunity to earn personal distinction. Speculations in diplomatic matters try to see special significance in theitr sudden departure. Some think it was occasioned by a friendly hint from Queen Victoria, who is a stanch friend of the Orleans family, that they ought to come home before they become involved in a false position, which threatening events might possibly place them.

—Gen. Benham, who was responsible for the failure of the advance on Charleston, was made Brigadier General of volunteers on the 13th of August. He was born and appointed from Connecticut. He was, at the time of his promotion, a Major of Engineers in the regular army, and entered the service as brevet Second Lieutenant July 1, 1836.

—C. C. Lathrop has resigned the appointment as Collector of New Orleans to which he was some weeks ago commissioned.

—It is reported that ex-Secretary Camero . is said to be the "distinguished official functionary," who recently accosted John Slidell in the streets of Paris, and entered into conversation with him, although the rebel envoy sought to avoid his notice.

—The farmers in all the counties of Southern Illinois are now busy harvesting their wheat. The yield is excellent and the quality good.

—George Francis Train refuses to pay the fine of £500 which was imposed upon him at the Kingston Assizes for obstructing the highway with his horse railway. He protests, as a foreigner, that he has been sentenced without a trial.

—The English papers that sympathize with the South, and that tried to raise a public clamor because of the stone blockade in Charleston harbor, do not seem to have heard a word about the rebel obstructions of James river. It is their neighbor's ox that has been gored this time. It is stated that do less than thirty-three vessels, including the Yorktown and Jamestown, have been sunk in James river, and the space between them have been filled in with rocks and other material.

At eight o'clock last evening Mrs. Elvina Ellet, wife of the late Colonel Ellet, died at her residence in this city, in the forty-sixth year of her age. She was the daughter of the late Judge Daniel, of Virginia, and brother of the present Judge Daniel, on the same bench. She has had four children, all of whom are now living. She was present at the death of her husband, in Cairo, Illinois, and came to this city with his remains. Her death has resulted from no disease, being mainly from pure exhaustion and grief.

—Thurlow Weed in his paper denies the report that George Peabody, the celebrated London banker, sympathizes with the rebels. He says:

"We know Mr. Peabody well. He loves his country devotedly, and as an American merchant abroad has represented it faithfully and honorably. It has ever been his highest source of pride to avow himself an American. So truly does he love the Union, that if a million dollars would restore it as it existed, in its palmy days, he would draw his check for that amount joyfully."

—The State of Maryland has the high honor of being the first State in the Union to pay its proportion of the national direct tax. Secretary Chase has addressed a complimentary letter to the State Treasurer acknowledging the receipt of the money, and expressing his gratification on seeing Maryland now, like Maryland in the days of the old line, coming forward, with purse and sword, to the defense of the American Union.

—Colonel B. Gratz Brown has written an interesting letter, stating, as the result of recent investigation, that Missouri, which in 1860 contained one hundred and four thousand slaves, now has little if any more than fifty thousand. In eleven counties where Price and McCulloch so long held sway, only three hundred and sixty-one are now left, out of two thousand seven hundred and eighty-four in 1860. The counties along the Kansas border, which in 1860 had eleven thousand one hundred and twenty-nine, now have scarcely one hundred remaining.

—Gen. Fitz John Porter, whose division bore the brunt of the hard fighting in McClellan's army the other day, who commanded on the right wing, which the rebels attempted to turn, and who successfully accomplished all that was assigned them to do, deserves the highest honor which the government can bestow upon him. He has trebly achieved what would have doubled the stars on any other officer's shoulder straps. His division, when in front of Washington, was the best in the army, and was so pronounced by Gen. McClellan. Its conduct since has proved the excellence of its training.

—A rebel prisoner was shot at Camp Douglas, Chicago, on Friday night, while attempting to escape. He was fired at while scaling the fence, but escaped uninjured. Subsequently, while running across a garden lot in that vicinity, he was again fired at, and fell pierced by half a dozen bullets.

—In explanation of the conduct of General Fremont in refusing to serve under General Pope, it may be worth while to mention that Pope served under Fremont in Missouri, and that it is no secret they disliked each other extremely.

—If slavery were abolished in the Cotton States, every colored man would leave the North within twelve months and migrate to the South. The blacks stay in these cold regions because they have not been allowed to go South and be free. Give them freedom in the Cotton States and they will disappear from this side of Mason and Dixon's line.

—It is stated that no less than thirty-three vessels, including the Yorktown and Jamestown, have been sunk in James river, and that the spaces between them have been filled in with rocks and other material. What will the easily horrified Britishers say to this mode of obstructing navigation?

—The iron-clad frigate Warrior (British) has made another trial and another failure. The Arabia's mails bring the particulars of the event, and apologize for the ill fortune of the ship, by stating that she was in bad trim, that her bottom was fouled, that heavy rain was falling, and the wind blowing, not to mention other drawbacks which are classed under the head of "minor disadvantages." New pipes have been fitted for conveying from the main deck to the bilges the leakage which might enter the ports when fighting the guns in heavy weather. Some seventy tons of brick and mortar have been built into the bottom of the ship, to prevent the lodgment and consequent stagnation of bilge water.

From British America.

We have received the Nor'-Wester of June 11th from which we clip the following:

OFF TO THE GOLD REGIONS.

Besides the 200 foreigners who have passed through the Settlement en route to the Saskatchewan and British Columbia mines, several of our own settlers are starting, viz.: George Flett, George Gunn, John Atkinson, George Sutherland, Hector McBeath, Donaldson Matheson, and some others. These last left home yesterday. A safe, pleasant, and profitable journey to them all.

A letter written in Liverpool on Saturday, May 10th was received here on Saturday, June 7th, in exactly 28 days. This we believe to be the quickest mail which has yet reached the Settlement.

THE MINES.

It is no longer a mere dream or conjecture that the Red River will see a immigrating mining population: the reality has burst astonishingly upon the old fashioned and old-noticed of every species. Yes! it is a great fact, an unquestionable reality that 200 men have come and gone —come from Canada and the States, and passed on westward to the Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

When the "International" came steaming down to Fort Garry, the other day, great was the excitement, and—no matter about reasons—great was the rejoicing. Some no doubt were moved by the size and finish of the boat, others by the mere rareness or novelty of the occasion, and others, for similarly weighty reasons. But the observant man must have been gratified, first, because he saw a steamboat before him—an emblem of progress, at once the cause and effect of commercial prosperity—and, secondly, because he saw men on board, who were pioneers in a route which will be of incalculable value to this country. Should gold be discovered in paying quantities east of the Rocky Mountains, we shall at once emerge from our shell, and enter on the race-course of civilization; but even without such a powerful stimulus at our door, so long as the British Columbia mines pay, this route must be as popular as any other to the gold-fields, and we shall derive the benefit of the overland travel. If the English Company, moreover, really establish means of travel and communication across the continent, our prospect will be still brighter.

It might be satisfactory to intending miners to be told what the policy of the Hudson's Bay Company towards them would be. Judging from the course they have pursued towards the first party, we should say they will render all the assistance in their power, to miners. The Company acted very honorably with those who have just left the Settlement, by supplying them at reasonable prices with all necessaries for their journey. Of course the miners paid for all they got; but, even then, the boon was considerable, for had the miners been left to the tender mercies of the settlers, there might have been nice picking and shaving.

Gen. Benham Under Arrest.

From the New York Commercial Advertiser.

General Benham, who commanded the Federal troops in the engagement at James Island, has returned to this city in the Ericsson under arrest.

General Benham was arrested on the evening of the 19th inst., by direction of General Hunter, for disobedience of orders. The attack on James Island was not made at the time appointed by Gen. Hunter.

The position occupied by the rebels was one which could be strongly fortified in a short time, and General Hunter was desirous of driving them from it before they had made it impregnable.

The country was mostly marshes and thick underwood. For a week before the battle was fought the rebels kept up an almost constant shelling of the Union camp.

General Benham exhonorates himself by stating that he was acting under general orders to throw up entrenchments, and the members of his staff knew nothing whatever of explicit orders having been issued.

General Benham is at his residence in Seventeenth street, in this city. He was ordered to report to the military authorities here, and will probably proceed to Washington in a few days, for the purpose of having his case attended to at the earliest moment.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF GEN. STANLEY.

CAMP AT BOONVILLE, June 5th, 1862.

MAJOR:—I have the honor to report for the information of the General commanding, that at 10 o'clock A. M., the morning of the 28th of May, I moved my Division, consisting of the Brigades of Generals Plummer and Tyler, directly to our front, in advance of our entrenchments at Farmington. One mile from our front we drove the enemy's pickets and occupied the ground at the White House on the creek, near the enemy's entrenchments at Corinth—the first line was occupied by the brigade of Gen. Plummer, the second by that of Gen. Tyler. Our batteries were sent forward to engage the entrenched batteries of the enemy on our left, but shortly finding they effected little, their fire was ordered to be discontinued. The brigades were then ordered to entrench, and two 20-pound parrotts under charge of Capt. Williams commanding a detachment of the First Infantry went forward to a point near the White House to establish a battery. About 3 o'clock P. M., the enemy drove in our pickets and soon after appeared in force on our right flank and front, some of the men of the Fifth Minnesota Regiment broke, but encouraged by the brave example of their gallant Col., Von Borgersrode, soon returned into line. Maurice's battery was almost overthrown by the galling and close musketry of the enemy. Unfortunately Capt. Dees, a gallant officer had fallen by sun stroke, and the battery falling into the hands of Lieutenant Lambery, did no service during the action: one private, Watson, of this battery was mortally wounded. I directed Capt. Spoor, of the Second Iowa battery, to fire canister and spherical case on the advancing enemy, and I must here testify to this gallant and important service of this officer and his battery. Seeing matters becoming critical, and fearing the loss of two of Maurice's guns, I sent an order for Gen. Tyler to support him with his whole brigade, but before the order reached him the matter was decided by the prompt and soldierlike action of Col. Murphy, of the Eighth Wisconsin regiment—a regiment I would commend to the attention of the General Commanding—concealing themselves under a crest they moved close to the advancing mass of the enemy, who were flustered with success in compelling the desertion of two of our guns, and within fifty yards poured in such a volley as cleared the enemy from the open ground, and sent the survivors flying. To cover this was the end of their attack and their annoyance.

Unfortunately, through mistake, the left division of Gen. Buell's army fired some shell into my division during the engagement.

I cannot close without acknowledging the services rendered by Brig. Generals Plummer, and Tyler; Col. Murphy, of 8th Wisconsin; Mower, of 11th Missouri; Loomis, of 26th Illinois, and Captain Spoor, 2d (division) battery.

To my Staff, Major Colman and Lieutenants How and Scridair, I am indebted for valuable aid.

Enclosed please find reports of brigades, regiments and batteries.

[Signed,] I am very respectfully
Your obedient Servant,
D. S. STANLEY,
Brig. Gen. Commanding 2d Division.

Major SPEED BUTLER,
A. A. Gen. Army, Miss.

Joseph R. Brown's Steam Wagon.

Most of our readers have heard of Joseph R. Brown's steam wagon, which lies on the prairie somewhere between Henderson and Fort Ridgley. That first experiment was a failure. But a man of Joseph the Juggler's irrepressible enterprise would never "give it up so Mr. Brown," and for the last six months he has been in New York superintending a new steam wagon, of improved construction, being much lighter than the first. The result is thus noticed by the Scientific American of the 21st of June:

On the 27th inst. General J. R. Brown, of Minnesota, forwarded by the New Jersey railroad, for the west, a peculiar steam wagon. It was built by Mr. John A. Reed, No. 63 Liberty street, New York city, and is intended to be used in the transportation of freight from Omaha to Denver City in Kansas. It is propelled by four engines of ten-horse power each. The driving wheels are ten feet in diameter, and they have a tread of eighteen inches in width. The steering wheels are six feet in diameter and twelve inches broad in the face.

Ample provision is made for carrying wood and water sufficient to run the engines twenty-four hours. From the tests that have been made, the wagon has been proved capable of hauling eight tons of freight at the rate of four miles per hour, or of being propelled at the rate of six miles per hour with one or two tons behind it. In an experiment in ascending Bergen Hill, New Jersey, (which is equal to six hundred feet per mile), it moved steadily at the rate of four miles per hour without any perceptible diminution of steam. An engineer, fireman and steersman are required in operating the machine, and the consumption of fuel will be equal to one cord of wood in eight hours. The owner and the wagon, as well as the engineers and others who have witnessed the trials of its speed and the adaptation of the machinery, have the fullest confidence in its success. They believe it capable of hauling ten tons of freight at the rate of eighty to one hundred miles in the twenty-four hours, over a common road.

This enterprise is one of great importance, and we shall watch its development with deep interest. If steam can be successfully used for the transportation of freight and passengers over our Western prairies, it will have an important bearing upon the interests east of the Sierra Nevada range, and will materrially promote the settlement of western lands.

RICHMOND.—For the past twelve months the city of Richmond has, beyond any city on the globe, been the center of intense interest. It was founded one hundred and twenty years ago. It became the State Capital of Virginia in 1799, and in June of last year was made the Capital of the Southern Confederacy, and on the 20th of July the rebel Congress first flaunted their treason there. In 1860 it had a population of thirty-eight thousand.

—The Richmond Examiner says bayonet wounds in this war, on the Confederate side, are very rare. No doubt they are, but how would it be if it were not for that interesting rebel institution, known as the skekaddle?

The Boston Post says theologians pulpit politicians, &c., are divided as to whether Henry Ward Beecher is a better judge of fast horses than of the art of playing billiards.

HOME.

More than building showy mansions,
More than dress and fine array,
More than domes of lofty steeples,
More than station, power and sway—
Make your home both neat and tasteful,
Bright and pleasant, always fair,
Where each heart shall rest contented,
Grateful for each beauty there.

More than lofty swelling titles,
More than fashion's lurid glare,
More than Mammon's gilded honors,
More than thoughts can well compare—
See that home is made attractive
By surroundings pure and bright;
Trees, arranged with taste and order,
Flowers, with all their sweet delight.

Seek to make your home most lovely—
Let it be a similar spot,
Where no sweet contentment resting,
Care and sorrow are forgot.
Where the flowers and trees are waving,
Birds will sing their sweetest song;
Where the purest thought will linger,
Confidence and love belong.

There each heart will rest contented,
Seldom wishing far to roam,
Or, if roaming, still will cherish
Memories of that pleasant home.
Such a home makes man the better;
Pure and lasting its control;
Home, with pure and bright surroundings,
Leaves its impress on the soul.

Miscellany.

—Gen. Lee's contrabands met on the street after old massa and missus had run off, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Well, Sambo, does yer tink de niggers kin skiff for demselves, an' de Lord will take care ob us?"

Sambo—"Lor' bress you, Sam, de Lor' don't mind de niggers, nohow; but don't de good book say de Lor' take care of de sparrow, what ain't worf mor'n a farthing?"

Sam—"Yes, I guess it do; but—"

Sambo—"Well, den, if de good master take care of de sparrow, what's only worf a farthing, guess he takes care of a nigger worf $1,200, sartin."

Sam—"Dat's so, Sambo, didn't tink of dat scripter. Guess you'll make a good preacher. Come, let's trabel on de strength of dat text."—Columbus Journal.

—J. B. DeBow, agent for the Confederate produce loan, informs the planters of Louisiana and Mississippi that those desiring to subscribe their crops can do so, at a fair valuation, for eight per cent. Confederate bonds.

—Much has been said on both sides of the Atlantic as to the seaworthiness of the British mail-clad steamer Warrior. The following from the London Daily News, of the 21st ult., shows that at least she has some very serious defects:

"A number of sailors paid off at Plymouth have gone to their homes at Queenstown and the surrounding localities by this ship. They represent her as a most uncomfortable vessel at sea in bad weather. She not only ships seas fast, but leaks copiously through her ports, and leaves scarcely a dry article to the to the men on the main deck."

If the Monitor got a shot an this clumsy craft it would either make her leak faster or else "dry up."

—Benjamin J. Lossing, the historian, states that the White House on the Pamunky, which was burned on the retreat of the right wing of McClellan's army, was not the one which sheltered Washington during his moneymoon, as has been alleged, nor does the estate belong to the rebel General Lee. This mansion, he says, possessed no more claim to our reverence than any other one belonging to a rebel family on the peninsula. The facts of the case are thus stated by Mr. Lossing:

"The 'White House' where Washington resided with his bride (the owner) during the first few weeks of his married life was demolished many years ago, and the late building, somewhat different in its form, was erected upon its site. This estate, as well as that of Arlington, near Washington city, was the property of G. W. P. Custis, grandson of Mrs. Washington. Mary Custis, wife of the rebel General Lee, is the sole heir of Mr. Custis, and all his property will remain in her possession, according to the provisions of his will, during her natural life, and then become the patrimony of her children. One of her sons, formerly an officer in the army of the United States, but now Colonel of a rebel regiment at Richmond, has, since his marriage in 1859, been the occupant of the White House and surrounding estate, the property of his mother. I repeat that the late White House was never seen by Washington, and that the estate is not the property of the rebel General Lee. Mr. Lee, his wife, is my authority for the assertion."

—The rebels have seized and confiscated $500,000,000 worth of property belonging to loyal men. They have had no constitutional scruples on the subject. No Senators in the rebel Congress are heard pleading against confiscating the effects of loyalists. No newspapers would be tolerated that advocated such a thing. The rebels are in downright earnest, and adopt all means in their power calculated to aid their cause. They never hesitate to do a thing lest it "exasperate" the feelings of the people of the North. They do not apologize before they strike and withhold their hand lest the blow may hurt the Federals. They never rob their pockets in order to spare ours. All is fish that comes to their nets; they play to win, and whenever our Government and people profit by the example they set us and imitate their earnestness, and resolve to employ all the legitimate means of warfare, the rebellion will be put down, but not before. The Federals have got to adopt a more vigorous and able-bodied policy before the Union is saved.—Chicago Tribune.

A DOUBLE MURDER.—We are pained to learn that two sons of Mr. Kennedy, of Lake Praire, in this county, have been murdered near Leavenworth, Kansas,—The brothers had enlisted in the service of the Government and at the time of their murder had been posted as guards on a mail route in that vicinity, and while discharging the duty assigned them were fired on and killed by some of the chivalrous ruffians from Missouri.

We suppose even horrid outrages like this must be pardoned if committed by our "misguided brothers" of the South, but there is a limit beyond which forbearance and cowardly attempts at conciliation will not go. Will the "Union as it was" call back the lives destroyed by the traitors, or wash out the blood of the North which has been given freely to restore that Union unimpaired? Are not the multitudes of similar cases as deserving of condemnation, as the imprisonment of suspected traitors? We hear much of President Lincoln's tyranny, but seldom any reference to the brutality of slaveholders as exhibited in numberless instances.—St. Peter Tribune.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches, &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

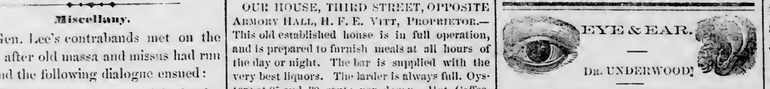
EYE & EAR.



DR. UNDERWOOD,

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $429,600, which shows an unparalelled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every two years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums above the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded five hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $820,906.33. The premium income of thirty of the smaller companies was $3,000,000 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,000,000.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the mass of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent corporation. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John Metiee, Secretary, those well-seasoned officers very justly say: "The well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, commend it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the crack company of our State, in high credit all over the Union, worked upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last summed up to $1,521,268.68, against an actual liability of only $35,000.15; and, moreover, it is worth noting that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $121,434.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bonds and mortgages $916,229.53, secured on real estate worth $1,715,900, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $329,635. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $405,715.48, taking $329,907 premium, and paid losses $253,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after expending an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "nett surplus" of $160,644 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from

THE CITY.

NEW POTATOES were in market yesterday, retailing at 35 cents a peck.

BLUEBERRIES are now pretty plenty on our streets, taking the place of strawberries. Price 10 to 12 1-2 cents per quart.

DEATH OF A STRANGER.—Daniel L. Dubois, of Newburgh, New York, died at the Winslow House, in this city, on Saturday afternoon last, after a short illness. The deceased was a gentleman of wealth, and had been in the State but a short time.

EQUALIZATION.—The County and City Boards of Equalization were in session yesterday, disposing of petitions for the abatement of taxes, in most cases granting the same, and thus bringing about the payment of a large amount of delinquent taxes. The Board will be in session again Saturday.

THE SUPREME COURT resumed its sitting yesterday, having adjourned over the Fourth. The entire calendar was gone through with, only fourteen cases having been disposed of. This morning will commence the peremptory call. Attorneys and others will therefore see the importance of prompt attention.

I. O. O. F.—There will be a meeting of the two Lodges of Odd Fellows this (Tuesday) evening, at the Hall, for the purpose of organizing the new or merged Lodge. It is expected that all the members of the two Lodges will be present, as business of considerable importance will be transacted.

POLICE ITEMS.—John Cassan was arrested for disorderly conduct, fined $5, and in default was sent to jail for one week.

Geo. Jackson and Wm. Calhoun, two colored gentlemen of highly respectable Southern connections, took a bit of a spree which cost them two-and-a-half apiece. And that's all there is about it.

INFANTICIDE.—Coroner Strother held on inquest yesterday morning on the body of an infant found in a soap box, with a stone in it, under the wheel of the steamer Favorite, lying at the lower landing. The box had evidently never moved after it was placed there, and it looked as though it might have lain there three or four days. Witnesses were summoned, but there was no evidence elicited touching the solution of the mystery, and the jury were compelled to render a verdict of death from causes unknown.

SALE OF SCHOOL LANDS.—We direct the attention of our readers to the sale of all school lands in this State appraised at over $5 per acre, which will take place in the principal counties of this State prior to November 1st. The notice is given thus early, in order to give parties who in some instances are now occupying portions of this land, to be prepared to purchase the same when the day of sale take place. For full of terms of sale, &c., see the advertisement of Commissioner McIrath, to be found in another column.

WE call attention to the advertisement of the Florence Sewing Maching Company. Regarding their machines, we clip the following from the Chicago Journal:

After carefully examining the machines of the "Florence Sewing Machine Co.," we can confidently assert that they are the best yet produced, possessing as they do the good qualities of others and doing away with their defects. They are simple, and can be easily understood by a novice; they are strong and finely finished; they are fast and still; they are the only machines in the world that have the reversible feed motion: they make four different stitches on one and the same machine; all of which can be made while the machine is in motion. With these and many other advantages of superiority, they must meet with a rapid sale, and gain for them a world wide reputation.

OUR BULL RUN PRISONERS.—The whole of the prisoners captured from the First Minnesota Regiment, have been paroled with the exception of Lieutenant Welch. Among those who have lately arrived in this city are:

—— Russell, Company G, residing near Northfield.

J. R. McNelly, of Company C, is on his way home, having stopped with some friends at Whitesboro', New York.

PERSONAL.—Hon. T. D. Smith, of Chaska, in this State, has been appointed Assistant Brigade Quartermaster of Volunteers, with the rank of Captain. Captain Smith returned from Washington yesterday, and is ordered to report himself at Fort Abercrombie.

R. R. Parry, Esq., of the late firm of Parry & Bro., bankers at Mankato, who has been residing at Philadelphia for the past year, was in town yesterday, en route for Mankato.

B. H. Randall, sutler at Fort Ridgley, is in town, stopping at the Winslow.

Mr. D. Sinclair, one of the editors of the Winona Republican, is in town, arranging for the temporary publication of that paper. He returns this morning.

HEAVY STORM.—The exceedingly hot weather of the last few days culminated on Sunday evening in the most heavy storm that has visited this city in many a day. The rain came down most refreshingly and copiously. Many of the street culverts were not of sufficient capacity to discharge the great volume of water so suddenly precipitated upon them, in consequence of which considerable damage has been done in different parts of the city, though as far as we have been able to find out, nothing of a serious character. The sewers on Roberts street and Broadway, and a culvert on College Avenue, received the most damage.

The trains on the Minnesota and Pacific Railroad were not running yesterday, in consequence of the washing over the track along Trout Brook. It is believed the track will not be sufficiently repaired to admit of their resumption till Thursday.

DR. T. R. POTTS is the City Physician for the present month. All applicants for relief will therefore apply to him.

M. DORNIDON has just received 100 half barrels and 50 quarter barrels of Walker's prime Cincinnati Cream Ale, with which he is prepared to supply his customers on the usual terms.

MERRILL has just received a variety of photographic albums. They are got up in the best of taste and style, and are for sale at prices to suit the times.

INDIAN PAYMENT. — Superintendent Thompson has just returned from paying off the Winnebago Indians, which he got through with last week. In a few days he expects to go to Red Wood and pay off the Sioux.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARY.—On Saturday night the dwelling house of G. G. Griswold on Eight street was attempted to be entered by some of the prowling burglars that seem now to be infesting the city. The fellow succeeded in getting open the shutters and was in the act of stepping into the bed-room where Mr. and Mrs. G. were sleeping, when he was discovered. Mr. G. gave chase, but the fellow succeeded in eluding pursuit.

FIRE IN ST. ANTHONY.—On Sunday forenoon a fire broke out in a stable belonging to Mr. Jones in the upper part of the town. The flames were so rapid that eight head of cattle perished before they could be moved from the stable. The fire then communicated to some out-houses, and then to the two story dwelling house belonging to Mr. Jones. The furniture in the house was mostly saved. The total loss is about $2,500. Insured for $800.

RIVER NEWS.—The arrivals since Sunday morning are as follows: The McLellan and Northern Belle from LaCrosse; Key City and Milwaukee from Dunleith; W. L. Ewing from St. Louis; Antelope from Carver; Albany from Mankato and Jeannette Roberts from Red Wood.

The Steker State, from St. Louis, is due to-day, and will probably go down this afternoon.

The Favorite is being refitted and painted, preparatory to temporarily taking the place of the Frank Steele in the Winona and LaCrosse trade, which latter boat is also to be repaired.

From the Sentinel of Saturday.

The wheat market was tolerably active yesterday, but in consequence of a scarcity of vessels and higher freights, prices ruled ½c below Wednesday's closing quotations, and after the receipt of advices from Chicago the market declined nominally another half cent. About 50,000 bushels changed hands at 79c for No. 2 and 83c for No. 1 in store. Towards the close 78½@83½c were the best offers, but we heard of no sales below the opening prices.

Flour was about 5c lower, owing to an advance in freights, and holders evinced more willingness to sell. Sales to the amount of 2,000 barrels were reported on 'Change, at $3,75@3,80 for fair to good country extra at $4,00@4,50 for choice to fancy brands.

Legal Notices.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—DEFAULT has been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred and eighty three dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon that certain mortgage executed, acknowledged and delivered by John Wesley Bond and Johanna A. H. Bond, his wife, of Ramsey county, Territory (now State) of Minnesota, to Lowman Hawes, of Bloomington, (late of Madison), State of Indiana, and which bears date August twenfieth, (20th) A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and was given to secure the payment of six hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($621.25), in one year from the date thereof, and interest thereon, and was duly recorded at three and a half (3½) of the clock, in the afternoon on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of August, in said year (1857), as a mortgage, in Book "L" of mortgages, pages three hundred and three (303) and three hundred and four (304), in the Registry of Deeds of said Ramsey county.
And the said Lowman Hawes, mortgagee, has duly paid the taxes upon the land therein described as lying in the said county of Ramsey, for for the years 1858, 1859, 1860 and 1861, and all interest and charges thereon, and has the receipt of the treasurer of the said county of Ramsey therefor, and the amount so paid and the interest thereon, at the date of this notice, is twenty-eight and fifty-two one-hundredth dollars, $28.52) and claims an additional lien on the said land in the county of Ramsey, for the same; and no proceedings at law or in equity have been had to collect the said mortgage debt or any part of the same.
And whereas, said morigagee, Lowman Hawes, deceased and died intestate on the eleventh (11th) day of February, A. D. 1861, and upon due application, Mary Hawes, of Madison, in the county of Jefferson, State of Indiana, was on the eleventh (11th) day of April, A. D. 1861, duly appointed administratrix of the estate, &c., of said Lowman Hawes, deceased by the Court of Common Pleas, being also a Court of Probate, of said county of Jefferson, and letters of administration have been duly issued to her out of said Court, as administratrix of said estate; an authenticated copy of the said letters of administration and appointment are now on file in the Probate Court in and for the county of Ramsey, in the State of Minnesota.
Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to a power of sale, in said mortgage contained, authorizing and empowering the said morigagee, Lowman Hawes, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to make sale of the premises therein described upon default being made in the conditions of the said mortgage, and under and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31) in township thirty (30) north of range twenty-three (23) west, lying and being in the county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota; also the southeast quarter (¼) of section two (2), in township thirty-two (32) north, of range twenty-one (21) west, lying and being in the county of Washington and State of Minnesota, with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances belonging, or in anywise appertaining to the said tracts, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash, by the sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Paul, in said county, at ten (10) of the clock in the forenoon, on Saturday, the sixteenth (16th) day of August, A. D. 1862, to pay said debt, taxes and interest and costs allowed by law.
Dated Saint Paul, Minn., July 1st, 1862.

On reading and filing the petition of Edward Webb, Administrator of said estate, setting forth the amount of personal estate, the amount of debts, and a description of the real estate of which said deceased died seized, and the condition and value thereof, and praying that license be to him granted to sell the whole of said real estate; and it appearing by said petition that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of said Administrator to pay said debts, and that it is necessary, in order to pay the same, to sell the whole of said real estate. It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before the Judge of this Court on the 5th day of August, 1862, at ten o'clock A. M., at the office of the Judge of Probate, then and there to show cause, if any they have, why license should not be granted to said Administrator to sell said real estate.
And it is farther ordered that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks prior to said day of hearing, in the Saint Paul Press, a newspaper published at Saint Paul, Ramsey county.

IMPORTANT TO ADVERTISERS.

The PRESS has—in accordance with the fact—claimed for the last six months a larger circulation, Daily, Tri-Weekly and Weekly, than any other paper in the city or State, and has challenged the Pioneer to compare the circulation of that paper with the PRESS, and make the result public, which challenge has been constantly declined, thus, on the part of the Pioneer, practically admitting the larger circulation of the PRESS. The bills of newspaper for the several editions of the PRESS and Pioneer show conclusively that the circulation of the several editions of the PRESS is nearly two thousand sheets per week greater than the circulation of the Pioneer.

THE NEWS THIS MORNING.

The prevailing storms prevented our getting full telegraphic dispatches last night. The mail boat too, failed to arrive, having stuck on a bar about four miles below the city.

All the news we get from McClellan is encouraging. He is strongly entrenched—impregnably, it is said—and has advanced his pickets four or five miles.

The enemy has mysteriously disappeared. It is intimated that Stonewall Jackson will suddenly appear in the Shenandoah Valley, and try his hand with Gen. Pope.

Communication is open between Norfolk and Newbern, and Gen. Burnsides is preparing to co-operate with McClellan.

We are without further news from Vicksburg.

Rebel prisoners say that 50,000 of Beauregard's army arrived at Richmond before the evacuation of Corinth, and 25,000 immediately after the evacuation. It would therefore appear that General Halleck's failure to capture, defeat or detain Beauregard's army, has been the cause of the late unequal contest before Richmond.

Rebel accounts make the defenses of Richmond in fortifications, river obstructions and troops, very formidable. They think it impossible for us to take it. We shall see.

AN IMPORTANT POLITICAL MOVEMENT.

This capital take off—published elsewhere—of the Democratic resurrection movements generally, and the great(?) meeting in New York a few days ago—in which "Frenandy Wud," the politician Brooks of the Express, the editor, and other incorruptible patriots figured prominently—in particular, is well worthy a careful reading.

THE NEW CALL FOR TROOPS.

The position occupied by the State of Minnesota in its relations to the country at large is indicated by the fact that her quota of troops will be nearly three regiments. That these troops will be forthcoming in a short period of time present indications seem to show.

It will infuse new life into the recruiting service and men of all classes and ages who now find that their services are really wanted will step forward and join the swelling ranks to secure the fulfillment of Minnesota's duty in an incredably short space of time. The inducements offered to persons to join the service, independent of patriotic considerations, are great enough to attract great numbers who heretofore refrained from offering their services knowing that their families and friends would have been in want before the time would have elapsed when they could have pecuniarily aided them.

A premium of two dollars will be given to every recruit on promptly enlisting, or to officers for every recruit sent to them from branch depots. A month's pay will be paid each volunteer upon mustering in of a company, and on mustering in of a regiment $25, or one-fourth of the $100 bounty will be paid. These advanced payments will place funds enough in the hands of volunteers to enable them to leave their families protected against want during the time which must necessarily elapse before they are despatched to the scene of active operations—and thereafter such portions of their pay as they set apart for those left at home will be promptly transmitted through the hands of a regularly appointed disbursing agent.

TO OUR EXCHANGES.

Many of our Eastern exchanges come addressed to the "Minnesotian" and "Times." The publication of both Times and Minnesotian having been suspended at the time, or soon after, the PRESS was established, more than a year and a half ago, it is about time our exchanges had learned the fact, and changed their address to the PRESS. Will they please to make the change?

THE PRAIRIE FARMER.

This sterling agricultural journal begins its tenth volume of the new series with the number of July 5th. It is published weekly at two dollars per year, or eight copies for ten dollars. It is one of our best exchanges and we can safely recommend it to our farmers. One should take his own home journal in agriculture as well as anything else. But the home journal does not supply everything wanted. The Prairie Farmer is ably conducted, and being published in a neighboring State, its observations and discussions are more valuable than those of remoter sections of the country.

Douglas County, Wisconsin, Taxes.

The redemption list, some six or seven thousand parcels, which were advertised, sold, and bought in at the tax sale of 1859, and which were advertised contrary to law, twelve weeks behind time, commencing in March, at an expense of over two thousand dollars, although the Session Laws of 1854, chapter 220, relating to Polk county, distinctly said, "Twelve weeks prior to the six months," and the Circuit Court also decided the same. Therefore parties, when they settle for their deeds, will be relieved of the necessity of paying thirty cents per lot advertising fees, as that adverisement was illegal, and either the Clerk or the county must lose it. The tax sale comes off in September next, when all these delinquencies which were advertised and bought in at the 1857 sale, advertised for redemption, will probably be re-advertised at twenty-five cents each, sold and bought in at the September sale. This is Wisconsin law and justice—the many taxed to support a few. The worst feature yet remains. These corrupt men succeeded in getting their county bond bills through, and hope to invest their ill-gotten orders at par, drawing seven per cent. interest. They oppose work on roads, to keep working men here, and only care for their orders and bonds. We are delinquent to the State for over two thousand dollars. On a special judgment of nearly seven hundred dollars, about one hundred dollars have been collected and paid in seven months. Some of the school teachers are unpaid, yet these selfish men are striving to plunge the county in debt, and force the tax-payers to pay seven per cent. on ten thousand dollars of bonds. The law distinctly says, "In every case the State tax to be paid first, though it may occasion a deficiency in the town taxes"—chapter 18, section 91.—These special acts of legislation and corrupt doings should be kept before the people. Perhaps some future Legislature will contain enough honest men to make just laws, and induce instead of driving away settlers. R.

THE VALLANDIGHAM PLATFORM AND CANDIDATE.

The momentous events of the last week, before Richmond, have been of too absorbing interest to admit of time or space being bestowed on the late resurrection movement of the Democracy. We find in the State News some just strictures, which we give below:

The so-called Democracy have had their Convention at St. Paul, and have nominated as their candidate for Congress, Judge A. G. Chatfield, of the First Distaict, and Buchanan's Indian Superintendent, Major Wm. J. Cullen, of the Second District.

It is the latter district in which we are directly interested, and we shall hereafter have something to say as to the claims and pretensions of Major Cullen for Congress. It is enough to remark, at present, that so far as ability and qualifications are concerned, the nomination is a weak one, and speaks sadly for a party claiming to have men of talent and experience in its ranks. All those having any pretensions as to qualifications seem to have had such premonitions of the crushing defeat awaiting the moccasin Democracy this fall, that they declined with all possible expedition.

The platform adopted is enough to sink any party outside the State of South Carolina. So utterly false is it in its statements and sentiments, that the infamous production had to be considered and first adopted in secret conclave. Every one, except "the Democracy," on motion, were excluded from the hall, while the vile thing was moulded and shaped, and then it was brought forth in all its hideous proportions.

The first resolution turns the cold shoulder to the Government, and makes its support of the war conditional. The balance, with the exception of the closing resolution, consists of stale charges against the Republican party and vindictive assaults on the national Administration. In all the platform there is not a single utterance against Jeff. Davis and the wicked scoundrels who are now banded with him in trying to destroy our Government.

There is no hearty word of condemnation for traitors, but any amount of thrusts and stabs at those in authority, who are now engaged in a desperate grapple with the enemy. The last resolution contains a sickening and a half way compliment to our soldiers. Its hypocrisy is too plain for concealment.

Such is the miserable, secession sympathizing platform on which Major Cullen has placed his feet.

We now say to our Republican and Union friends, that we know where to find our enemies. They have shown their true colors in this monstrous platform. It only remains for us to burnish up our armor, throw our flag to the breeze, and give them a Waterloo defeat.

An Englishman's Opinion of President Lincoln.

"There can be no doubt that the President is the most popular man in the United States. Without education or marked ability, without the personal advantage of a fine presence or courteous manners, and placed unexpectedly in a position of unparalelled difficulty and danger, he has so conducted himself amid the storm of passion that rages around him as to have won the good opinion of everybody. There is not a journal in the country that speaks of him except with high respect; there is not a soldier in the field who does not love and honor him; there is not a man in private life, whatever may be his political opinions or his views upon the origin, conduct or progress of the war, who does not cheerfully admit that Mr. Lincoln has shown himself equal to his work, and rescued the presidential office from the contempt into which it was falling. The explanation is to be found in his manly common sense, and his unquestionable honesty. Two other traits in Mr. Lincoln's character are his good nature and his pluck, equal to that of Lord Palmerston, in backing his friends, of both of which his message to Congress exonerating his ministers, and especially Mr. Simon Cameron, from all blame for any error or illegality of which they may be guilty, and assuming the whole responsibility of every one of their acts, is a very remarkable proof."

IMPORTANT POLITICAL MOVEMENT.

From Harpers' Weekly, July 5th.

We have obtained information of a very important political movement which has lately taken place in this city, and which is likely to exercise no small influence upon the destinies of this State and the Union. It seems that, a few evenings since, a select party of bankers, shipping-merchants, politicians, lawyers, and editors met in a private room at one of our hotels, and resolved to organize a new party to be known as the Antediluvians.

A prominent merchant observed that, in his opinion, things had been going from bad to worse for many years. The encroachments of the executive were becoming intolerable: witness the execution of the martyr Gordon! For his part, he believed in leaving trade entirely free, and if a man chose to import negroes from Africa he saw no objection: it was notorious that the spiritual condition of the slaves in South Carolina was far superior to that of the negroes in Ashantee or Dahomey. He went in for saving souls where he could. He thought the legislation of the United States rotten, and advised a recurrence to the old collonial laws, under which his ancestors in Rhode Island had done uncommonly well for several generations.

An editor, in rising, wished to say that he was in favor of the prosecution of the war. But he wished it prosecuted with some regard to humanity. He was opposed to the shedding of blood, especially of the blood of our brethren in the Slave States. He could wish that General McClellan should be directed to fire several volleys with blank cartridge in the direction of Richmond, after which a deputation should be sent to Jeff. Davis to offer him the reversion of the Presidency on condition of peace. His blood boiled when he thought of the number of slaves who had escaped from their masters during the present war. He understood that General Lee, whom he was proud to call his friend, had lost two valuable slaves. Why were they not returned? Was the Government a common thief? He was not a church-member himself, but he had a friend who went regularly to meeting and who informed him that in Deuteronomy—

Here the speaker was interrupted by a boy, who came in with a list of our killed and wounded at Fair Oaks, which the editor began to copy for his paper.

A lawyer remarked that the authors of the war were the people of New England, and they were the real disunionists. A popular impression existed that it was the people of South Carolina who fired the first gun in the war. This was a mistake. It was Massachusetts which sought a severence of the Union, not South Carolina. He was bound to admit that the former had sent a few troops to support the President, while the latter had dispatched her volunteers against Washington. But appearances often were deceitful. The South Carolinians were a whole-souled people, incapable of dishonest dealing; whereas he knew from experience that the New Englanders were rogues. He had a case—

Here he was called to order by the Chairman, who remarked, that while he was glad to hear that their friend, the lawyer, had got at a case at last, it had nothing to do with the object of the meeting. They had met there to see if something could not be done to stem the tide of human progress and civilization, which was sweeping before it the time-honored prejudices, abuses and wrongs to which they all naturally clung. He would call upon his neighbor, the banker, to ventilate his opinions.

The Banker remarked that the great trouble in this country was the want of an established aristocracy. His friend, Lord Thingumbob, had told him so when he met him in Pall Mall, and he was convinced of the fact. At the South, now, the large slave-owners constituted an aristocracy; not so solid as might be wished, he confessed, as many of the young men at the South were apt to gamble away their niggers: he had himself won a yellow girl at poker, and sold her six weeks afterwards for $2500 (ha! ha!); but still the South had an aristocracy, and this was the secret of the superiority of Southern men to Northerners. He was decidedly in favor of the organization of a new party at the North based on sound feudal principles. He thought the United States required a hereditary aristocracy selected from the .... bankers, merchants .... bankers, lawyers .... bankers, men of property, and so forth. If a plank to this effect were inserted in the platform of the new party they might count him in.

A politician congratulated the meeting upon the soundness of the views expressed by the speakers, and the firm front they proposed to present to the pernicious heresies of the day. In the present disastrous crisis of the country he had taken his side some time since, and proposed to stand by it. He was in favor of the war. But after the war, he wanted the statu quo ante bellum absolutely restored. He hoped to see his friend Senator (now General) Toombs, of Georgia, in his place in the Senate; his friend and correspondent Senator Mason, now absent in Europe, at the head of the Senate Committee on foreign relations; his old acquaintance, Mr. Jefferson Davis, restored to the control of the Committee on Military Affairs, which his experience during the present war will so admirably fit him to wield; and Brother Ben appointed United States Commissioner of Lotteries, with a large per centage on the sale of policies. He agreed with his friend the lawyer in the opinion that the North was at least as largely responsible for the war as the South. He could see no difference himself between an Abolitionist and a Secessionist—a friend of freedom and a friend of slavery—a defender of the Government and a traitor. They were all one to him. With these few remarks he would move the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, The rascally and diabolical conduct of the Northern States, and especially Massachusetts, Vermont, and Wisconsin, have plunged this country into a fratricidal war; and whereas the blood-thirsty representatives from these States refused persistently to avert the war by adopting the advice of such pure patriots as Breckinridge, Vallandigham, and Hunter, and giving up every thing demanded by the Southern people:

AND WHEREAS, The Southerners have already proved their valor, and the utter impossibility of subjugating them by force of arms:

Be it Resolved, 1. That the times call for the establishment of a new Northern party consisting of all the virtue and worth, and most of the modesty of the North, to crush out and keep down the rascally, Jacobinical, radical faction.

2. That the cardinal principle of this party be the restoration of the Union as it was, with Mason, Slidell, Breckinridge, Davis, and Hunter, in the Senate, Pryor, Stephens, and Barksdale in the House, the fugitive slave law in full operation throughout the North, and slavery in all the Territories present and future.

3. That with a view to conciliate our Southern brethren, the officers of the Southern army should be admitted into the United States army with the rank they now hold, and that the supreme command be given to General Beauregard, who should be appointed Lieutenant-General by Congress.

4. That Major-General Lovell be invited to resume his position as Street-Inspector in this city.

5. That Senator Sumner be tried for treason, and, if possible, hanged.

6. That a monument be raised in the city of Boston to the memory of the late Preston Brooks, whose Christian behavior was so beautiful a prototype of the conduct of Southern friends during the present war.

7. That Robert Smalls, the nigger who ran away from his owners in Charleston with a valuable steamboat, be returned under a flag of truce, and Commodore Dupont, who abetted him in the theft of himself and boat, be dismissed from the service.

8. That the negro who gave Colonel Kenly information of the approach of the enemy at Front Royal, receive one hundred lashes for escaping from his owner without a regular pass.

9. That the true object of the establishment of the United States was the protection and maintenance of slavery and the discouragement of freedom: wherefore a law of Congress should render it penal, forever hereafter, to speak commendingly in any public discourse, of freedom or liberty, or the rights of man, and an orator should be appointed by Congress, on each Fourth of July, to explain to the people the beauties of slavery, the charm of the whipping-post, the advantage of the iron collar, the merits of the blood-hound, the virtues of slave-traders, and the general common sense of making people work without wages.

10. That Russia having commenced the emancipation of the serfs, diplomatic relations be broken off with her; that Spain be warned that if she carries out the project of her leading statesmen for the emancipation of the negroes in Cuba and Porto Rico, the United States will consider it a casus belli; and that new and close treaties of friendship and amity be concluded with the Emperor of Brazil, the King of Dahomey, and the Sultan of Turkey.

11. That it being the deliberate sense of the members of this party that the world is going headlong to ruin—that civilization is a mistake and progress a delusion—we take the name and title of THE ANTEDILUVIANS.

These resolutions, having been put to the vote, were carried nem. con.; and the meeting separated in high good-humor.

Not Generally Known.

Martin Van Buren is the only man who ever held the office of President, Vice President, Minister to England, Governor of his own State, and member of both Houses of Congress.

Thomas H. Benton is the only man who held a seat in the United States for thirty consecutive years.

The only instance of father and son in the United States Senate at the same time, is that of Hon. Henry Dodge, Senator from Wisconsin, and his son, Augustus C. Dodge, Senator from Iowa.

General James Shields is the only man who ever represented two States in the United States Senate. At one time he was Senator from Illinois, and subsequently Senator from Minnesota.

John Quincy Adams held position under the Government during every Administration, from that of Washington to that of Polk—during which he died. He had been Minister to England, member of both Houses of Congress, Secretary of State, and President of the United States. He died while a member of the House of Representatives.

The only instance where three brothers occupied seats in the lower House at the same time, was when Elihu B. Washburne represented the First District of Illinois, Israel Washburne, Jr., the Third District in Maine, and Cadwallader C. Washburne the Third District of Wisconsin.

SAINT PAUL, July 3d, 1862.

The undersigned will receive sealed proposals at his office in Saint Paul, Minnesota, until 12 o'clock M. on the 10th day of July, for furnishing and delivering, at Fort Snelling, Minnesota, complete rations for United States troops, prisoners of war, and to any other persons subsisted in kind by the Government, to be issued there.

The ration consists as follows: Three-fourths of a pound of pork or bacon, or one and a fourth pounds of fresh or salt beef; twenty-two ounces of bread or flour, or one pound of hard bread, or one and a fourth pounds of corn meal; and at the rate to every one hundred rations, of eight quarts of beans or peas, and ten pounds of rice or hominy; ten pounds of green coffee, or eight pounds of roasted and ground coffee, or one and a half pounds of tea; fifteen pounds of sugar; four quarts of vinegar; one pound of sperm candles, or one and a fourth pounds of adamantine candles, or one and a half pounds of tallow candles; four pounds of soap, and two quarts of salt.

In addition to the foregoing, there is allowed twice per week one gallon of molasses per one hundred rations, and thrice per week, it practicable, an issue of potatoes, at the rate of one pound per man. When beans, peas, rice, hominy, or potatoes cannot be issued in the proportions given above, an equivalent in value shall be issued in some other proper food. Dessicated potatoes, or dessicated mixed vegetables, at the rate, per one hundred rations, of one hundred and fifty ounces of the former, or one hundred ounces of the latter, may be substituted for beans, peas, rice, hominy, or fresh potatoes, when these articles cannot be issued; or, upon the requisition of the proper officer, and when the supply on hand will admit of it, they may be issued at the foregoing rate, twice per week in lieu of beans or peas, or in lieu of rice or hominy. Fresh beef may be issued as often as the commanding officer of any detachment or regiment may require it, when practicable, in place of salt meat.

The Acting Commissary reserves to himself the right to diminish or increase the number of rations required, whenever the interests of the government demand it.

The contract will extend to, and include the 31st day of December, 1862.

LATEST FROM BEFORE RICHMOND.

Rebel Army Has Fallen Back.

General McClellan Well Entrenched.

YORKTOWN ABANDONED.

A Boat Has Come Through From Newbern to Norfolk.

Burnside Ready to Co-operate with McClellan.

The Enemy Mysteriously Disappeared.

NEW YORK, July 8.

Letter from Fort Monroe says the rebel army appears to have fallen back towards the city and Gen. McClellan is now in a position well entrenched.

The apprehension that the rebels would stretch themselves down the Peninsula and possibly attempt to blockade with their batteries James river has not yet been realized.

Attack commenced on Thursday of last week in which their loss was confessedly much greater than ours, including many officers of high rank.

A boat came through from Newbern via Norfolk and the canals yesterday, and returned this evening,

It is rumored that Burnside, with considerable force, was preparing to co-operate with McClellan. Rumors to the effect that he has advanced from Newbern, were without foundation.

Our pickets advanced four or five miles from the river, and saw no enemy, who seem to have mysteriously retired.

It is suggested that Gen. Pope will see them next.

There was a brisk engagement on Thursday, in which our troops drove the enemy and captured a battery without losing a man.

Gen. McClellan has advanced his lines down to the Chickahominy, and no fears are now entertained of a flank movement in that direction.

By noon to-day, Gen. McClellan expected to have his position so fortified as to be able to bid defiance to the enemy in any shape they might choose to come.

Gen. Casey has arrived en route to Washington.

FROM WASHINGTON.

THE TREASURY NOTE BILL. REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CONFERENCE.

What Rebel Prisoners Say of Beauregard's Army Coming to Richmond.

They Think We Can Never Take the City.

WASHINGTON, July 7.

[Special to Tribune.]—The Treasury Note Bill agreed to by the Conference Committee, and passed by the Senate, is a compromise between the two Houses—$35,000,000 are to be issued in small notes, and the amount to be reserved for the purpose of securing the payment of temporary deposits is to be $50,000,000 instead of $75,000,000 as fixed by the Senate, leaving the issue for circulation at $100,000,000.

Col. Ward, announced among the killed in the Tribune of Monday, was alive and well on Thursday.

Major Stone of Iowa, Captain Grey of Illinois, and a Colonel of Missouri, captured at Pittsburg Landing, and who were released on two months parole by General Beauregard, to come to Washington and arrange, if possible, for a general exchange of prisoners, have entirely failed, and were to return on Saturday, going by way of Fort Monroe, to resume their places in the rebel prisons. The friends of Major Stone gave that gentleman a patriotic banquet at Clay's Hotel on Friday evening.

An army letter to the Herald says that the rebel prisoners say that long before the evacuation of Corinth, troops from Beauregard's army began to arrive at Richmond, and continued to arrive steadily until that event took place, by which time 50,000 had arrived, and that subsequent to evacuation, 25,000 more arrived from Corinth, and those 50,000 are the flower of Beauregard's army.

The whole number of the troops at Richmond amounts to fully 200,000. Gen. Lee has the chief command, and Gens. Beauregard, Johnson and Jackson were commanders of corps under him.

In regard to the report of Gen. Jackson's death, they speak in such a manner as leads me to think it is a mere ruse.

I infer from what these officers say that the eight forts or earthworks north and east of Richmond are not of any great strength. They rely mainly upon Fort Darling, the obstructions and batteries in the James river and upon the fighting of their troops for the defense of the city.

They declare that it is an utter impossibility for the Union army to take Richmond, either by land or water. By land on account of the number of troops, and by water on account of defenses of the James River. Of the latter Fort Darling is the only one. Besides this fort three iron batteries have also been erected, mounted with heavy guns and casemated for the protection of the gunners. There are also two submerged iron batteries, each one containing five tons of powder, connected with the iron land batteries by wires, and so arranged as to explode at any desired instant. As regards the obstructions sunk and driven into the bed of the river, they are such that it will require a vast amount of time and labor to remove them, so that it can never be done under the fire of their guns, and no vessel can pass while they remain.

The Loss of Enemy 75,000 or One Half their Whole Army.

As Estimated by a Union Officer whose Means of Judging were Good.

Heintzelman, Sumner, Keyes and Porter Promoted to Major Generals of Volunteers and Brigadiers in Regular Army.

WASHINGTON, July 7.

The Star says a distinguished officer of the army of the Potomac was in Washington this A. M. His opportunity for learning the extent of the enemy's damage in the seven days' battles were better than any other officer. He estimated they lost in killed and wounded the immense number of 75,000 men, or in other words, their loss was quite half their whole army in and about Richmond. They refuse to receive flags of truce from Gen. McClellan, conveying enquiries relative to Union officers and others believed to be wounded and prisoners.

The President nominated to the Senate Generals Heintzelman, Sumner, Keyes and Fitz John Porter, to be Brevet Brigadier-Generals in the regular army, and Major-Generals of volunteers, for gallant conduct in the field.

The Lynchburg (Virginia) Republican of the 30th ult., says it was currently reported there on Saturday that Beauregard had been suspended from his command of the army of the West. The cause is not known. If the report is true, it will cause a storm about the head of the President which he will find it difficult to allay. We sincerely trust there is no foundation for the report.

All was quiet up to 8 o'clock A. M. today.

The "FLORENCE" SEWING MACHINES make FOUR DIFFERENT stitches on one and the same machine. Thus the LOCK, DOUBLE-LOCK, KNOT AND DOUBLE-KNOT, all of which make the seam alike on both sides of the fabric. Either or all can be produced while the Machine is in motion.

They have the REVERSIBLE FEED MOTION, which enables the operator to have the work carry either way, or to change the direction, and fasten the end of seams, welch, together with making a long and a short stitch, is done simply by turning a thumb screw.

Their motions are all positive. There are no springs to get out of order. They are so simple that the most inexperienced can work them perfectly and with ease. They are NOISELESS, and can be used where quiet is necessary.

They are the FASTEST SEWERS in the WORLD, making five stitches to each revolution. They oil no dresses. Their stitch is the wonder of all, because of its combined ELASTICITY, STRENGTH and BEAUTY.

A Northern Pacific Railroad.

From the National Republican, June 27th.

A bill for the construction of a Northern Pacific railroad was passed by the Senate yesterday without dissent. It is the same bill as that which the Northwestern Senators endeavored successfully to engraft, by way of amendment, upon the act already passed for building a railroad to the Pacific upon a central route. As now appears, it was rejected as an amendment to that act, not from any objection in the Senate to the measure itself, but because it was considered best to pass it in the shape of a separate and independent bill.

This bill, which passed the Senate yesterday, was offered by Mr. Doolittle on the 20th instant, and reported upon favorably on the 25th instant, by Mr. Carlile, of Virginia, from the Committee on the Public Lands.

It provides for the appointment by the President of three civil engineers, to proceed immediately to locate the general route of a line of railroad from Superior City on Lake Superior; thence to a point on the west line of Minnesota, having reference to connections with the railroad system of that State; and thence to the navigable waters of the Columbia river, with a branch to Puget's Sound.

The bill sets apart, to aid in the construction of the road, the proceeds of the sales of the alternate sections (designated by odd numbers) of the public lands, for the space of twenty miles on each side of the road. Mineral lands are excluded from this provision; and where such lands are found, an equivalent amount of agricultural lands elsewhere is granted. This is an endowment of 12,800 acres to the mile. The selling price of these lands is fixed at $2 50 per acre within ten miles of the railroad, and $1 25 per acre beyond ten miles. If the lands be assumed to be sold at these prices, they would yield, in money, $24,000 to each mile of the proposed road. The lands, the proceeds of which are set apart for the road, are, of course, exempted from the operation of the homestead act, but are left subject to settlement and pre-emption at the prices stated.

A provision is inserted that, so far as the route within the State of Minnesota shall be found upon the same line with any railroad route which has already received land grants from the United States, and where the two routes are upon the same "general line," the land grants under this bill shall not be made.

The proceeds of the lands set apart by this bill are to be paid, over, one half of them, to the States or Territories through which the road passes, as fast as successive sections of twenty-five miles of the road are built. The remaining half of the proceeds are to be retained by the United States until the road is completed to the Pacific, and then to be apportioned to the States Territories, not in proportion to the expenditures in building the road; of which accurate accounts are to be kept and annually returned.

In other words, of the land grants at the rate of 12,800 acres, or $24,000 when sold, to the mile, one half is to be apportioned upon mileage, and to be paid as successive sections of twenty-five miles are completed, while the other half is to be apportioned upon necessary expenditure, and is to be kept back until the whole work is consummated.

This seems to be a simple, just and efficient provision, to meet what are the assumed and undoubted facts in the case, that some portions of the road will be much more costly than others, while, at the same time, it is precisely in the mountainous regions, where the road will cost the most, that the land grants will yield the least.

The bill provides for the construction of a telegraph along the line of the proposed road: and for the use of such telegraph, as well as of the road itself, in the transportation of mails, military stores, &c., by the Government, at reasonable rates, to be determined, in the event of disagreement, in such manner as Congress may hereafter prescribe.

Section nine of the bill provides that seven per centum of the proceeds of the granted lands shall be retained by the United or States, to pay the expenses of surveying and selling the lands, and the expenses of the survey of the railroad.

Section ten of the bill is in the words following:

That said Northern Pacific route may be continued from Superior, southeasterly, upon the most eligible and feasible railroad route, to a point on the Wisconsin river, no further south than the Grand Rapids on the same, to be determined by the State of Wisconsin; thence easterly from said point to the Fox river, and from the same point on the Wisconsin river down the valley of the same, to connect with the land grant routes in the State of Wisconsin: Provided, however, That the grant of the proceeds of the sales of the lands along the said route, in said State, is made upon the express condition, irrevocable forever, that it shall be the duty of all persons or companies who may constitute, or own, or become in any manner interested in the same, or in any part thereof, to permit every other railroad running easterly or southeasterly from the Wisconsin rive to Lake Michigan, in the State of Wisconsin, to form running connections with the same, upon fair and equal terms."

The passage of this bill will be hailed with great satisfaction by the country. The only question which can arise upon it, is, whether it grants enough, in reference to the national interests which are involved. It grants nothing, in fact, but a portion of a value which the bill itself creates, the lands being unavailable without the road.

The domain of the United States stretches from ocean to ocean, with a breadth so imperial that a single railroad bridge across it is altogether inadequate to the necessities of the case. On the Pacific side there are three distinct geographical points to be reached—the Bay of San Francisco, the Columbia river, and Puget's Sound; and this is not a great number of points, considering that we have seventeen degrees of latitude on that coast. The region on this side has an equal stretch of latitude. Nor is the connection of the two coasts the only thing to be taken into the account: the occupation of the country between the Mississippi and the Pacific needs the stimulus of railroad facilities, and is, probably, not practicable, to any very great extent, without such facilities. Manifestly, so far as this object is kept in view, one road is not sufficient.

At no period in our history, has Congress displayed a more comprehensive statesmanship in reference to our national interests, or a more heroic courage in their development, than now, in the midst of civil war, and in the presence of a world envious, malignant, and filled with sinister predictions of our downfall. It is the first time, indeed, within the present generation, when we have had a genuinely national Congress.

We know too well what the "odor" was, of that "nationality," which, until recently, was thus self styled, and which has now found its fit termination in a sectional revolt. Of that true nationality, of the stamp of the revolutionary fathers, we have seen nothing in our day until now.

Instead of a hundred and fifty millions for the purchase of a slave-cursed island, to keep up an odious equilibrium between freedom and servitude, we have measures for the development of continental America, in the interests of advancing empire and of an expanding population of freemen. It is upon the "endless shores of the Pacific," and upon the mountains and valleys of the vast region which separates us from them, that the legislation of this Congress stamps the certainty of progress, of population, of liberty, of civilization and of Christianity. It was the glory of the great nations of antiquity that they diffused their manners, their language, and their arts, in distant colonies. But the adventurous Greek did not pass the limits of the Mediterranean and Black Seas, nor did the Romans, in the zenith of their imperial power, embrace but the half of the area which America, under the lead of her truly great men, is now about to reduce to actual possession.

Miscellany.

GOOD.—The Rochester Union says: "People used to say that Fremont was a Catholic. His refusal to serve under a Pope ought to be sufficient evidence that he is not."

"Pray, sir," said a gentleman to a wag upon a wharf, "what is wood now?"

"Why, trees cut down and chopped up."

A QUESTION OF MANNERS.—As a very pompous academic authority was taking a stroll, he fell in with a boy dragging along a struggling calf by the halter. The boy being too much occupied with his charge to notice the great man, the Doctor addressed him:

"Boy, do you know me?"

"Yees, I does; you be the principal of ——."

"And if you know me, you unmannerly clown, why don't you take off your hat and make your bow to me?"

"So I will, if so be as you will take and hold this ere calf while I does it."

THEY mean to raise tall students in Wisconsin. An exchange says, its Board of Education has resolved to erect a building for the accommodation of five hundred students three stories high!

—Mrs. McDougal, wife of ex-Governor John McDougal, of California, recently died in San Francisco.

—The Hartford Post says that the man who acts as the Breckinridge party in Vermont is to make a convention of himself in July. Last year he was divided on local issues, but he hopes this year to present an unbroken front to the enemy.

—The Charleston Mercury is right in charging that "the people of the Federal States have pursued a grasping policy;" they have grasped the rifle, the sword, and the rebel throat.

—"There, now," cried a little girl while rumaging a drawer in a bureau, "there now, grau'pa, has gone to Heaven without his spectacles."

—Two gentlemen were walking together in Paris; "I will engage," said one to the other, "to give the man before me a good kicking, and yet he shall not be angry." He did as he had undertaken to do. The stranger turned around and looked astonished. "I beg your pardon," said the kicker. "I took you for the Duke de la Tremouille." The duke was very handsome—the man was very plain; he was gratified at the "mistake" under which he believed he had suffered, shook himself, smiled, bowed, and went on his way.

—The author of "Recreations," and of "Leisure Hours in Town," is Mr. Boyd, an Episcopal clergyman of Scotland. His first two volumes were written while rector of a country church; and the latter has been prepared during his leisure while a city pastor. Mr. Boyd has become a regular contributor to the Atlantic Monthly, and several of the best papers in "Leisure Hours" appeared originally in that popular periodical. Among them are "Concerning Veal," "Concerning People of whom more might have been made," "The Sorrows of Childhood," &c. Mr. Boyd is not a deep thinker; is not very metaphysical; is not, in short, a Scottish Scotsman; but in skimming lightly over a subject he gives the reader many creamy thoughts, which one likes to revolve in the mind. We cannot have too many of the genial cogitations of this amiable parson. May Providence prolong his days, and give him many leisure hours in town.

From the Winona Republican, of the 8th.

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION IN WINONA.

LARGE PORTION OF THE CITY IN ASHES.

Loss of Property nearly Half a Million

ENTIRE DESTRUCTION OF THE REPUBLICAN OFFICE.

It becomes our melancholy duty to record to-day one of the most disastrous conflragrations which has ever visited the North-West. About three-fourths of the business portion of our city, late so full of activity, hope, and progress, now lies in ruins—a smouldering heap of ashes!

The Fourth of July, the anniversary of the Nation's birth day, had just been celebrated in Winona with great success. There was a very large attendance of people from abroad, and the exercises of the day closed amid a degree of satisfaction and happiness seldom surpassed. Many of our citizens had retired to rest, somewhat fatigued after undergoing the festive labors of the day, while a few prolonged their amusements and hilarity until after the midnight hours. Soon after one o'clock on the morning of the 5th, both the slumberers and those still engaged in the various scenes of amusement were startled by the wild cry of "Fire!" and the simultaneous ringing of alarm bells. On repairing to the spot where the flames proceeded upward, it was discovered that the fire had broken out in the rear of Clapperton's bake-house, on the east side of Centre street, mid-way between Second and Third streets. The fire engines were soon brought out, the hook and ladder company were also promptly on the ground, and the efforts of these, together with the assistance of large numbers of citizens provided with buckets, were at once exerted to extinguish the flames. But the golden moment had passed. The fire had gained such an ascendancy among the compactly built wooden structures—almost as inflammable as tinder—that no human exertion could stay its destructive progress. Yet despite of this, willing hands worked arduously and long, contending against despair as they contended against the fierce and uncontrollable flames, until at length the intense heat drove them back almost exhausted.

The fire swept rapidly down the row of buildings towards the corner of Second and Centre streets, converting into ashes and charred remains everything as it went. In this immediate locality there were perhaps a dozen families, occupying the second and third stories of the burning buildings. These were forced to flee for their lives, and many of them had barely time to escape unhurt—glad to escape thus, though it left them houseless, breadless, and with scarcely enough clothing to cover their nakedness.

Up to this time, about 2 1-2 o'clock, the efforts of the citizens were mainly directed towards confining the fire to the block in which it originated. The wind was blowing a light breeze from the south, but it gradually increased in strength, and changing slightly in direction, forced the flames across Second street, where they were communicated to the buildings on that side. At this juncture, seeing that all attempts to stop the progress of the fire would be unavailable, the owners of property still untouched, but manifestly in danger, generally hastened to save what they might out of the universal destruction which was seen to be impending. And here the scene became one of wild confusion. The unconquerable fiery demon was rushing madly on, overlapping the very streets, thrusting its many forked tongues into everything within its reach, and spreading terror and destruction upon every side. Men and women were rushing hither and thither—some hastily gathering a few of their most valuable goods and effects together, and others clutching their children almost from the jaws of death itself, and conveying them to places of safety.

As the fire progressed, the wind grew stronger, and the flames and burning cinders were swept upwards and around in circling eddies, while the very atmosphere, for many rods in all directions, was insufferably hot. Many were the narrow escapes from death here. Anxious to secur something from the wreck, men, and even women, penetrated through the thick smoke into the burning stores and dwellings, only to be driven back with scorched faces and exhausted bodies. It seems little less than miraculous that we have no loss of life to set down in this sad record of a burning town. Of injuries, although not fatal, or generally serious, there were not a few. Among the worst was perhaps that sustained by Mr. James S. Thompson, a gentleman connected with the office of this paper, who was knocked down by a falling timber, or other heavy body, and taken up from the street in an insensible condition. For a time it was thought that he was dead, but by the application of proper remedies, at the hands of Dr. Cole, he was restored.

About three o'clock the conflagration reached its heighth. Four solid blocks of buildings, composed in great part of wood, were blazing up towards the heavens. Scattered on the streets, and on the levee, were indescribable piles of goods, merchandise, household effects, etc., much of it burning, and yet more spoiled by the process of speedy removal. Wildly shone the lurid light of the conflagration upon the surrounding hills—while dense clouds of smoke, mingled with burning cinders, floated across the river, in whose bosom much of the sad scene transpiring upon its bank was then reflected.

And still the efforts of many noble men to subdue the unrelenting enemy were kept up unabated. The fire had clasped within its destroying embrace all that portion of the city bounded on the north by the river, on the east by Lafayette street, on the south by Third street, and on the west by Main street—comprising four blocks of the most compactly built structures in the place, and quite nine-tenths of its business houses and stocks of merchandise. Here, about the dawn of day, it was at length checked. Constantly repeated applications of water by bucket companies to the various buildings on the west side of Main street, and the east side of Lafayette street, prevented the extension of the fire in either direction. The new block of buildings on the corner of Main and Second streets was for a time in imminent danger, but it was fortunately saved, and with it, all the adjoining structures up to and including Huff's Hotel, which could, only with great difficulty, if at all, have escaped if the fire had succeeded in crossing on Main street.

Thus, in the short space of three or four hours, one hundred and ten buildings were reduced to ashes, a still greater number of persons bereft of their places of business, dwellings, goods, clothing, and effects, and in their stead was left a scene of desolation which no pen can truly describe.

The actual loss of property of all kinds cannot fall much, if any, short of half a million of dollars. Upon this amount of loss there is an insurance of about ninety thousand dollars. We have taken some pains, in the brief time at our command, and under circumstances not very favorable, to obtain a list of the various losses, with the several sums of msurance thereon, and present the result in the table following. It should be understood, however, that this list is far from being complete, and does not embrace, according to the best of our information, much more than two-thirds of the losses sustained. Only those persons from whom we were able to obtain something like accurate information are included in the following record of losses:

Letter from Lieut. Col. Miller.

HEAD@CARTERS FIRST MINNESOTA REG'T.,
CAMP LINCOLN, NEAR RICHMOND,
VIRGINIA, June 25, 1862.

I am pained to observe by my copy of your journal of the 18th instant, that I am represented as "now at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania."

I have not been near or at the city for almost six months, and have never been absent a day from this regiment since I became connected with the army, unless in case of severe indisposition or upon military duty; nor have I ever for a moment entertained the idea of changing my residence from Minnesota.

Please make the proper correction and much oblige

Very respectfully yours,
STEPHEN MILLER.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.

Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.

CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.

Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-decoying empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.

Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $129,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums above the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded three hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $829,903.31. The premium income of thirty of the smaller companies was $851,856 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,900,099.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the mass of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent organization. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John Metiers, Secretary, those well accredited officers very justly say: "The well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, commend it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the crack company of our State, in high credit all over the Union, worked upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last summed up to $1,521,268.08, against an actual liability of only $55,860.43; and, moreover, it is worth noting that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $124,434.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bonds and mortgages $910,229.53, secured on real estate worth $1,715,900, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $329,626. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $106,715,148, taking $829,903 premium, and paid losses $535,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after reserving an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "nett surplus" of $160,644 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.

The need of a first class Mill of this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we can make as good

A Northern Pacific Railroad.

From the National Republican, June 27th.

A bill for the construction of a Northern Pacific railroad was passed by the Senate yesterday without dissent. It is the same bill as that which the Northwestern Senators endeavored successfully to engraft, by way of amendment, upon the act already passed for building a railroad to the Pacific upon a central route. As now appears, it was rejected as an amendment to that act, not from any objection in the Senate to the measure itself, but because it was considered best to pass it in the shape of a separate and independent bill.

This bill, which passed the Senate yesterday, was offered by Mr. Doolittle on the 20th instant, and reported upon favorably on the 25th instant, by Mr. Carlile, of Virginia, from the Committee on the Public Lands.

It provides for the appointment by the President of three civil engineers, to proceed immediately to locate the general route of a line of railroad from Superior City on Lake Superior; thence to a point on the west line of Minnesota, having reference to connections with the railroad system of that State; and thence to the navigable waters of the Columbia river, with a branch to Puget's Sound.

The bill sets apart, to aid in the construction of the road, the proceeds of the sales of the alternate sections (designated by odd numbers) of the public lands, for the space of twenty miles on each side of the road. Mineral lands are excluded from this provision; and where such lands are found, an equivalent amount of agricultural lands elsewhere is granted. This is an endowment of 12,800 acres to the mile. The selling price of these lands is fixed at $2 50 per acre within ten miles of the railroad, and $1 25 per acre beyond ten miles. If the lands be assumed to be sold at these prices, they would yield, in money, $24,000 to each mile of the proposed road. The lands, the proceeds of which are set apart for the road, are, of course, exempted from the operation of the homestead act, but are left subject to settlement and pre-emption at the prices stated.

A provision is inserted that, so far as the route within the State of Minnesota shall be found upon the same line with any railroad route which has already received land grants from the United States, and where the two routes are upon the same "general line," the land grants under this bill shall not be made.

The proceeds of the lands set apart by this bill are to be paid, over, one half of them, to the States or Territories through which the road passes, as fast as successive sections of twenty-five miles of the road are built. The remaining half of the proceeds are to be retained by the United States until the road is completed to the Pacific, and then to be apportioned to the States Territories, not in proportion to the expenditures in building the road; of which accurate accounts are to be kept and annually returned.

In other words, of the land grants at the rate of 12,800 acres, or $24,000 when sold, to the mile, one half is to be apportioned upon mileage, and to be paid as successive sections of twenty-five miles are completed, while the other half is to be apportioned upon necessary expenditure, and is to be kept back until the whole work is consummated.

This seems to be a simple, just and efficient provision, to meet what are the assumed and undoubted facts in the case, that some portions of the road will be much more costly than others, while, at the same time, it is precisely in the mountainous regions, where the road will cost the most, that the land grants will yield the least.

The bill provides for the construction of a telegraph along the line of the proposed road; and for the use of such telegraph, as well as of the road itself, in the transportation of mails, military stores, &c., by the Government, at reasonable rates, to be determined, in the event of disagreement, in such manner as Congress may hereafter prescribe.

Section nine of the bill provides that seven per centum of the proceeds of the granted lands shall be retained by the United or States, to pay the expenses of surveying and selling the lands, and the expenses of the survey of the railroad.

Section ten of the bill is in the words following:

That said Northern Pacific route may be continued from Superior, southeasterly, upon the most eligible and feasible railroad route, to a point on the Wisconsin river, no further south than the Grand Rapids on the same, to be determined by the State of Wisconsin; thence easterly from said point to the Fox river, and from the same point on the Wisconsin river down the valley of the same, to connect with the land grant routes in the State of Wisconsin: Provided, however, That the grant of the proceeds of the sales of the lands along the said route, in said State, is made upon the express condition, irrevocable forever, that it shall be the duty of all persons or companies who may constitute, or own, or become in any manner interested in the same, or in any part thereof, to permit every other railroad running easterly or southeasterly from the Wisconsin rive to Lake Michigan, in the State of Wisconsin, to form running connections with the same, upon fair and equal terms."

The passage of this bill will be hailed with great satisfaction by the country. The only question which can arise upon it, is, whether it grants enough, in reference to the national interests which are involved. It grants nothing, in fact, but a portion of a value which the bill itself creates, the lands being unavailable without the road.

The domain of the United States stretches from ocean to ocean, with a breadth so imperial that a single railroad bridge across it is altogether inadequate to the necessities of the case. On the Pacific side there are three distinct geographical points to be reached—the Bay of San Francisco, the Columbia river, and Puget's Sound; and this is not a great number of points, considering that we have seventeen degrees of latitude on that coast. The region on this side has an equal stretch of latitude. Nor is the connection of the two coasts the only thing to be taken into the account: the occupation of the country between the Mississippi and the Pacific needs the stimulus of railroad facilities, and is, probably, not practicable, to any very great extent, without such facilities. Manifestly, so far as this object is kept in view, one road is not sufficient.

At no period in our history, has Congress displayed a more comprehensive statesmanship in reference to our national interests, or a more heroic courage in their development, than now, in the midst of civil war, and in the presence of a world envious, malignant, and filled with sinister predictions of our downfall. It is the first time, indeed, within the present generation, when we have had a genuinely national Congress.

We know too well what the "odor" was, of that "nationality," which, until recently, was thus self styled, and which has now found its fit termination in a sectional revolt. Of that true nationality, of the stamp of the revolutionary fathers, we have seen nothing in our day until now.

Instead of a hundred and fifty millions for the purchase of a slave-cursed island, to keep up an odious equilibrium between freedom and servitude, we have measures for the development of continental America, in the interests of advancing empire and of an expanding population of freemen. It is upon the "endless shores of the Pacific," and upon the mountains and valleys of the vast region which separates us from them, that the legislation of this Congress stamps the certainty of progress, of population, of liberty, of civilization and of Christianity. It was the glory of the great nations of antiquity that they diffused their manners, their language, and their arts, in distant colonies. But the adventurous Greek did not pass the limits of the Mediterranean and Black Seas, nor did the Romans, in the zenith of their imperial power, embrace but the half of the area which America, under the lead of her truly great men, is now about to reduce to actual possession.

Miscellany.

GOOD.—The Rochester Union says: "People used to say that Fremont was a Catholic. His refusal to serve under a Pope ought to be sufficient evidence that he is not."

"Pray, sir," said a gentleman to a wag upon a wharf, "what is wood now?"

"Why, trees cut down and chopped up."

A QUESTION OF MANNERS.—As a very pompous academic authority was taking a stroll, he fell in with a boy dragging along a struggling calf by the halter. The boy being too much occupied with his charge to notice the great man, the Doctor addressed him:

"Boy, do you know me?"

"Yees, I does; you be the principal of ——."

"And if you know me, you unmannerly clown, why don't you take off your hat and make your bow to me?"

"So I will, if so be as you will take and hold this ere calf while I does it."

THEY mean to raise tall students in Wisconsin. An exchange says, its Board of Education has resolved to erect a building for the accommodation of five hundred students three stories high!

—Mrs. McDougal, wife of ex-Governor John McDougal, of California, recently died in San Francisco.

—The Hartford Post says that the man who acts as the Breckinridge party in Vermont is to make a convention of himself in July. Last year he was divided on local issues, but he hopes this year to present an unbroken front to the enemy.

—The Charleston Mercury is right in charging that "the people of the Federal States have pursued a grasping policy;" they have grasped the rifle, the sword, and the rebel throat.

—"There, now," cried a little girl while rumaging a drawer in a bureau, "there now, grau'pa, has gone to Heaven without his spectacles."

—Two gentlemen were walking together in Paris; "I will engage," said one to the other, "to give the man before me a good kicking, and yet he shall not be angry." He did as he had undertaken to do. The stranger turned around and looked astonished. "I beg your pardon," said the kicker. "I took you for the Duke de la Tremouille." The duke was very handsome—the man was very plain; he was gratified at the "mistake" under which he believed he had suffered, shook himself, smiled, bowed, and went on his way.

—The author of "Recreations," and of "Leisure Hours in Town," is Mr. Boyd, an Episcopal clergyman of Scotland. His first two volumes were written while rector of a country church; and the latter has been prepared during his leisure while a city pastor. Mr. Boyd has become a regular contributor to the Atlantic Monthly, and several of the best papers in "Leisure Hours" appeared originally in that popular periodical. Among them are "Concerning Veal," "Concerning People of whom more might have been made," "The Sorrows of Childhood," &c. Mr. Boyd is not a deep thinker; is not very metaphysical; is not, in short, a Scottish Scotsman; but in skimming lightly over a subject he gives the reader many creamy thoughts, which one likes to revolve in the mind. We cannot have too many of the genial cogitations of this amiable parson. May Providence prolong his days, and give him many leisure hours in town.

From the Winona Republican, of the 8th.

TERRIBLE CONFLAGRATION IN WINONA.

LARGE PORTION OF THE CITY IN ASHES.

Loss of Property nearly Half a Million

ENTIRE DESTRUCTION OF THE REPUBLICAN OFFICE.

It becomes our melancholy duty to record to-day one of the most disastrous conflragrations which has ever visited the North-West. About three-fourths of the business portion of our city, late so full of activity, hope, and progress, now lies in ruins—a smouldering heap of ashes!

The Fourth of July, the anniversary of the Nation's birth day, had just been celebrated in Winona with great success. There was a very large attendance of people from abroad, and the exercises of the day closed amid a degree of satisfaction and happiness seldom surpassed. Many of our citizens had retired to rest, somewhat fatigued after undergoing the festive labors of the day, while a few prolonged their amusements and hilarity until after the midnight hours. Soon after one o'clock on the morning of the 5th, both the slumberers and those still engaged in the various scenes of amusement were startled by the wild cry of "Fire!" and the simultaneous ringing of alarm bells. On repairing to the spot where the flames proceeded upward, it was discovered that the fire had broken out in the rear of Clapperton's bake-house, on the east side of Centre street, mid-way between Second and Third streets. The fire engines were soon brought out, the hook and ladder company were also promptly on the ground, and the efforts of these, together with the assistance of large numbers of citizens provided with buckets, were at once exerted to extinguish the flames. But the golden moment had passed. The fire had gained such an ascendancy among the compactly built wooden structures—almost as inflammable as tinder—that no human exertion could stay its destructive progress. Yet despite of this, willing hands worked arduously and long, contending against despair as they contended against the fierce and uncontrollable flames, until at length the intense heat drove them back almost exhausted.

The fire swept rapidly down the row of buildings towards the corner of Second and Centre streets, converting into ashes and charred remains everything as it went. In this immediate locality there were perhaps a dozen families, occupying the second and third stories of the burning buildings. These were forced to flee for their lives, and many of them had barely time to escape unhurt—glad to escape thus, though it left them houseless, breadless, and with scarcely enough clothing to cover their nakedness.

Up to this time, about 2 1-2 o'clock, the efforts of the citizens were mainly directed towards confining the fire to the block in which it originated. The wind was blowing a light breeze from the south, but it gradually increased in strength, and changing slightly in direction, forced the flames across Second street, where they were communicated to the buildings on that side. At this juncture, seeing that all attempts to stop the progress of the fire would be unavailable, the owners of property still untouched, but manifestly in danger, generally hastened to save what they might out of the universal destruction which was seen to be impending. And here the scene became one of wild confusion. The unconquerable fiery demon was rushing madly on, overlapping the very streets, thrusting its many forked tongues into everything within its reach, and spreading terror and destruction upon every side. Men and women were rushing hither and thither—some hastily gathering a few of their most valuable goods and effects together, and others clutching their children almost from the jaws of death itself, and conveying them to places of safety.

As the fire progressed, the wind grew stronger, and the flames and burning cinders were swept upwards and around in circling eddies, while the very atmosphere, for many rods in all directions, was insufferably hot. Many were the narrow escapes from death here. Anxious to secure something from the wreck, men, and even women, penetrated through the thick smoke into the burning stores and dwellings, only to be driven back with scorched faces and exhausted bodies. It seems little less than miraculous that we have no loss of life to set down in this sad record of a burning town. Of injuries, although not fatal, or generally serious, there were not a few. Among the worst was perhaps that sustained by Mr. James S. Thompson, a gentleman connected with the office of this paper, who was knocked down by a falling timber, or other heavy body, and taken up from the street in an insensible condition. For a time it was thought that he was dead, but by the application of proper remedies, at the hands of Dr. Cole, he was restored.

About three o'clock the conflagration reached its heighth. Four solid blocks of buildings, composed in great part of wood, were blazing up towards the heavens. Scattered on the streets, and on the levee, were indescribable piles of goods, merchandise, household effects, etc., much of it burning, and yet more spoiled by the process of speedy removal. Wildly shone the lurid light of the conflagration upon the surrounding hills—while dense clouds of smoke, mingled with burning cinders, floated across the river, in whose bosom much of the sad scene transpiring upon its bank was then reflected.

And still the efforts of many noble men to subdue the unrelenting enemy were kept up unabated. The fire had clasped within its destroying embrace all that portion of the city bounded on the north by the river, on the east by Lafayette street, on the south by Third street, and on the west by Main street—comprising four blocks of the most compactly built structures in the place, and quite nine-tenths of its business houses and stocks of merchandise. Here, about the dawn of day, it was at length checked. Constantly repeated applications of water by bucket companies to the various buildings on the west side of Main street, and the east side of Lafayette street, prevented the extension of the fire in either direction. The new block of buildings on the corner of Main and Second streets was for a time in imminent danger, but it was fortunately saved, and with it, all the adjoining structures up to and including Huff's Hotel, which could, only with great difficulty, if at all, have escaped if the fire had succeeded in crossing on Main street.

Thus, in the short space of three or four hours, one hundred and ten buildings were reduced to ashes, a still greater number of persons bereft of their places of business, dwellings, goods, clothing, and effects, and in their stead was left a scene of desolation which no pen can truly describe.

The actual loss of property of all kinds cannot fall much, if any, short of half a million of dollars. Upon this amount of loss there is an insurance of about ninety thousand dollars. We have taken some pains, in the brief time at our command, and under circumstances not very favorable, to obtain a list of the various losses, with the several sums of insurance thereon, and present the result in the table following. It should be understood, however, that this list is far from being complete, and does not embrace, according to the best of our information, much more than two-thirds of the losses sustained. Only those persons from whom we were able to obtain something like accurate information are included in the following record of losses:

Letter from Lieut. Col. Miller.

HEADQUARTERS FIRST MINNESOTA REG'T.,
CAMP LINCOLN, NEAR RICHMOND,
VIRGINIA, June 25, 1862.

I am pained to observe by my copy of your journal of the 18th instant, that I am represented as "now at Harrisburg, Pennsylvania."

I have not been near or at the city for almost six months, and have never been absent a day from this regiment since I became connected with the army, unless in case of severe indisposition or upon military duty; nor have I ever for a moment entertained the idea of changing my residence from Minnesota.

Please make the proper correction and much oblige

Very respectfully yours,
STEPHEN MILLER.

BUSINESS LOCALS.

JULY—PIMPLES AND SKIN DISEASES are the result of impure blood. The blood becomes thick and clogged. The skin is not able to cast off the impurities so important to health. How many young men and women we see with their faces covered with pimples and blotches, who are endeavoring to remove them by the use of soaps and washes of various kinds. This is very dangerous and should never be practised by persons desirous of good health. Mothers who have children afflicted with sores and eruptions, should never dry them up by external applications, for in this way they will drive in the humors and produce ill health for the child during its whole life time. There is no mother that likes to see her children afflicted with feeble health.

Judson's Mountain Herb Pills are prepared expressly for the cure of eruptions of the skin, such as Pimples, Blotches &c. They cleanse the blood of all impurities, producing a beautiful, clear and healthy skin, so much admired by all people of taste and refinement.

LAND FOR SALE OR EXCHANGE.—1,080 acres in Mower County, well adapted for sheep and stock, low for cash, or for good unencumbered property in St. Paul, or a farm in its vicinity. Address box 1819, St. Paul Post Office. nov3

EYE & EAR.
DR. UNDERWOOD,
Of Chicago, Ill., the eminent and skilful operator on the Eye and Ear, whose name and fame is so extensively known throughout the United States, for his science, skill and success in performing formidable operations, and in removing difficult and dangerous diseases from those delicate organs, has arrived in St. Paul and may be consulted at the AMERICAN HOUSE for a short time only.
Dr. U., who is a regular Physician and Surgeon of the old school, has had an extensive experience in both hospital and private practice of twenty-eight years, and will be found competent to perform any operation necessary to restore lost sight or hearing, or by other mild and gentle means to remove any disease from those delicate organs within the reach of science and human skill.
CHRONIC DISEASES, of every grade and character, whether requiring medical or surgical treatment, POSITIVELY and PERMANENTLY CURED, when not clearly beyond the reach of science and human skill.
Dr. Underwood treats all diseases on regular and scientific principles as recognized by the medical profession both in Europe and America, and hence does not use or deal in those pretended new and never failing remedies—specifics, inhaling vapors, and clairvoyant prescriptions—which are so ostentatiously paraded before the public by those impudent traveling quacks and money-fleecing empirics, nine-tenths of whom never were inside of a medical college. Patients afflicted or laboring under diseases of long standing, can consult Dr. U. with the most confident hope and expectation of being perfectly cured, or receiving with unerring certainty all the relief that the highest skill, the most judicious and scientific treatment can possibly bestow.
Among the diseases which the Doctor has lately treated with the most signal success, may be mentioned those of the Heart, Lungs, Liver, Stomach and Bowels—and Nervous Affections, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Salt Rheum and Chronic Female Affections. my7-3m

DIVIDENDS ON CAPITAL LIMITED BY ITS CHARTER TO SEVEN PER CENT. PER ANNUM—THE ENTIRE PROFITS GO TO THE POLICY HOLDERS.

This Society was organized in the year 1859, with a cash capital of $100,000 deposited irrevocably with the Insurance Department of the State of New York, in United States bonds, on which it allows but seven per cent. per annum to the stockholders, and the entire profits of the business is shared by the policy holders. The nett profits in two years amounts to $329,000, which shows an unparalleled success in the history of Life Insurance. Its operations are managed by a Board of Directors composed of the the ablest business men of the country, and its business is conducted entirely on the cash plan. Dividends to the policy holders will be made every five years, and no Company in the country offers equal advantages to its dealers.

HOME

NEW YORK.

Extract from Third Annual Report of the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of New York. WM. BARNES, Superintendent.

There are now ninety-five joint stock fire insurance companies incorporated by the State of New York, engaged in the transaction of business; of these companies, fourteen only received premiums during the last year, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars; four only received premiums above the sum of two hundred thousand dollars, and the premium income of one only exceeded three hundred thousand dollars. The premium receipts of this Company, the HOME, with a capital of $1,000,000, were $529,093.33. The premium income of thirty of the smaller companies was $851,578.65 only, with capitals, however, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $4,000,092.

The state of things should be improved; the premium income of the mass of our fire insurance companies is by far too small for their capitals, and inadequate to the proper support of a separate and independent corporation. The experience of the HOME, PHOENIX, (of Brooklyn) and some other companies, has demonstrated that, with proper skill, tact and sagacity, business can be increased and managed to an indefinite extent, with entire safety, and even additional security to the company. We have now the machinery and organization in working order for nearly one hundred joint stock fire insurance companies. In the course of a few years their business can be safely doubled, and even quadrupled, without doubling or quadrupling the yearly expenses. Any considerable expansion of business must of course be mainly effected through the instrumentality of reliable, safe, and well managed agencies. The premium income of the HOME amounts to nearly one-eighth part that of the ninety-five companies combined, so that eight corporations like the HOME could conduct the entire business of all these companies. If each company transacted the same amount of business as the HOME the aggregate premium income would reach the enormous amount of over seventy-eight millions of dollars per year. Our companies are not too numerous for the great future of this country, if managed on the progressive scale demanded by the spirit of the American people.

The annual statement of this our foremost local fire and inland company, made up to the first of January last, shows a condition of such positive strength and prosperity as to challenge unqualified admiration. In a circular accompanying the statement, subscribed by Charles J. Martin, President, A. F. Wilmarth, Vice President, and John McGee, Secretary, those well accredited officers very justly say: "The well-known reputation of the HOME for fair and honorable dealing, together with its capital of one million dollars, and surplus of over half a million in addition, all well invested, commend it to the special favor of all who desire reliable protection in the way of insurance, either fire or inland."

This is not saying one word too much for their company. The HOME is the crack company of our State, in high credit all over the Union, worked upon a comprehensive plan, and managed with admirable skill and efficiency. The assets of the HOME on the first of January last summed up to $1,521,268.08, against an actual liability of only $55,080.43; and, moreover, it is worth nothing that the assets are all of the very first class. The balance in bank in cash was $124,434.14, very nearly enough to set up an ordinary company; bonds and mortgages $910,295.35, secured on real estate worth $1,715,900, and then government and other stocks, equivalent to cash and convertible into cash any day, $329,636. Any one not satisfied with the security of the HOME as an insurance institution, must be hard to please.

In 1861 the HOME wrote $106,715,148, taking $829,993 premium, and paid losses $335,775, including some losses for the year 1860. A dividend of ten per cent. was paid on the million capital; and after reserving an ample reinsurance fund, the company shows a "nett surplus" of $160,644 clear over capital and all claims, actual or possible, practical or theoretical.

The HOME is a good "testimony" in all places to the enterprise, energy and progress of the city of New York.

MILLS,

SITUATED ON PHALON'S CREEK, WHERE THE STILLWATER ROAD CROSSES.

This Mill is just completed, and is in good running order. Our machinery embraces all the latest improvements, and was got up in the East, without regard to expense. It has two run of Burrs, which will be kept running night and day, so that farmers coming from a distance can be accommodated without much delay.

The need of a first class Mill of this kind has long been felt by the citizens of St. Paul and vicinity. We have secured the services of James Craigie, who has made milling the business of his life, and in whom we can place entire confidence.

All kinds of grain will be weighed when brought to the Mill, and also when taken away, if desired. We feel confident in saying to the public that we can make as good Flour and as great a yield to the bush

THE CITY.

WRITING LESSONS.—Prof. Holcombe's first "Dollar Writing Class" commenced yesterday afternoon. He has a fine class already, and room for as many more.

POOR EXPENSES.—The Overseer of the Poor for this county, reports that the amount of money expended by him for the support of the Poor during the months of April, May and June, was $786.35.

RIPE CURRANTS are now very plenty in market at from 10 to 12 1-2 cents per quart. When bought in large quantities they can be had for about 6 1-4 cents. So says Dr. Jarvis.

PIC NIC.—The children of the Catholic Sunday school in this city went on a pic nic excursion yesterday morning in the woods west of the cemetery. We guess they had a good time of it; that is, if they got all the good things eaten before the shower came up.

SALARIES.—The Commissioners have fixed the salary of the County Attorney for the present year at $800, in cash, and the salaries of the turnkeys of the jail are established at one dollar per day each, "in cash or its equivalent."

SCHOOL LAND APPRAISERS.—The State Auditor has appointed Peter Berkey on the part of the State as appraiser of School Lands in Ransey County. The County Commissioners, at their session on Saturday, appointed P. P. Furber, of the First Ward, and H. J. Brainard, of New Canada, on the part of the County, as required by the act of 1862, relating thereto.

TEACHERS OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—The following teachers have been designated by the Board of Education for the Public Schools for the ensuing year:

BLACKWOOD'S MAGAZINE.—We have received from the American publishers, Leonard Scott & Co., of New York, their reprint of the June number of Blackwood. The contents are: The New Exhibition; Mrs. Petherick's African Journal; Caxtoniana part 5, No. vii, on Rythm in Prose as conducive to precision and clearness, No. viii, on Style and Diction; Six Weeks in a Tower; The Life of Edward Irving; Chronicles of Carlingford—Solemn Chapel—part 5; Our Annual Deficits; Who Planned the Monitor?—A Letter from a Baltimorean, who tries to prove that Capt. Cole, and not Capt. Eriesson, is entitled to the credit of the Monitor.

THE Winona Republican speaks thus cheerfully of the prospects of that place, notwithstanding the dreadful calamity which has so nearly overwhelmed them:

"The business men of Winona, who suffered so terribly by the recent fire, though somewhat disheartened, are not entirely cast down. Many of them are already making preparations to rebuild, and before many weeks shall have elapsed, the town will measurably recover its former elasticity, hope, and activity."

"It is a serious and a practical question whether the City Council should not entirely prohibit the erection of wooden buildings on the district lately burned over. We have not the time to discuss this subject now, but merely suggest that the matter be taken into immediate and careful consideration. Experience has taught us a sad lesson. Shall we not profit by it?"

FOURTH OF JULY AT WINONA.—"Time and circumstances," says the Winona Republican, "will not permit us to describe in a suitable manner the celebration of the Fourth in Winona, which was so successfully conducted, but which was followed by so disastrous events. There was a very large concourse of people from abroad, among whom were the Pioneer Fire Company of La Crosse. The oration by JOHN B. BRISBIN, Esq., of St. Paul, on the life and character of Washington, was a very fine production. A speech was also delivered by S. S. BEEMAN, Esq., of Saratoga—fiery, eloquent, and characteristic. The various proceedings closed with a pyrotechnic display, which would have been considered quite magnificent had not the sorrowful yet sublime scene of fire which soon after burst upon the astonished view of our people, almost effaced its appearance from their memories."

ST. PAUL ART.—As a usual thing we do not expect to find in the newer Western cities the skill and perfection attained in art in the older and wealthier cities of the Eastern States. An exception however, is certainly to be made in favor of St. Paul in the Photographic Art. This fact has been brought to mind by the circumstance of our having received an order from a populous and wealthy city of the East, for copies of photographs executed at the Gallery of J. E. Whitney. During annual visits East, we have had opportunity to compare family pictures taken by Mr. Whitney with pictures taken by the best artists in the city we visited, and it has been admitted by all that Mr. Whitney's pictures were much superior. Indeed not excelled by artists of the highest reputation in the country. So decidedly superior have our friends regarded his pictures that they have sent old pictures of deceased friends to be copied and reproduced by Mr. W., convinced by what they have seen of his work in that line he excelled their own eastern artists.

We publish this fact not at the solicitation of Mr. Whitney—not even with his knowledge, but as a fact which should be known to the credit of St. Paul Art.

THE ROAD IMPROVEMENT IN WEST ST. PAUL.—Work was stopped on the road across the bottom connecting the bluff with the end of the bridge in West St. Paul two or three days ago. The slow manner in which this much desired work has been progressing has been the cause of much complaint. A few days ago the Engineer in charge of the work gave the contractors notice that if they didn't hurry up the job faster the city would charge them damages.

It is said that the men have now struck for higher wages, and that the contractors have thereupon stopped the work, expecting to resume a gain after harvest when men will work cheaper. A meeting of the City Council was held on Monday with reference to this matter, in which the Mayor vetoed the resolution making the last appropriation to the contractors, and a committee was appointed to confer with them in regard to the speedy recommencement.

We learn the contractors complain that if they are compelled to go on with the work now at the advanced wages, they will be heavy losers; but this is a matter they should have considered when they took the job. As long as the city keeps its faith with them, this pretext will avail them nothing. After all the expense the city has been to in opening this road thus far, it will not do to have the work stopped; and if the present contractors will not finish the job, the public will demand its re-letting, and a forfeiture of the money due upon the same. Therefore, Messrs. Nash and Branch, "hurry up."

SUPREME COURT DECISION.—The Judges of the Supreme Court have filed with the Clerk of that body for publication, in accordance with the law of 1862, the syllabus of their decision in the following described case:

State of Minnesota, Supreme Court,—The LEtna Insurance Company, appellant, vs. William Grube, respondent.

A jury were sent out with permission to seal up their verdict when agreed upon, and separate. Ten of the Jurors had agreed for the defendant, two entertained different views. In order to be liberated they drew up a verdict for the defendant, and the two who did not agree to it, voted for it under protest, avowed the fact, and upon being again asked if it was their verdict, one assented to it, and the other refused so to do. They were sent out again, and finally agreed upon a verdict for the defendant. Held, that the fact of one juror having entirely changed his views while out of the jury room and separated from his fellows, was strong ground for suspicion of abuse, and that improper influences were exerted upon him. Also, that a juror has not the right to make up his verdict apart from and unaided by the light of consultation and agreement with his fellows; that a jury is composed of twelve men, and does not admit of separate and individual action and decision.

Where it is stipulated in a policy of insurance against fire, that the same is made and accepted in reference to conditions annexed, which are to be used and resorted to in order to explain the rights and obligations of the parties, and one of the conditions is, that if the policy is made and issued upon a survey and description of the property insured, such survey and description shall be taken and deemed to be a part and portion of such policy and warranty on the part of the assured. Held that a written application signed by the assured containing a survey and description of the property was a warranty of the truth of such survey and description, and not a mere representation; and that if the survey and description were false, no recovery could be had upon the policy. That in cases of warranty the parties stipulate the materiality of the matter warranted, and cut off all inquiry concerning it. It must be true or there is no contract. That a representation may be untrue and a recovery be had upon the policy if its falsity is not material to the risk, which is always open to inquiry. But where the application contains the stipulation that the matters stated therein are a "just and true exposition of all facts and circumstances in regard to the condition, situation and value of the property to be insured so far as the same are known to the applicant, and material to the risk," the warranty is qualified, and it becomes the duty of the company to show the materiality of any variances from the facts stated as they would in case of representations. The effect and extent of the warranty must in all cases be governed by the manner in which the facts are stated in the contract.

RIVER ITEMS.—The only arrivals yesterday were the War Eagle, from Dunleith, Keokuk, from La Crosse, and Antelope, from Carver.

The departures were the Milwaukee, for Dunleith, Northern Belle, for La Crosse, and Antelope, for Carver.

The Antelope brought down a barge having 545 sacks of wheat for E. & H. G. Bell, and 100 sacks of potatoes.

The Key City is the down packet this morning for Dunleith, and the Keokuk for La Crosse.

The river is falling quite fast, so that boats coming up yesterday had considerable difficulty getting over the bar at Pig's Eye.

AN ESTABLISHED REPUTATION.—The only way manufacturers can establish a durable, an enviable reputation for their products, is by making a superior article, wanted by the public, and then by scrupulous care in keeping it up to the highest standard of excellence. This reputaiton the firm of D. B. DeLand & Co., at Fairport, Monroe county, New York, established for the manufacture of Chemical Saleratus, pure as the snow flakes, and just the articles for light bread and biscuit. And this reputation they still maintain, as their Saleratus is always the same and always approved. They sell at wholesale to dealers, and it is sold at retail almost everywhere in the United States. For sale by all wholesale grocers in Chicago and Milwaukee. d&w1t.

ANOTHER ADDITION.—The proprietors of the Merchant's Hotel yesterday made a contract for the building of another addition to their fine hotel. This addition comprises a building 20 by 30 feet, so constructed as to materially enlarge the dining room, thus providing for the rapidly increasing patronage which this hotel enjoys.

PERSONS desirous of purchasing the best Sewing Machine extant, are invited to call at the Winslow House parlor and examine the "Florence," which is on exhibition there. d1t

Legal Notices.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE SALE.—DEFAULT has been made in the payment of the sum of seven hundred and eighty three dollars, which amount is claimed to be due and is due at the date of this notice, upon that certain mortgage executed, acknowledged and delivered by John Wesley Bond and Johanna A. H. Bond, his wife, of Ramsey county, Territory (now State) of Minnesota, to Lowman Hawes, of Bloomington, (late of Madison), State of Indiana, and which bears date August twentieth, (20th,) A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty-seven (1857) and was given to secure the payment of six hundred and twenty-four dollars and twenty-five cents ($624.25), in one year from the date thereof, and interest thereon, and was duly recorded at three and a half (3½) of the clock, in the afternoon on the twenty-seventh (27th) day of August, in said year (1857), as a mortgage, in Book "D" of mortgages, pages three hundred and three (303) and three hundred and four (304), in the Registry of Deeds of said Ramsey county.

And the said Lowman Hawes, mortgagee, has duly paid the taxes upon the land therein described as lying in the said county of Ramsey, for for the years 1858, 1859, 1860 and 1861, and all interest and charges thereon, and has the receipt of the treasurer of the said county of Ramsey therefor, and the amount so paid and the interest thereon, at the date of this notice, is twenty-eight and fifty-two one-hundredth dollars, $28.52) and claims an additional lien on the said land in the county of Ramsey, for the same; and no proceedings at law or in equity have been had to collect the said mortgage debt or any part of the same.

And whereas, said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, deceased and died intestate on the eleventh (11th) day of February, A. D. 1861, and upon due application, Mary Hawes, of Madison, in the county of Jefferson, State of Indiana, was on the eleventh (11th) day of April, A. D. 1861, duly appointed administratrix of the estate, &c., of said Lowman Hawes, deceased by the Court of Common Pleas, being also a Court of Probate, of said county of Jefferson, and letters of administration have been duly issued to her out of said Court, as administratrix of said estate; an authenticated copy of the said letters of administration and appointment are now on file in the Probate Court in and for the county of Ramsey, in the State of Minnesota.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that under and pursuant to a power of sale, in said mortgage contained, authorizing and empowering the said mortgagee, Lowman Hawes, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, to make sale of the premises therein described upon default being made in the conditions of the said mortgage, and under and pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, the premises described in said mortgage, as follows, to wit: the south half (½) of the southeast quarter (¼) of section thirty-one (31) in township thirty (30) north of range twenty-three (23) west, lying and being in the county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota; also the southeast quarter (¼) of section two (2), in township thirty-two (32) north, of range twenty-one (21) west, lying and being in the county of Washington and State of Minnesota, with the tenements, hereditaments and appurtenances belonging, or in anywise appertaining to the said tracts, will be sold at public auction, to the highest bidder or bidders, for cash, by the Sheriff of said county of Ramsey, at the front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Paul, in said county, at ten (10) of the clock in the forenoon, on Saturday, the sixteenth (16th) day of August, A. D. 1862, to pay said debt, taxes and interest and costs allowed by law.

Dated Saint Paul, Minn., July 1st, 1862.

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE AND MORTGAGE SALE.

Name of Mortgagee—John H. McAllister, of Harrisburg, Pa.

Mortgage dated and acknowledged—June seventh, A. D. one th a and eight hundred and fifty nine (1859.)

Mortgage recorded—June eighth, A. D. one thousand eight hundred and fifty nine at 10 o'clock, A. M. in the office of the register of Deeds in Ramsey county, Minnesota, in Book D of Mortgages at pages 101 and 102.

Description of mortgaged premises—lots one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), nineteen (19), twenty (20) seventeen (17) and twenty two (22), of Dousman, Brunson, Brisbin and Ramsey's subdivision of part of lot number four (4) according to the recorded plat thereof on file in the office of the Register of Deeds, of said county of Ramsey, situate and being in the county of Ramsey and State of Minnesota.

"$2,500 St. Paul, Minn., June 7, 1859.

"One year after date, for value received, I promise to pay to the order of John H. McAllister, twenty-seven hundred dollars, at the Harrisburg Bank, Harrisburg, Penn., with interest thereon, payable semi-annually, at the rate of ten per cent. per annum.

"A. VANCE BROWN."

The interest on said note has been paid and received up to March first, A. D. 1862.

The amount claimed to be due upon said mortgage at the date of this notice, to wit, May 12, A. D. 1862, and now actually due thereon, is the sum of two thousand five hundred and thirty dollars (2,530.)

Default having been made in the conditions of said mortgage, by the non-payment of the money thereby secured, and no proceedings at law or in equity, having been instituted to recover said mortgage debt or any part thereof:

Notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed, and that the said mortgaged premises will be sold at public vendue, at the front door of the Court House in the city of St. Paul, county of Ramsey, and State of Minnesota, on the third day of July, A. D., one thousand eight hundred and sixty two, (1862) at two o'clock, P. M., by the Sheriff of said county, to the highest bidder for cash, to pay said mortgage debt with costs and legal charges.

On reading and filing the petition of Edward Webb, Administrator of said estate, setting forth the amount of personal estate, the amount of debts, and a description of the real estate of which said deceased died seized, and the condition and value thereof, and praying that license be to him granted to sell the whole of said real estate; and it appearing by said petition that there is not sufficient personal estate in the hands of said Administrator to pay said debts, and that it is necessary, in order to pay the same, to sell the whole of said real estate. It is therefore ordered that all persons interested in said estate appear before the Judge of this Court on the 5th day of August, 1862, at ten o'clock A. M., at the office of the Judge of Probate, then and there to show cause, if any there be, why license should not be granted to said Administrator to sell said real estate.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published for four successive weeks, prior to said day of hearing, in the Saint Paul PRESS, a newspaper published at Saint Paul, Ramsey county. R. F. CROWELL, je24-d3w Tues Judge of Probate.

SHERIFF'S SALE.—BY VIRTUE of an execution issued out of and under the seal of the District Court of the Second Judicial District, in the county of Ramsey and State of Minnesota, upon a judgment and decree rendered in said Court on the seventeenth day of May, A. D. 1862, and docketed on the seventeenth day of May, 1862, in said county of Ramsey, in an action in said Court pending, wherein Ira Bidwell is plaintiff, and Darwin C. Sandall, Jno. Randall, Elisha D. Randall, Herman Bergman, Mary Bergman, Andrew J. Levering, and Wm. H. Morton are defendants, in favor of said plaintiff for the sum of six thousand eight hundred and eighty six dollars and sixty six and two-third cents, the same being the amount of plaintiff's lien as vendor on lots number eleven (11) and twelve (12) in block number twenty (20) in Roberts' and Randall's addition to St Paul, in Ramsey County, and State of Minnesota, to sell said real estate so to satisfy said lien with interest from May, 1862, and twenty-two dollars and forty nine cents costs I did on the 9th day of June, 1862, levy upon and take into my possession the said above described real estate.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that on the 28th day of July, 1862, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the front door of the court house in the City of St. Paul, in said county of Ramsey, I will sell the said real estate to the highest bidder for cash according to the statute in such case made and provided, to satisfy said decree and execution, with interest and the costs thereon.

Upon reading and filing the petition of William G. Carter, guardian of said minor, praying for reasons therein set forth that he may be licensed to sell the real estate belonging to the said minor.

It is ordered that Monday, the 7th day of July, 1862, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, at the office of the Judge of Probate, in the city of St. Paul, be assigned for the hearing of the said petition; and that the next of kin of said minor, and all other persons interested in his estate, appear at a session of the Probate Court, then and there to be holden, and show cause, if any there be, why the prayer of the said petitioner should not be granted.

And it is further ordered that the said petitioner give notice to all persons interested in said matter of the pendency of the said petition and the hearing thereof by causing a copy of this order to be published in the St. Paul PRESS, a newspaper in St. Paul, in said Ramsey county, three successive weeks previous to said day of hearing.
